1929 Conference Race.

BY BEN COTHMAN.

The eye-strain at Grant field this afternoon will be something terrible. Twenty-five thousand people will be constantly shifting their vision from the maneuvers of Tech against Notre Dame to the scoreboard and back again. It is that sort of an afternoon.

For while Tech is making an effort to dethrone the Irish Express, just as it did last year, Vanderbilt has Alabama on its hands up in Nashville and Lexington, Ky., is exceedingly agitated over the meeting of two unbeaten conference teams, Kentucky and Clemson.

Tulane continued its exciting rush through conference games by overpowering Georgia at Columbus Friday, 21 to 15, and that will furnish much talk between touchdowns. Tulane, by virtue of its victory, is right up there with Tennessee.

Important Games.

The games at Nashville and Lexington, however, will have much to do with this top-heavy race for 1929 conference honors.

Vanderbilt, carefully prepared by Colonel Dan McGugin, is playing the first of three big conference games. For after this Alabama affair, the Commodore engages Tech and Tennessee.

Alabama has one black mark on its record. The Tide rolled into Knoxville two weeks ago this very day, and was defeated by Tennessee, spinning Monk Campbell and the hard-driving Suther were not among those on the field. They were injured. The injuries have healed, the lads are ready to go, and things have taken on a different aspect for Alabama.

Vanderbilt will counter with a line much lighter than Alabama's mountainous forwards. This lighter line, though, is agile. And an agile Tennessee line outwashed the Alabamians. Colonel McGugin has himself a backfield that rates along with the south's finest. "Mouse" Leonard is a Bill Spears sort of quarterback and a fine triple threat man. It will be a great battle at Nashville and should Vanderbilt win the conference situation will resemble more than ever a scrambled egg.

Battle of Giants.

At Lexington they are prepared for a battle of giants. Lines of the two teams weigh in at 135 pounds worth of beef for each man and the backfield compare favorably at 170. Kentucky has the shade in weight but Clemson seems to possess a more versatile backfield.

In Clemson's backfield is a stocky young man named Justus who does amazing things with the football. He throws and catches passes. The way he sips and zooms off the tackles is something that football coaches dream about. When Justus is in the game, Clemson is almost unbeatable. He is surrounded by Podewitz, McCarty and McMillan, all of them excellent backs. Clemson has won six football games and seems inclined to keep on winning. It faces a hard hurdle, however, in Kentucky.

Other games involving conference teams will be watched. Florida is tackling fair Harvard at Cambridge; North Carolina and North Carolina State tangle at Chapel Hill; V. M. I. breathes with Davidson before meeting Clemson and Tennessee plays Auburn. It looks like a whirlwind afternoon.

Experts on Games for Constitution

Ed Danforth, Ralph McGill and Grantland Rice—these three writers of vivid, colorful football stories will be at three major games today to report them for readers of The Sunday Constitution.

Ralph McGill, staff writer, will describe the happenings in Grant field when Georgia Tech battles the famous Irishmen from Notre Dame.

Ed Danforth, sports editor, is in Nashville to report the feature conference battle between Vanderbilt and Alabama. Both these teams are foes of Georgia Tech on the next two Saturdays.

Grantland Rice will cover exclusively for The Constitution the Yale-Dartmouth game. In addition Frank B. Hoover, of the Lexington Herald, will cover the Kentucky-Clemson game in which one or the other of these undefeated teams will tumble out of the race.

FALL, SENTENCED, CLAIMS INNOCENCE

Judge Gives Convicted Former Cabinet Member Year in Prison, $100-000 Fine.

Washington, November 1.—(P)—Albert B. Fall was sentenced to a year in jail and fined $100,000 today for accepting a bribe of $100,000 as secretary of the interior for awarding a lease to the Elk Hills naval oil reserve to his California friend, Edward L. Doheny.

The sentence was tempered with mercy as had been recommended by the jury, Justice William Hitz permitted Fall to remain on $5,000 bond pending appeal, and announced that if the jail sentence were to be carried out at this time he would have suspended it because of Fall's ill health.

A short while later at his hotel, the 65-year-old invalid issued his first public statement concerning his part in the oil leases, he asked the American people not to "believe me guilty of the damnable crime of which I am innocent."

The lengthy statement said he was moved to break his long silence "by a deep desire to vindicate the faith of those who have loved, honored or trusted me."

Short Session.

Sentencing of the former cabinet officer required only a few minutes. Frank J. Hogan, his chief counsel, presented the arguments on two motions—one for arrest of judgment and one to set aside the conviction. He based his argument on the court releasing a woman juror after the jury had been accepted by both sides, the introduction of testimony concerning payment of $250,000 to Fall's cattle company by Harry F. Sinclair after Sinclair's company had been granted a lease to the Wyoming oil reserve in the report of Doheny.

Justice Hitz, in imposing sentence, said that Fall had been in good health when he was indicted and that he would have imposed the full penalty of $300,000 and three years in jail. The justice ordered it entered in the record that if he were on the bench and Fall later appeared for retrial, he would suspend the jail sentence because of the defendant's state of health.

Astonished at Verdict.

"Words cannot express my astonishment at the recent verdict of the jury holding me guilty," Fall said in his statement. "I am innocent and that the record clearly proves it."

"It seems that one strong man on the jury was able in the secrecy of the jury room to turn the jury against me by arguments that were unjust and unfair. Whether he intended it or not, the trial judge in many ways conveyed to the jury his belief that I should be convicted and this argument was used in the jury room with ruinous effect against me."

Fall reviewed the charges that he had accepted the bribe to influence him to award the Pearl Harbor contract and the Elk Hills lease to Doheny, and said his efforts to protect the nation's oil reserves were not one nor the other of the charges that I was disloyal or dishonest as secretary of the interior and as a member of President Harding's cabinet.

Fall denounced "the attempt to convict me of bribery" and said: "I have committed no grave errors, first, putting myself under obligation, and secondly, trying to hide it by an untruth. If I alone had suffered the consequences of my act I could depart in peace."

Commissioner Named.

West Palm Beach, Fla., November 1.—(P)—Robert L. Earnest, West Palm Beach attorney, today was appointed United States commissioner by Judge Halsted L. Ritter, of United States district court at Miami.

Letters From Southern Tariff Association Official Startle Senate Lobby Investigators.

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

Washington, D. C., November 1.—(Special.)—Efforts of the Southern Tariff Association to have southern senators change their position on the pending tariff bill by bringing political pressure to bear and otherwise were brought out at an illuminating, if not sensational session of the senate lobby investigating committee today.

The committee headed by Senator T. H. Caraway, of Arkansas, devoted the entire hearing to an examination of J. A. Arnold, vice president of the association, who was brought under seething fire for the methods he employed in seeking to force several senators to vote for the defeated flexible provision, which President Hoover supported vigorously in a public statement at the time.

Arnold, active head of the southern tariff body in Washington for a number of years, was sharply questioned about numerous personal letters he had written representatives in the southern states recently, urging them to build political fires under their senators with a view of having them support the flexible and industrial features of the bill in return for administrative help in putting through agricultural rates bearing generally on the south but particularly on Florida.

President Hoover himself was injected into the hearing when Senator R. J. Walsh, of Montana, one of the members of the investigating committee, read a letter to Arnold from G. S. Fletcher, of Miami, president of the Florida East Coast Growers Association, in which he said that "if things come to where they are rocking up there I will come up and see my friend Hoover again and make them all be good, as I am in receipt of a letter from the White House, showing that I am still in line."

Promises Vote Delivery.

In the same letter the Miami man promised that he felt "safe in saying he would be able to 'deliver' the vote of Senator Duncan U. Fletcher, of Florida, adding that "there was news from Washington that Senator Fletcher (Senator Fletcher) now holds that had a larger and hotter fire built under him. He said he would just have to handle the matter and the more he kicks, the more he will work."

The Miami man's letter had been written in response to one by Arnold emphasizing the importance of having Senator Park Trammell, of Florida, as well as Senator Fletcher, vote for the flexible provision, giving the president the right to raise or lower duties 50 per cent after preliminary hearings by the federal tariff commission.

In fact, practically all of the correspondence between Arnold and the lobby committee today stressed the urgency of measures designed to overcome the opposition of southern senators to the tariff bill as a whole.

In one letter written by Arnold, Georgia was referred to as the "second softest spot" in the southern section to work upon. Alabama being given first honors. The substance of his explanation, made upon demands of Senator Walsh, was that the industrial needs of the state rendered the two Georgia senators more susceptible to influence in favor of the tariff bill than those of all others, save Alabama.

Florida Senators Described.

Still another letter, written to Arnold by Lorenzo A. Wilson, of Jacksonville, who is identified with the Florida branch of the Southern Tariff Association, referred to Senator Fletcher as a "traitor" in connection with the fight over the flexible clause and general provisions of the bill.

On the other hand, Wilson, after saying, "Trammell will come along nicely," characterized the junior Floridian as a "soft spot."

POLISHED MARBLE DUTY IS INCREASED HUNDRED PER CENT

Washington, November 1.—(Special.)—The senate today approved an amendment to the pending tariff bill having a direct bearing on an important Georgia industry.

Through the insistence of Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia, the finance committee, later expressed the hope that the new provision will aid producers of Georgia marble, one of the finest mined in the country.

Called To Testify Wednesday To Accusations That Congressmen Are Guilty of Drinking.

Washington, November 1.—(United News.)—Charges of drinking by members of congress appeared slated for official investigation tonight when District Attorney Leo Rover issued a subpoena for Senator Brookhart, republican, Iowa, to appear before a grand jury here next Wednesday.

Brookhart has been summoned, it is understood, in connection with the story he related to the senate recently of a senatorial dinner here in 1926 at which he said liquor was dispensed in flasks.

"I will be there and I will tell all I know," Brookhart said tonight. He explained he had not yet received the subpoena, which was issued late today.

The grand jury investigation comes as the climax of repeated charges of drinking among members of congress, including some who are politically dry, to which attention was directed anew only yesterday when George Cassidy, known locally as "the man in the green hat," an alleged bootlegger, was arrested on the steps of the senate office building. He was carrying a bottle said to contain whisky. Over 250 quarts of assorted brands later were confiscated at his home. Cassidy was arrested four years ago following a visit to the house office building.

Brookhart related his story after President Hoover had called upon Senator Howell, republican, Nebraska, to substantiate charges he had made that bootlegging was common in the District of Columbia. The Iowa senator offered at that time to go before a grand jury and tell what he knew, but his offer had not been taken up until tonight. The incident apparently was forgotten.

It was the general belief that Brookhart's story would do no more to bring an investigation than numerous others in recent years. Threats to name members who vote dry and drink have been made on the floor, but "senatorial courtesy" always has prevented it.

Brookhart's story had to do with a dinner to newly elected and re-elected senators given, he said, by "Mr. Fahey," whom Brookhart called a "Wall Street man." Walter Fahey, well known here, declined to comment on the incident at his office in New York. The Iowa senator cited the incident as an example of what he calls "the social lobby."

If such liquor was passed about in flasks under the table, Brookhart reminded Senator Smoot, Utah, that he had attended the dinner. Smoot recalled the dinner, but explained he did not drink there, and had not seen any liquor. The Iowa senator named no one else who was present.

Apparently, the senate itself intends to do nothing about the alleged bootlegger who was arrested as he was about to enter the senate office building. The report caused no excitement in the senate today. Senators Jones, republican, Washington, author of the "five and ten" law, and Norris, republican, Nebraska, chairman of the judiciary committee, said there was no evidence to indicate the liquor was intended for a senator and they saw nothing to be done.

"I hope next time the police will let the bootlegger deliver the liquor in order that we may find who in the senate office building is patronizing this bootlegger," Norris said.

"I told you they were selling liquor here," Senator Blease, democrat, South Carolina, said. "Why don't they get the order to search the capitol dome and the one over in the house office building? Why do they pick on the senate office building?"

Blease, who is dry politically, has attracted attention by his admission that he drinks occasionally.

BINGHAM REBUKE BY SENATE SOUGHT

Norris Sponsors Scathing Resolution of Censure for Connecticut Solon; Asks Vote on Monday.

Washington, November 1.—(P)—A stiffly-worded resolution of condemnation of Senator Bingham, republican, Connecticut, was put before the senate today by Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, who will ask a vote on it tomorrow or Monday.

The resolution was introduced by the Nebraska senator after the Connecticut senator sent word today to intermeddlers that "I have nothing to apologize for." He sat silent, head resting on a hand, as Norris stood before him in the chamber and proposed the first resolution of its kind to be submitted in the senate in 27 years.

The resolution reads:

"That the action of the senator."

First Killing Frost of Fall Is Due Nov. 7

Gridiron warriors of Tech and Notre Dame may be forced to play their annual conflict under adverse weather conditions, according to the official forecast of C. F. von Herrmann, meteorologist, who states that there is still a chance for showers and that temperatures will show little change.

"We won't be able to stop predicting rain until next week," he stated Friday.

Friday's range was from 64 to 73 and today's extremes are expected to be in the neighborhood of 60 and 75.

With the arrival of November and the start of the winter season, as figured from the calendar, the question of frosts and the advent of cold weather were the basis of a little research into past records of the weather bureau Friday afternoon. This revealed that while light frosts were recorded here last month on four consecutive days, October 23 through October 26, inclusive, the first killing frost of the year is yet to make an appearance here.

This, as bureau officials pointed out, is just as it should be on the basis of past performances along this line, since the average date of the first killing frost of the fall season is November 7. Mr. von Herrmann is not given to long-distance forecasting and merely says that there is a chance for this phenomenon to run true to form this year.

Last year the first killing frost was registered November 21, the first heavy frost November 5, and the first light frost October 25. Frosts so far

MINNESOTA MAN TO HEAD DRY UNIT

G. Aaron Youngquist Native of Sweden, Is Named to Succeed Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt.

BY JAMES L. WEST.

Washington, November 1.—(P)—G. Aaron Youngquist, attorney-general of Minnesota, is to take over the prohibition enforcement post in the department of justice which Mabel Walker Willebrandt held for eight years.

Announcement of the selection of Mr. Youngquist, who is a native of Sweden, was made today at the White House in a statement prepared by the department of justice and describing the new assistant attorney-general as "dry politically and personally."

The appointment of Mr. Youngquist gives the control of making the dry laws effective largely to Minnesotans. Attorney-General Mitchell and James M. Doran, the prohibition commissioner, are from that state. Also, the prohibitory law was written by another Minnesotan, Andrew J. Volstead, a former representative.

Besides these three high posts in the Hoover administration, sons of the Gopher state also hold four others. They are Arch Coleman, first assistant postmaster-general; W. F. Schilling, dairying representative on the farm board; Walter Newton, administrative assistant to President Hoover, and George Akerson, secretary to the president.

Youngquist will be in charge of enforcing the income tax and narcotic laws as well as prohibition. The White House statement emphasized the appointee's experience in tax matters in these two sentences:

"Has a wide experience in the district courts and supreme court of Minnesota and has represented the state of Minnesota in important tax cases in the supreme court. His wide experience in tax litigation qualifies him for supervising the important tax litigation of the government."

There were only four words on the prohibition side: "Dry politically and personally."

If You Love a Story That Pulls at Your Heartstrings—

Then do not fail to read Mark Hellenger's ABOUT BROADWAY in tomorrow's Constitution Magazine.

He tells, as only he could tell it, the gripping story of the life and death of a beautiful girl who sipped, none too wisely, of Life's cup of joys and pleasures and who paid for her folly with a dramatic end.

This is only one of the many outstanding features in tomorrow's beautifully illustrated Constitution magazine.

You will miss a genuine treat if you fail to read it through from cover to cover.

Drawing of New First Baptist Church As It Will Look Under Revised Plans

Revised exterior design of the First Baptist church as depicted in perspective drawing completed Friday by Burge & Stevens, architects for the religious structure, which will represent an expenditure of $479,000 with equipment (exclusive of site value). The Georgian-colonial design that will characterize the huge church plant, extending from Peachtree to Cypress street, at Fourth street, has been chosen to supplant the originally-planned Gothic exterior as being more appropriate to the natural beauty and architectural history of the location. The skillfully modeled steeple will rise about 190 feet above the base of the building, which will be well elevated itself above the street level.

Two Drop Dead, 8 Shot, ON FIRST DAY OF HUNTING

Harrisburg, Pa., November 1.—(P)—Eight hunters were accidentally shot on the first day of the hunting season in Pennsylvania today and two more were dropped dead from heart attacks.

Only one of the eight men was believed to be seriously wounded but he and three others may lose the sight of one eye as a result of their injuries.

GEORGIA SCORES IN FIRST PERIOD

Sixty-Yard Sprint by Jack Roberts After Inter- cepting Pass Gives Bulldogs Lead in Third.

BY RALPH MCGILL,
Constitution Staff Correspondent.

Memorial Stadium, Columbus, Ga., November 1.—There was no mourning at the New Orleans bars tonight when the Green Wave put out to sea. There was hosanna and hallelujah instead.

The Green Wave drowned out the last Georgia hope with a 21-to-15 victory over the Red and Black from Athens here this afternoon to remain undefeated in the Southern conference.

This victory proved beyond the shadow of a doubt that Tulane football team is a resourceful and courageous one. Georgia was a point ahead as the half ended, a 60-yard sprint by Jack Roberts after intercepting a Tulane pass, having given the Bulldogs a touchdown as the referee was about to blow the whistle that would end the half.

Coming back at the start of the third quarter the Tulane football team stopped a Georgia march and fought back a full 80 yards to score a touchdown that stamped them as a powerful football team with the heart to go on against odds.

That touchdown was the second time they had come from behind, Georgia having scored a safety in the early minutes of the game.

It was a fighting Georgia team that met its second conference defeat this afternoon. They gave blow for blow until that great march took the heart out of their attack. Their weapons had been dulled in the first half and were not sharp enough to pave a way through the defense offered by the Green wall in the last half.

Lacking weapons they still did not lack fight. By sheer determination they picked up the broken threads in the closing minutes and attempted to fling them into a touchdown. To the Tulane 21-yard line they went, but there the defense stopped them, Holland recovering a fumble to stop the last march of the Red and Black.

The Mehre and Thomas heating system balked almost every effort of the crack line to blow through the cracks. It was not until the final minutes of the game that he blew for 27 yards in five plays. Still he made short gains in the end zone, which back from his own 20-yard line that won the football game.

It was like Armstrong, the running mate of the Black and white, who turned in the feature run for Tulane, a race to a full 64 yards through a grasping

TURKEY WOULD ENTER EUROPEAN FEDERATION

Anxious To Have Part in Shaping Organization, Spokesman Says.

Angora, Turkey, November 1.—(AP)—If there is to be a United States of Europe, Turkey wants to be in it, even though her capital city is beyond the geographic borders of Europe, far out in Asia minor. Moreover, her interest in M. Briand's project is so keen that she wants not only to be a part of any European federation that is formed but also to have an active part in shaping it.

Returning from Athens where he represented Turkey at the recent peace congress, Mahmoud Bey has been devoting columns in his paper to Turkey's stand on the questions of peace and of the United States of Europe.

"We Turks applaud the idea of a federation of people," he writes, "a federation which will unite all the nations of Europe on a perfect basis of equality, and which will suppress the hatreds and conflicting interests which now divide them. Turkey will participate eagerly in the forthcoming congress of all the Balkan states agreed upon by the recent peace congress at Athens, for she hopes that this Balkan conference may bring into actuality a United States of the Balkans which may serve as a nucleus and an example to a greater subsequent United States of Europe."

Mahmoud explains that Turkey's non-participation to date in the League of Nations is not due to any prohibitory contractual engagements nor to a lack of faith in the league itself, but to the fact that she has not yet been offered a role therein satisfactory to her desires.

"Turkey is especially interested in the league and in the Kellogg pact," he says, "because it was basically through them that the idea of a United States of Europe arose. But existing obstacles in the way of international peace which the league and the pact have not yet removed must be removed before a European federation can have any permanent value."

POLICE DROP PROBE OF PLOT TO BLAST SHOW

Hot Springs, Ark., November 1.—(AP)—Convinced that a mysterious explosion here last Tuesday morning which killed three men, blew their automobile to pieces and rocked a section of the city, frustrated a plot by them to bomb a local theater, police announced today they were dropping their investigation. The only man taken into custody in connection with the affair, Fred Lusby, of Fort Smith, Ark., a painter and associate of one of the victims, was released.

Chief of Police Joe Wakelin said he was satisfied the three men killed, apparently in an explosion of nitroglycerine in their car, were here to bomb the Princess theater, which recently had a dispute with union employees. Wakelin said, however, he had uncovered no information to connect any other persons with the suspected conspiracy.

Although Lusby arrested Wednesday at Fort Smith, contributed information which supported the theory of the bombing plot, Wakelin said he was satisfied Lusby had no connection with it.

GEORGE L. CASSIDY, "GREEN HAT MAN," IS ARRESTED AGAIN

Washington, November 1.—(AP)—Arrested at the entrance of the senate office building, George L. Cassidy, once known as "the man in the green hat," was at liberty today on $3,000 bond, post his charges of transportation and possession of intoxicating liquors.

Cassidy was prominent in the news several years ago when he was identified as the man who had, when arrested by an officer in the house of office building, carried a brief case containing a bottle of liquor and a flask. The policeman in question remembered only the color of Cassidy's hat and a search was instituted for "the man in the green hat," which finally resulted in his arrest.

The second arrest came yesterday. Police had followed him from his home to the senate office building, where he left his automobile and entered. A few minutes later he emerged, took a package from the car and started again toward the entrance. Then he was arrested.

The police said the package contained a bottle of whisky and that two more were found in the machine. A search of his home, they said, disclosed a stock of 306 quarts of assorted liquors.

GRAND LARCENY LAID TO GOTHAM STOCK TRADER

New York, November 1.—(AP)—George M. Gallop, 44-year-old stock trader and head of Baron & Company, was held in $50,000 bail in magistrate's court today for grand jury action on a charge of grand larceny in connection with the failure of his firm to give receipts last Friday to messengers for deliveries in stocks worth $80,750.

This bail was an increase of $25,000 over the sum fixed Saturday night following Gallop's arrest. The increase, it was explained, being made because of the large sum involved.

PRISONER SHOT, OFFICER DRAWS 15-YEAR SENTENCE

Richmond, Ky., Nov. 1.—(AP)—A constable who shot a fleeing prisoner to death was convicted here today by a jury which fixed his punishment at 15 years imprisonment.

The officer, M. A. Logsdon, shot Andy Warren, whom he had arrested at a carnival at Berea, Ky., on July 19. Warren broke away and was shot while running. Testimony was to the effect that the two had quarreled over payment of admission to the carnival.

Papers Restrained From Publishing Murder Case Details

Lubbock, Texas, November 1.—(AP)—All papers in Lubbock county were restrained from printing any testimony in the habeas corpus hearing today by Clay Lester, indicted for wife murder, in an order signed in district court by Judge Clark M. Mulligan.

DANGER LIES IN BULKLESS DIETS

Eat ALL-BRAN and Prevent Constipation

Thousands of people wonder why they are suffering when they try to be so careful regarding their diet. They have headaches, bad complexions and are unhappy because their old-time strength and vigor are gone.

Constipation is often the cause of this bad health. And lack of bulk in the diet is usually the cause of constipation. Roughage is needed daily to sweep the system clean of poisonous wastes. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN will supply this roughage.

ALL-BRAN works as nature works. It is guaranteed to bring relief—to prevent constipation.

The order specifically names the Lubbock Morning Advance and the Daily Journal, but embraces all newspapers in the county.

Judge Mulligan tonight said outside papers would be barred from Lubbock county if they carried any of the testimony, although he had no way of prohibiting them from publishing elsewhere.

The order was issued following refusal of Lubbock papers to repress the testimony.

Charles A. Guy, managing editor of the Avalanche-Journal publications of Lubbock, said his papers would abide by the order.

FRIVOLOUS REMARK OF YOUNG BRIDE CAUSES HER ARREST

Covington, Ky., November 1.—(AP)—A remark made by Mrs. Grace Acres Davis, 22, a bride of three days, to her husband, Harry Davis, 33, Cincinnati, that she previously had been married, led to her arrest today on a bigamy charge.

Davis investigated the remark and received a telegram D. S. Walker, county clerk at Huntsville, Tenn., which said Miss Acres and James Chittwell were married in 1927. The young woman said she thought her first husband obtained a divorce. Davis then ordered her arrest.

MILL MEN CONSIDER VALUE OF MACHINES

Carefully Avoided by Cotton Men.

Spartanburg, S. C., November 1.—(P)—With the value of new machinery the central topic of discussion, approximately 200 mill men attended the forty-second semi-annual meeting of the Southern Textile Association here today.

Papers, largely technical, on the need of supplanting old with new machinery consumed the major portion of the afternoon session. The morning was devoted mainly to a study of crime as an economic waste, with the conclusion that its remedy lay in supervised playgrounds, the home, church and school.

Fighting shy of labor troubles and wage controversies this phase of the industry was barely touched. The association went on record as being opposed to meddling in these disputes when it declined a telegraphed suggestion by Thomas F. McMahon, president of the United Textile Workers of America, that he be given a hearing at the meeting.

Mr. McMahon's telegram suggested that "we assist you in readjustment of wage schedules and hours to stabilize labor conditions and establish union standards which are imperative for alleviation of present industrial crisis."

PLEASANT WEATHER LURES PRESIDENT TO MOUNTAIN CAMP

Washington, November 1.—(P)—Ideal Indian summer weather caused President Hoover to decide today upon a trip to his fishing camp on the Rapidan river over the week-end. The camp has been closed down, but is in such shape it can be adjusted readily for a brief visit.

AUDITORS START UNTANGLING BOOKS IN BANK SHORTAGE

Flint, Mich., November 1.—(P)—Expert accountants today were examining the books of the Union Industrial Bank, largest of the city's financial institutions, whose officers yesterday announced that five "junior executives" had been dismissed after the discovery they had used approximately $800,000 of the bank's funds.

The amount involved, said at the bank to have been used in stock market speculation, has been covered in cash guarantees by the bank directors, including Charles S. Mott, chairman of the board. The loss also is insured.

REQUEST OF HEFLIN FOR COTTON PROBE OKAYED IN SENATE

Washington, November 1.—(P)—The senate today adopted the Heflin resolution for its agriculture committee to investigate the census bureau cotton report on September 23, which showed 800,000 more bales of cotton had been ginned than government reports indicated.

BRITISH TO SEEK NEW SPEED MARKS AT DAYTONA BEACH

Jacksonville, Fla., November 1.—(P)—Kaye Don, well-known British driver, had definitely entered a powerful machine for the international speed classic, to be held at Daytona Beach, March 1 to 15, 1930, according to a bulletin released by the American Automobile Association today. Don will attempt to break the present speed record of 231 miles an hour.

Question of India's Status Among British Dominions Starts Parliament Debates

Stanley Baldwin Denies Pledging Conservatives To Aid in Making India a Dominion.

London, November 1.—(AP)—Formal reiteration today by Lord Irwin, viceroy of India, that the British government desires that India ultimately enter equal partnership with other dominions brought prolonged debate in parliament today.

The long statement of the viceroy, published simultaneously here and in New Delhi, emphasized that adjustment of relations between British India and the Indian native states was necessary before the British policy could be carried to fulfillment.

Two hours of contention cropped up at once. They were the wisdom and propriety of raising the question before submission of the Simon report and the period of time in which the government contemplates conceding dominion status. A section of the Indian press complained the chief lack in the viceroy's statement was of a tentative time limit in which dominion status might be attained.

Questioned by David Lloyd George, liberal leader, in parliament today, Wedgwood Benn, secretary for India, made it clear that Sir John Simon, who recently led a commission of investigation to India had not been consulted on the viceroy's message. He emphasized much must be done before the question of a time limit arises. Lloyd George pressed the issue, asking whether the reply meant that there would be no change in substance or time from the policy indicated by previous governments.

He asserted a resolution had been passed by Indian leaders showing they regarded the declaration as a fundamental change in procedure. The minister replied that at present he did not propose to say any more.

Commander Oliver Locker-Lampson, former conservative undersecretary for foreign affairs, asked whether any of the members of the Simon commission had threatened to resign as a result of the viceroy's statement. Mr. Wedgwood Benn asserted he was not in any position to answer questions on behalf of the commission.

The matter of resignation, however, brought Stanley Baldwin, former prime minister, to his feet, with a denial of an article in the Daily Mail which asserted that Mr. Baldwin had first approved and then, under pressure of his colleagues, withdrawn approval of the government's declaration. Mr. Baldwin promised to make his position clear in a later statement.

CARROLLTON SCHOOL INSTITUTE IS SUCCESS

Carrollton, Ga., November 1.—(Special).—The Sunday School Institute, now in session at the First Baptist church, is proving a success in every respect. Between 75 and 100 persons are in daily attendance each night, a number coming from near-by towns.

Mrs. O. M. Gerald, of Atlanta, is teaching work with primary and beginners. Mrs. J. J. Heard, of Vienna, is teaching working with juniors; Mrs. Mary Lee Parker is teaching building of intermediate department; Miss Blossom Thompson, of Bogart, is teaching building the young peoples and adult department.

Business At Peak, Woman Financial Editor Declares

Expansion in industry, a multiplicity of stock splits, and bankers buying industrial stocks through their investment trusts were given as the principal reasons for the rise of the security market "beyond all business reason and common sense," by Mrs. Cecilia G. Wyckoff, publisher of the Magazine of Wall Street, in an address at the Chamber of Commerce Friday afternoon.

"Corrective movements were bound to come," she declared, "and as a result the market went to the other extreme—to a point out of line with the fundamental position of the industries themselves."

Mrs. Wyckoff expressed the opinion that business, "the backbone of security values," is at the peak, and that the country is well able to handle the present situation.

Referring to Atlanta, the speaker declared that she had been deeply impressed with the remarkable progress made here along all lines, and concluded by saying that "Atlanta certainly has everything before her."

Mrs. Wyckoff spoke.

"With the new era of speed in transportation and communication, it was bound to come that our business interests should broaden and extend all over the world. Our big business leaders have seen it coming and have been preparing to meet the situation, supplanting the obsolete and the decaying and revitalizing old industries and developing new ones. We must now consolidate and firmly establish our business level in accordance with the new economic requirements."

"We have real business leadership in this country. We possess the essentials of stabilization, at no time have we had better leadership combining both ability and experience in dealing with big problems on a practical basis. And our wealth is stupendous. The break in the stock market I do not believe will unduly affect the situation."

"It must be remembered that there has been a continuous rise in the market for several years. Investors who have owned their stock outright have been selling in this market security holdings dating back to 1914, which even at panic prices show them an advance."

"And in my twenty years' experience with investors I have not known a rich man operating in the security market who has not also had a backlog of investment issues owned outright."

"We will expect always to be at the peak, and I feel that the country is well able to handle this situation."

Progress Improving.

"After all, to a businessman, securities should represent only a secondary source of income. As a matter of fact, the lesson of this market makes clear to businessmen that investing in securities is the best course, as it enables them to devote themselves more to their business interests—which is, after all, their primary source of income."

"As far as Atlanta is concerned, I have been deeply impressed with your remarkable progress, and with the real love you have for your city and your pride in its growth. This enthusiasm explains the rapidity with which you have risen to the fore as one of the nation's leading cities.

"In the last few years I have often heard Atlanta spoken of as 'The New York of the South' in its cultural development as a metropolitan city.

"Your strategic position in the south has brought you and will continue to bring you, and justly so, those important industries that find it more economical to locate here because of your favorable labor situation; low taxes; low cost of power, and a wealth of raw materials.

"Atlanta's foresight is indicated in the tremendous $35,000,000 building program to meet your rapid growth and in anticipation of the growth that is to come. The many ramifications of the building program should bring prosperity to business and to labor."

"Certainly Atlanta has everything before her."

Shortage Blame Not on Sheriff, Grand Jury Says

Augusta, Ga., November 1.—(AP)—Sheriff J. T. Plunkett, of Richmond county, was exonerated of "any willful misconduct in the handling of the grand jury" by the grand jury and he was instructed to install an accounting system recommended by county auditors and employ a bookkeeper capable of holding the position on a deputy's salary with increased compensation to be made from the sheriff's salary.

In the event Sheriff Plunkett fails to comply with the grand jury's requests within 30 days, the report said recommendations would be made that his office be declared vacant.

JOBLESS MEN WAIT STRIKE AGREEMENT AT NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, November 1.—(AP)—With the striking street car men here on record as favoring a return to work conditionally and an increased police force ordered into action to permanently break up a campaign of violence against the operation of the cars by non-union employees, the several hundred labor men out of jobs today marked time awaiting some understanding between union heads and public service on their desires.

The need for further police reserves to put down disorders was expressed in a meeting of the local authorities with Victor Lohel, United States marshal, who is charged with the duty of enforcing the federal injunction granted public service against strike violence.

FRANK WRECKS AUTO ON ROAD NEAR RINGGOLD

Ringgold, Ga., November 1.—(AP)—A Halloween prank of piling logs on the Dixie highway near here last night wrecked an automobile and injured Hooks Hackett, son of Mrs. S. R. Hackett. The collision plunged the car over a four-foot embankment. Sheriff Land, of Catonsville county, began an investigation today and said he expected to make an arrest shortly.

$500,000 DAMAGE AS COTTON MILLS BURN AT TRENTON

Trenton, Tenn., November 1.—(United News).—Rain late today extinguished a fire that had resulted in damage estimated at $500,000 to the Trenton Cotton Mills here.

The blaze started in the engine room and quickly spread to other parts of the mill. Firemen from Humboldt and Trenton aided in fighting the fire.

More than 300 men will be out of employment, Vice President Arthur Brignel said, who estimated the loss at $500,000.

NEW MILK PLANT FOR BARNESVILLE

Barnesville, Ga., November 1.—(Special).—An industrial survey has been made in Barnesville in an effort to secure new businesses. The Civitan Club has practically secured for Barnesville a milk manufacturing plant, where the milk is made into powder form. During the past week a new, modern and up-to-date bakery has been opened with J. L. Kennedy as manager. Several new industries have opened here within the past few months.

JUROR MUST SERVE TERM FOR RUSTLING

Georgia Grand Juror Is Given
Rustling Charge.

Camilla, Ga., November 1.—(AP)—B. H. Gauden, a Mitchell county grand juror, apparently is destined to serve a sentence of a year on the chain gang, for today his grand jury associates and members of the trial jury ended their efforts to obtain leniency for him after his conviction on a charge of cow stealing.

The grand jurors and the trial jury petitioned Judge B. C. Gardner to suspend the jail sentence and impose a fine upon Gauden, but after the jurist commented that no such consideration had been shown 12 other convicted thieves both jurors withdrew their requests. The trial jury said it had been influenced by sympathy for Gauden's wife and family. The grand jury "poisoned" for its clemency plea.

Heavy inroads made by thieves upon live stock in this section had aroused public sentiment and one witness testified that Gauden's trial that he had lost animals valued at $760 during the year, believing them to have been taken by rustlers.

FEDERAL AGENTS SOLVE PROBLEM FOR JAX POLICE

Jacksonville, Fla., November 1.—(AP)—Jacksonville police puzzled today about the case of A. A. Cadwell, 47, of St. Louis, and his loaded sub-machine gun.

Cadwell was arrested after detectives had raided his room at a local hotel and found the sub-machine gun, a tear gas gun, a heavy revolver, a large quantity of ammunition and a dozen automobile license plates from as many states.

He was about to effect his release on $250 bond on a technical charge of vagrancy when federal authorities stepped in and ordered him held on a charge of stealing an automobile at Detroit.

Police said the weapons were not in Cadwell's possession when he was arrested on suspicion. Further, they said, there is no law in Florida against possession of such a weapon. Government agents said it could be held only if it was being transported on a common carrier or through the mail.

EUFULA BANK HEAD INDICTED FOR EMBEZZLEMENT

Montgomery, Ala., November 1.—(AP)—The federal district grand jury of the middle Alabama district Thursday indicted A. Merrill Brown, of Eufaula, Ala., on 15 counts in connection with alleged defalcations of approximately $130,000 from the East Alabama National bank, of which he was president.

The counts include six charges of embezzlement, four false entries, one false report on the condition of the bank, and four for abstracting money from a national bank.

The banker will be tried in federal court here following completion of the civil docket and criminal cases carried over from the last term of court.

The indictments were returned in a partial report by the grand jury to Judge Henry D. Clayton, R. E. Wood, formerly connected with the Andalusia National bank, was indicted on a charge of having embezzled $8,000 and on two counts of making false entries.

ARKANSAS MAN ADMITS ASSAULT; GIVEN 15 YEARS

Fayetteville, Ark., November 1.—(AP)—William T. Howard, of Stigler, Okla., pleaded guilty today to an assault upon a girl summer student at the University of Arkansas last summer and was sentenced to 15 years imprisonment by Circuit Judge J. S. Maple. Howard was registered as a student at the time of the attack which occurred on the university campus.

A representative of the girl's family was said to have agreed to the penalty fixed by Judge Maples although the offense carries a maximum penalty of death. Judge Maples explained he alone was responsible for acceptance of the plea and that "prosecuting Attorney John Combs had asked for a trial."

"Since the injured parties did not ask for the death sentence it was a question as to whether it would be right to inflict it," Judge Maples said. The young woman attacked was a visitor here at the time. A similar charge is pending against Howard at Stigler in connection with an attack upon a 14-year old girl.

BABY GIRL KILLED IN THREE-STORY FALL FROM HOTEL

Dartmouth Beach, Fla., November 1.—(AP)—Eugenie, 14-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Hancock, fell three stories to her death from the third floor window of a hotel here today.

The Hancocks were recent arrivals from St. Petersburg. He came here to take a position as teller in the First National Bank of Seabrook. The child fell from the window before her mother, who was in the room, could reach her.

NEW BRITISH AIRSHIP IN SATISFACTORY TEST

101 Cruises for Seven Hours; Circles Sandringham for King.

London, November 1.—(United Press.)—The R-101, Britain's new 34-foot airship, made a seven-hour test flight today which the ministry pronounced generally satisfactory.

The big dirigible, bearing a full crew and a number of passengers including former Air Minister Sir Samuel Hoare, passed over King's Lynn, Sandringham and Cromer on the test, returned to Cardington at 4:30 p. m.

The dirigible circled Sandringham estate twice, once dipping low so that the crew could wave at King George and Queen Mary. The king raised his hat in acknowledgment of the salute.

The air ministry, in its announcement, said that ship had been handled well and that the highest air speed attained was approximately 70 miles an hour. It was understood that all five of the motors were operated full speed.

As a condition of the airship's acceptance by the government, it was specified that the R-101 must be able to fly at 70 miles an hour at an altitude of 6,000 feet, with a cruising speed of 63 miles an hour.

PLAN TO WIDEN UNDERPASS PUT UP TO COUNCIL

Widening of the underpass at South Boulevard at a cost of approximately $70,000 will be asked Monday of city council if a recommendation of the streets committee of that body is adopted.

The committee Friday afternoon voted unanimously to request the county to undertake the project as one of the major improvements to be done in the city next year.

Tentative plans call for widening of Boulevard to permit at least a five-foot widening of the underpass proper. Drawings have been completed by C. E. Kauffman, city bridge engineer, working under the direction of Charles Donaldson, chief of construction.

Other routine matters were considered at a meeting over which Councilman Charles L. Chosewood, chairman, presided.

A plan to construct a home for handicapped children was offered to city council at its last session by Councilman George Lyle was not considered because of a lack of a quorum of the committee when the paper was sound. Action on this was deferred.

SHEEP KILLING DOG TO ESCAPE DEATH SENTENCE

Frankfort, Ky., November 1.—(AP) The death sentence imposed on "Kaiser Bill," police dog, will not be carried out, the Kentucky court of appeals decided today.

The dog, charged with having killed sheep in Montgomery county, was convicted and sentenced about two years ago. The case attracted wide attention.

The owner, Mrs. Henry Gay, took the case to the state's highest court, which decided that the statute under which conviction was obtained has been repealed.

Your Watch

"She's as human as you are;
You treat her as such."—Kipling.

Take good care of your watch. Remember that it is a most delicate instrument made up of tiny wheels and screws, balance, escapement pinions and pivots which must function hour after hour and day after day, keeping in perfect alignment.

We are especially proud of our watch repair department and have the privilege of offering you the very best service possible. Bring your watch to us for examination.

Bainbridge Colby, New York Widow Wed in Brooklyn

New York, November 1.—(AP) Bainbridge Colby, secretary of state under President Woodrow Wilson, and Mrs. Anna V. Ely, of the Roosevelt hotel, were married today at the Plymouth Congregational church in Brooklyn.

The ceremony, at which the Rev. J. Stanley Durkee officiated, was witnessed by a small group of intimate friends and relatives, including Dr. and Mrs. Benjamin Guinness, Dr. and Mrs. William Seaman Bainbridge, Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Rosen, Mrs. William Foster Chandler, Mrs. Harlow Force, Miss Tannie Guinness, Lord Guinness and Miss Maud Sylvester.

In his application for the marriage license, Mr. Colby gave his age as 59, the bride, the former Anna Ahlstrand, gave her age as 39. Her first husband, Joseph N. Ely, died in 1922.

After he had unsuccessfully sought a divorce in Paris, Mr. Colby was divorced from his first wife, Mrs. Nathalie S. Colby, in Reno October 7, last, after extended litigation. He charged that a novel written by her had portrayed him as one of the characters and "held him up in an unfavorable light."

SOUTHERN RAILWAY AND PULLMAN CO. VICTORS IN SUIT

The trial of the case of Mrs. Janie G. Jones against the Pullman Company and the Southern Railway Company, which has occupied the attention of the city court of Atlanta during the entire week, resulted, on Friday, in a verdict in favor of both defendants.

The plaintiff alleged that she occupied space in a Pullman car as a passenger of the Southern railway between Birmingham and Atlanta on May 7, 1928, and that she contracted pleurisy and pneumonia and was subjected to serious suffering and expense as the result of the negligence of the defendants.

Upon the trial of the case the plaintiff testified that when the train left Birmingham the weather was extremely cold and that an opened window near her seat admitted cold air and rain.

According to her evidence, she complained of these conditions and requested the porter three times to close the open window and turn on the steam heat, which he refused to do.

The defendants denied plaintiff's allegations and contended that she was accorded every proper consideration.

JEALOUS SUITOR FACING CHARGES OF KILLING GIRL

Philadelphia, November 1.—(AP) Miss Leona Fishback, 27, a graduate of the Academy of the Fine Arts, died today from three bullet wounds inflicted, police said, by William E. Peters, 27, a jealous suitor. Peters was held without bail to await action of the coroner.

The girl was shot in her home a short time after a family council in which Peters' demand for immediate marriage was met with the proposal that it be deferred until he had a position.

After shooting the girl, police said, Peters attempted to shoot himself, but was overpowered by the girl's father.

The story of Franz Liszt, called by many critics the greatest piano virtuoso in the history of music, will be the subject of the Lyric Famous Challenges program which will be broadcast over WSB and the N. B. C. coast-to-coast system tonight at 7 o'clock.

Franz Liszt, one of the foremost champions for the cause of program music and the operatic reforms of Wagner, was born in Raiding, Hungary, October 22, 1811, and died in Bayreuth, July 31, 1886. He first astonished the musical world as a child prodigy and made his fame in Paris. There he was fired by the wizardry of the violin virtuoso, Paganini, and determined to rival him on the keyboard. Liszt retired from public performances for three years to perfect his revolutionary technique and to compose those masterpieces which under his hands brought all Europe to his feet. There followed a period of continental travel and then the years at Weimar, where he composed and conducted, and wrote his epochal letters in the cause of Berlioz and other program music authors. His enemies proved too strong for him, and in 1881 he left for Rome. Several of his magnificent sacred compositions date from this period. In 1885 Liszt was created abbe by the pope. In 1870 he returned to Weimar. He drew hosts of brilliant pupils to the town and his fame as teacher spread to all civilized lands.

DELAWARE POLICE CAPTURE ESCAPED GEORGIA CONVICT

M. Markowitz, alias Sam Seiman, convicted in Fulton county of forgery, and an escape from the state prison farm, has been recaptured and is held at Wilmington, Del. It was announced Friday by the state prison board.

Markowitz, it is said, represented himself as a wealthy New Yorker and worked a fraud against local banks by depositing fictitious checks and drawing against them before payment had been refused on them.

He was convicted in October, 1926, and sentenced to seven years imprisonment. The following November 21 he escaped, but was recaptured the same day.

On August 11, 1927, he escaped the second time and had not since been heard from until Friday, when a telegram received at the state prison board notified them of his recapture.

State authorities were uncertain as to whether or not he was held in Delaware on any charge other than as an escape. A warrant was mailed Friday to insure holding him, but no one will be sent for him until it has been definitely ascertained that he can be brought back.

Walker 15 - to - 1 Favorite To Return to Mayoralty Of New York Next Tuesday

La Guardia Continues Fight Against "Jimmy," Norman Thomas, Socialist, Gains in Favor.

New York, November 1.—(United News).—New York city has had many bizarre political campaigns, but probably it has nothing in its past history quite the parallel of the one which will reach its climax in the election on Tuesday.

Voters will have before them seven candidates for mayor and a full ticket of borough officers to pass upon. But, as ever, chief interest centers upon the mayoralty contest.

Mayor James J. Walker, a favorite son of Tammany, rules a 15-to-1 favorite in the betting to be returned to the city hall. But he is not winning by default, as such odds seem to indicate.

First, he has against him Fiorello La Guardia, Italian, Harvard graduate, war veteran, and congressman who is going up and down the five boroughs of Greater New York ridiculing Walker, harping upon the failure to solve the Robeson murder mystery and almost every day tossing into the arena new charges of misgovernment.

"The mammy singer," La Guardia has called the mayor, having in mind the fact that in younger days Walker perpetrated upon the public the popular song, "Will You Love Me in December as You Do in May?"

He has told the voters of Walker's 30-odd suits of clothes and has dwelt so strongly upon Walker's love of "good, clean fun" that the mayor found it necessary at one time to deny that he was a frequenter of night clubs and such.

So strong has this movement become that within the week the Thomas campaign has attained an importance far beyond that of the remainder of the socialist ticket and almost daily some new and valuable support goes to him. His vote will include not only followers of his political party but a large number who will support him as a protest against Walker and Tammany on one hand and the swash-buckling La Guardia on the other.

Then there is the candidacy of Richard E. Enright, under the banner of the built to order "square deal party." Enright was police commissioner of New York under the regime of Mayor John F. Hyland. He entered the mayoralty race early and is campaigning with all the vigor of his old chief, Hyland.

As still more minor candidates come Laurence W. Tracey, who is the nominee of the Commonwealth Land party; William W. Weinstein, communist; and Oliver M. Johnson, the lone woman candidate for the mayoralty, who carries the banner of the social labor party.

The newspaper alignment for the campaign is most unusual. The democratic World is supporting Norman Thomas, the socialist, on the grounds that he is the outstanding liberal of the city and that at least a protest vote for him. The Evening World, however, remains strongly back of Walker. Yet both Morning and Evening World support Frederic R. Coudert, Jr., republican, for attorney in preference to Thomas C. T. Crain, democratic candidate who has the support of Tammany. The Evening World argues that the election of Walker, a Tammany mayor, with a republican district attorney as a check upon the activities of a Tammany-controlled police department, would be a highly satisfactory situation.

Indorse Thomas. The Telegram, which supported Hoover for president, has indorsed Thomas for mayor—in fact it was the first New York paper to give him such an indorsement.

The Evening Sun, normally republican, however, has deserted La Guardia for Walker. The Evening Post, republican, has raised its voice in support of La Guardia, while the Herald-Tribune has done likewise.

Nor does that end the situations which tend to furnish confusion for the voters. Frederick J. Groehl, former magistrate, and who gained national prominence by his defense of Gerald Chapman, notorious bandit, has been named for judge of the court of general sessions to fill the vacancy left by Judge Francis X. Mancuso who fell a victim of the failure and subsequent investigation of the City Trust Company. The democrats indorsed A. A. Berlioz for the position. The New York County Lawyers Association met yesterday to indorse one of the two candidates—the indorsement being a deciding factor in the election—and adjourned with announcement that it disapproved of both. That action leaves Harold Craske, socialist, the surviving candidate and, among the socialists his vote may rank next to that of Thomas when the ballots are counted.

DIXIE BUSINESS, PUBLISHED BY LEE, MAKES DEBUT HERE

The first issue of Atlanta's newest magazine, Dixie Business, a business and financial publication, edited by

HUBERT F. LEE.

Hubert F. Lee, makes a creditable start. Mr. Lee is widely known in southern newspaper circles, and his efforts to launch the publication have received the best wishes of some of the south's most prominent industrial and business leaders. The magazine is dedicated to meet the needs of this new south, says Mr. Lee, who was at one time connected with The Constitution.

The first issue contains contributions by Charles Wetters, president of Financial Advertisers' Association; J. K. Otley, Jr., Atlanta manager, Pictorial Aviation, Inc.; a feature by Gene Hinton, aviation editor of The Constitution, and comprehensive articles by other prominent Atlantans.

Mr. Lee recently returned from a trip to southern commercial centers. Much interest was manifested by persons he interviewed, in his new venture, Mr. Lee said.

ESCAPED PRISONERS RECAPTURED, FLEE FOR SECOND TIME

Little Rock, Ark., November 1.—(AP).—Two prisoners brought to the state penitentiary for safekeeping after their escape from a jail in Monroe county, sawed the bars from their cell window and scaled the walls to freedom during the change of guards early today.

Malcolm Graham, 32, and A. J. Smith, 19, held in the prison for safekeeping in connection with a charge of defrauding a Clarendon bank of $250, were the escaped convicts. Graham, according to Warden S. L. Todd, has served terms in several state prisons on different charges.

The men were brought here following their capture after they had escaped from the Monroe county jail at Clarendon.

The men while working in the tailor shop at the prison plotted their escape into a long rope. When the time came for their escape they removed an iron bar from a cell, climbed to the top of the cell and tore out a hole in the ceiling. They then escaped through the chimney to the ground inside the walls.

Using a hook made from one of the rods in an iron safe, they tied the rope to it, threw the hook to the top grating of the south gate, pulled themselves up and jumped to freedom.

LEAGUE COMMITTEE PROPOSES "TRUCE" IN TARIFF MAKING

Geneva, November 1.—(AP).—The economic committee of the League of Nations today published its proposals for an international tariff truce, which had been widely discussed at the Geneva assembly of the league in connection with Premier Briand's idea of a European confederation.

The proposals, which are to be the basis for negotiations between countries, are in the form of a report to the league council, with a draft convention setting forth the provisions for the agreement on the tariff truce attached as an annex.

The first article of the convention provides that signatories undertake to refrain from increasing their customs duties "upon products of other high contracting parties," for the duration of the truce.

This is of particular interest to American exporters, since Eastman, American member of the committee, recently said that the movement for a tariff truce was a problem for Europe, in which the United States could hardly be expected to participate as a contracting party.

MICROSCOPIC TEST BRINGS EVIDENCE IN DETROIT KILLING

Detroit, November 1.—(AP).—Microscopic examinations of three of the bullets taken from the body of David Cass, 23, kidnapping victim, have satisfied police as to the identity of the young man's slayers.

The bullets were found to have been fired from 32 and .38 caliber revolvers, the same revolvers, police say, that were owned by Frank Hobler and Edward Wiles, now serving terms in the Michigan branch prison at Marquette, of from 35 to 50 years each for the kidnapping of Matthew Holdreith, Jr.

Authorities will decide shortly whether the two and two other men suspected of participation in a series of kidnapping plots here during the past nine months should be returned to face a homicide charge.

Hobler and Wiles were sentenced to Marquette October 7 after they had been caught in a stolen taxicab with part of the ransom money they had received from Matthew Holdreith, Sr., and the younger Holdreith had been rescued from an apartment where he had been chained to a bed for six days.

LUMBERMEN ATTEND COLUMBUS MEETING

Columbus, November 1.—(AP).—About 75 lumbermen were in attendance here today at a meeting of the Roorer Manufacturers' Club of Georgia and Alabama. O. B. Mason, of Madison, Ga., is president, and W. R. Melton, of Cuthbert, Ga., is secretary. After a business session the members were guests of Thomas E. Griffin, of Columbus, at the Georgia-Tulane football game.

THROWING BUILDING SOLD FOR $750,000

Purchase by R. E. Hightower or Seen as Adding Confidence to Area.

Consummation Friday night of sale of the Throwing office building to R. E. Hightower, of Thomaston, for a cash consideration understood to be nearly $750,000, just two years to the day since the prominent Georgia textile capitalist purchased the Vinecroft hotel here, was seen in real estate circles as a significant expression of confidence by outside investors in local property values. Mr. Hightower closed the deal for the Vinecroft at more than $1,000,000 on November 1, 1927.

The Throwing building, formerly known as the Austell office building, is eight stories high, with two basements below street level. The structure contains 216 offices in addition to ground floor stores and is situated on a site fronting 114 feet on Forsyth street and extending back 150 feet from the viaduct along the railroad right of way.

The transaction was negotiated by Julian Binford, Jr., of M. C. Kiser Real Estate Company, assisted by H. H. Taylor. The deal is reported to have been consummated at the Throwing building since its sale two and one-half years ago to M. L. Throwing, when its worth was estimated at $550,000. Mr. Throwing spent $200,000 in remodeling the improvements following his acquisition of the property.

Development of the new Union passenger station with its fine plaza and attractive architectural design, immediately adjoining the office building, which is now well under way in construction, was indicated as a chief factor in the rapid enhancement of the parcel.

Recently Mr. Throwing prepared plans for remodeling the ground floor of the structure to section off a portion of the station development. The project was featured by an arcade, parallel with Forsyth street, but at the rear of the building, and a new depot to the present building lobby. The improvements were to cost in excess of $50,000. It is believed that this plan or a more elaborate one will be adopted by the new owner.

BRITISH LABOR PARTY WINS CITY ELECTIONS

London, November 1.—(United News).—The labor party, triumphant at the polls in the general election last May, was today to have emerged victorious in a second test of strength today.

Municipal elections were held in 400 cities and boroughs in England and Wales, and results from the first 20 of the cities showed that labor had gained consistently, mostly at the expense of the conservatives.

Labor waged a strenuous campaign, pointing out that municipal support was necessary to place into effect such projected reforms as unemployment relief, slum clearance and education reform.

VIRGINIA HONORS FOUR GOVERNORS AT BRILLIANT BALL

Richmond, Va., November 1.—(AP).—Virginia honored its governors at the second annual governor's ball of modern times here tonight. The function, one of the principal events of the Virginia society, was a brilliant combination of the color and quaintness of the original governor's hall of colonial days and a touch of twentieth-century Virginia lent by a radiogram from Commander Richard Evelyn Byrd, brother of Governor Byrd, now exploring Antarctic regions.

OPERATION GIVES WOMAN SPEECH, LOST EIGHT YEARS

Following an operation which she had termed "her rescue" from "recurrent speech," Mrs. T. N. Wood, 33, of 1245 Arkwright place, Friday spoke for the first time in eight years.

As she lay in her ward at Grady hospital Friday her dormant vocal chords awakened as by a miracle and she addressed persons attending her in a clear, strong voice.

The after effects of an influenza attack eight years ago robbed Mrs. Wood of her voice. Physicians say that she probably will be removed to her home today.

FLORIDA SUSPENDS RULE ON CHILDREN ENTERING SCHOOL

Tallahassee, Fla., November 1.—(AP).—Suspension of the rule requiring two weeks exclusion from public schools of Florida of prospective pupils of such schools who enter the state was announced today by W. C. Caverton, state superintendent of public instruction.

The rule was established sometime ago because of increased number of cases of infantile paralysis in other states.

The suspension was ordered by Dr. Henry Hanson, state health officer, who advised Mr. Caverton that his office took the view that at the present time there was no knowledge of the unusual prevalence of any serious communicable diseases in the state, and that while the ruling kept children from the schools for the two weeks period, it did not apply to other gathering places.

TWO GIRLS INJURED AS STAND BREAKS DOWN AT PAGEANT

Trenton, N. J., November 1.—(AP).—Two young women were injured and a huge crowd was thrown into confusion today when a grandstand collapsed during the parade and pageant held in conjunction with the celebration of the 250th anniversary of the founding of Trenton.

More than 50 persons were thrown into the street when the stand collapsed. Misses Delbia Jensen, 22, and Sarah Chambers, 18, suffered severe cuts and bruises and were taken to a hospital.

Music Invoked by Science COUNTRY DOCTOR'S PROPOSAL TERMED "STARTLING" In Fight on Tuberculosis

United News Staff Correspondent.

New York, November 1.—Music was invoked to aid science in its fight against tuberculosis and the prestige of a state medical association was not some owl-eyed young theorist of one of the great medical centers but a country doctor so old that when his death was erroneously reported two years ago he was mourned formally and without question by a state medical association.

The paper on "Relation of Musical Sounds to Physical Diagnosis," to which Fleming Howell, M. D., of Buckhannon, W. Va., has devoted the last 15 years of his life, will reach his colleagues this week through the medium of the West Virginia Medical Journal.

While its publication will be no surprise to old Dr. Howell, since he presented it through the usual channels and no doubt expected eventually to see it in print, its reception may give him a shock. The simplicity and logic of Dr. Howell's suggestion that a tuning fork be employed to determine the progress of diseases of the lungs and abdominal cavities is by physicians already cognizant of his treatise to be "startling."

Not only tuberculosis, but suspected cases of pneumonia, can be spotted, it will be said, and their development or retrogression noted by the physician employing the tuning fork idea advanced "somewhat timidly," according to his associates—by the West Virginia country doctor, now in his eightieth year.

The first 1,500 words of Dr. Howell's contribution to his profession are devoted to an explanatory essay on the origins and history of all music, for which Dr. Howell admitted he had never had an ear. But as he went about thumping his patients in the usual manner he conceived an idea.

"I secured a tuning fork with the object of cultivating my ear," said Dr. Howell, "and from persistently practicing and estimating the differences of pitch in the different sounds, especially during my long professional trips into the country, I gradually grew more and more interested and proficient."

It appears that while Dr. Howell was sitting in his tub buggy, en route to a patient of dubious financial background suffering in some creek hollow, he grew into the habit of wrapping the reins around the whip-socket and practicing with his tuning fork. In the autumn—undoubtedly—the buggy bark hickory leaves would float down on Dr. Howell, and the top buggy would squeak in the off front axle and the bay mare would take it easy and steady and Dr. Howell would astonish himself of the chipmunks. But he doesn't say so. He continues meticulously:

"I eventually dawned upon me that I could record these differences in pitch by means of the tuning fork I had been using and thus retain them to compare the condition on any one day with that of the next, or that of the next week, or next month."

Dr. Howell's treatise explains carefully a method for obtaining the "control" not of a patient's healthy tissue and recording it for comparison later with the ascending or descending scale resulting from future perturbations. When the patient's note ascended the musical scale from visit to visit, Dr. Howell found that he was getting worse, invariably, no matter what his non-musical symptoms might be.

"It is not necessary for me to go further into the details of the procedure I have described and explained, as it applies to all diseases and conditions involving consolidations of portions of the lungs, or effusions into the pleural or abdominal cavities," he concludes.

"The experienced and even the less experienced diagnostician, when he has acquired the principles of the method can readily apply them to the different conditions."

AUSTRIAN TRADE LEGATE COMING TO CITY TODAY

Washington, November 1.—(AP).—Paul Csernyei, secretary of the Austrian Central Association for Foreign Trade, left tonight for Atlanta to confer with business leaders there on the possibility of establishing an Austrian consulate there.

Csernyei has been in conference here with Austrian Minister Prochnick discussing plans for establishing consulates in several cities in the United States.

NO PLANS MADE FOR RECEPTION YET.

Robert Hecht, vice president of the Atlanta Foreign Trade Club and commissioner for the Austrian Central Association of Foreign Trade in southern states, Friday night said that he had not been advised by Washington officials of Mr. Csernyei's visit to Atlanta, and no plans have yet been made for his reception.

THREATENING LETTERS READ AT TEXAS TRIAL

Slayer of Son-in-Law Takes
of Self-Defense.

Weatherford, Texas, November 1.—(AP).—Letters which other witnesses had declared contained threats against R. H. Hamilton, on trial for killing his son-in-law, Tom Walton, Jr., were read by the defendant when he took the witness stand in his own defense here this afternoon.

When court recessed for the day, Hamilton, one-time appellate judge of the Texas supreme court, also had told of conversations with Walton some weeks before the shooting. In these conversations, Hamilton said, he had talked with the young university student about his courtship with 17-year-old Theresa Hamilton and that Tom denied he was married to the girl. It developed that the couple were already married, unknown to Hamilton, however. The shooting occurred later in the spring when Walton went to the father-in-law's office to tell of the secret wedding.

The accused man declared he met Walton twice before the young man was slain in Hamilton's Amarillo law office last May 4. On the first occasion, he said, Walton told him he wished to marry Theresa but he suggested Walton continue his studies in engineering at the University of Texas, where Theresa also was a student.

Walton apparently agreed to that suggestion, Hamilton said, and denied that he and Theresa had been married, although that was March 9 and he subsequently discovered they had been married before an Austin justice of the peace on February 10.

Walton was a freshman at the university, Hamilton said, declaring he told Walton he would not object to a marriage provided Walton first finished school. Walton was a freshman at the university, Hamilton said, declaring he told Walton he would not object to a marriage provided Walton first finished school.

Twenty-one days later Walton paid a second visit to Hamilton's office. That meeting did not end as harmoniously as the first, Walton stamping out of the office saying: "You're determined and so am I."

Hamilton said that at the second meeting Walton told him: "I've come back to tell you I'm not going to complete my education." Walton said he wanted to "marry Theresa now," the accused man testified.

After an argument in which he urged Walton to stick by the original agreement and continue his schooling, Walton left "in a huff," Hamilton said, adding that he said: "Then I asked him again whether he and Theresa were married and he denied it," he declared.

"Judge Hamilton, were you being square with him and would you have lived up to your agreement to let them marry if he had gone on and finished school?" B. B. Hood, of defense counsel, asked.

"I was," the witness replied, "I was trying to give him the same sort of advice I would give my son."

Letters written by Walton to the girl after they were married while attending the university were introduced. Threats against Hamilton were alleged to have been made in the letters.

All who testified to the threats, save two, were schoolmates of the slain youth at the university, and three were members of Gamma Phi Beta, the sorority to which Walton's young bride was pledged and of which her sister was a member.

While Theresa, then 17 years old, was in an Austin hospital recovering from an appendicitis operation, Walton, angry because he had not been allowed to see his wife, made verbal threats against Hamilton, the witnesses declared. Only two of them, Christine Campbell, of Pampa, and Mary Helen Cockrum, of Goldthwaite, said they knew of the marriage.

The other witnesses were Janet Carter, of Dallas; Alice Pierson, of Austin, daughter of William Pierson, associate justice of the Texas supreme court; Grace Sanderson, Helen Hamilton, daughter of the accused man and his wife, Mrs. R. H. Hamilton, and Harry D. Bishop, Amarillo lawyer, formerly with the department of justice.

Some of the witnesses declared Walton claimed he had been a member of the Al (Scarface) Capone gang of Chicago and had "hacked" questionable women there. Helen Hamilton said she heard Walton say he had two "Chicago gunmen shagging" her father.

ENNIS, AWAITING TRIAL ON CHECK CHARGE, WOUNDED

Milledgeville, Ga., November 1.—(AP).—Captain H. B. Ennis, former commander of the national guard, was discharged from the hospital yesterday after undergoing treatment for a wound sustained several days ago when he was shot at his home here.

According to J. H. Ennis, father of the former guard commander, his son was wounded when a pistol the younger Ennis was handling struck against a wall at his home and accidentally discharged. The bullet pierced his arm and he was confined in the local hospital for several days.

Captain Ennis is scheduled to go on trial at the next term of the United States court of the middle Georgia district, which will be convened November 15, on two charges of forgery.

The guard officer is accused of forging the names of members of his former command to their pay checks and converting the funds to his own use. He was arrested several months ago and is now out under bonds totaling $25,000.

ITALIAN KING PLANS TO VISIT POPE PIUS ON DECEMBER FIFTE

Vatican City, November 1.—(AP).—Good authority said today the visit of King Victor Emmanuel to the pope, long awaited since signing of the last treaty last February, probably would take place December 5, or thereafter.

It was said also it was extremely unlikely Pope Pius would return personally the king's visit, since it would create a precedent which would be neither useful nor opportune in the future. The visit therefore probably will be returned by Cardinal Gasparri, papal secretary of state, on behalf of the pope. This has been the case with other reigning monarchs, both Catholic and non-Catholic.

SNOW AND SLEET DESTROY 'PHONE LINES IN CANADA

Winnipeg, November 1.—(AP).—Repair crews were sent out today to restore telephone and telegraph service between here and points east and west, interrupted by heavy snow and sleet storm.

Snow falling with blizzard intensity brought down wires and poles along a stretch 150 miles to the west and 65 miles east of here yesterday. The only line of communication open was to St. Paul, Minn.

Within the city, light and power lines were down, putting homes in darkness and stopping street car service.

The storm was general throughout Manitoba, the greatest damage centering about Winnipeg.

NATIONAL T. B. GROUP HEADS COMING TODAY

State Welfare Department To Entertain Emerson, Hopkins.

Dr. Kendall Emerson, managing director of the National Tuberculosis Association, and P. D. Hopkins, executive secretary, both of New York, will arrive in Atlanta this morning. It was announced Friday at the state department of public welfare.

Dr. Emerson and Mr. Hopkins are on a tour through several southern states, visiting tuberculosis associations and state agencies and discussing with them plans for 1930.

The program prepared for the two provides for a visit to the local tuberculosis association at 288 Forrest avenue, at which they will see two clinics in operation; to the Atlanta School of Social Work, and to the State Tuberculosis Association, in the Chamber of Commerce building.

A barbecue will be extended to the visitors at the home of Dr. C. C. Aven, 2210 Gordon road, at noon.

Fifty or more physicians, nurses and others interested are expected to be present.

In the afternoon a visit to the Battle Hill sanatorium and Stone mountain is planned. If it can be arranged before they leave Georgia, Dr. Emerson and Mr. Hopkins will be taken to the state tuberculosis sanatorium at Alto, where the new building erected by the Masons for the care of children will soon be opened.

The visitors will be met and escorted about Atlanta by J. E. Faulkner, executive secretary of the public welfare department, who has had charge of the tuberculosis program in Georgia the past 15 years and who still exercises a directorial and advisory relation to the state association.

Hopeful that the $16,000,000 mark will be reached in permits for new buildings here by the end of the year, city Building Inspector Charles J. Bowen gave out figures Friday showing that permits totaling $12,578,086 have been issued so far in 1929. October's permits amounted to $947,106, Mr. Bowen stated.

Permits for erection of a $10,000,000 hotel to be erected by the Dinkler Hotels, Inc., are yet to be issued, as well as permits for the erection of a $2,500,000 improvement on the old city hall site, it was stated.

BURGLARY CHARGE LAID IN INDICTMENT TO MAN AND GIRL

T. B. Woodall, 23, and Marion Johnson, 16-year-old girl, Friday were indicted by the Fulton grand jury on a charge of burglarizing the home of Mrs. Charles G. Trowbridge in College Park. The indictment charges that property valued at $303 was stolen.

Friday's session of the grand jury was featured by the return of 10 true bills against Mack Battle, who is charged with that number of burglaries. The case against Battle was worked up by Detectives R. E. Whitley and B. E. Blair.

Several Atlanta planes braved the lowering skies of Friday to fly down to Columbus with passengers bound for the football game between Georgia and Tulane. Beeler Blavin, carried Mr. and Mrs. Asa G. Candler in their Waco "165," George Shealy took down a load in Southern Air Transport's J-6 Travel Air monoplane and Paul Davis ferried a couple in the company's Curtiss Robin. The Candler party left the game during the fourth period and reached Candler field just after dark. The others, however, staying for the conclusion of the Tulane victory, were forced to delay their return to Atlanta until this morning.

Doug Davis, returning to Candler field in a DH Moth Friday afternoon, after a visit to New York, reported that the now famous Travel Air "Mystery Ship," with which he won the free-for-all race at the Cleveland air races over military entries, is being put in tiptop condition for the Atlanta air races, scheduled for November 9 and 10 and that he will leave some time next week to bring it to Atlanta. The speedy little ship is at Roosevelt field, New York, and has attracted a lot of attention at Faulkner, in a Super-Mallwing, and recent meets in that vicinity. Its commander Stone and Howard Comin, Quite an aerial escort will be on hand early Monday morning when the Atlanta-Dalton-Chatanooga motorcade takes off on its journey to the Tennessee city. Three mail planes of the Pitcairn Aviation, Inc., will fly over the caravan as it is forming, about 7 o'clock Monday morning, and each pilot has a number of tiny parachutes bearing greetings from the mayors of cities along the highway. The Pitcairn pilots will be J. Ben Faulkner, in a Super-Mallwing, and Firm Stone and Howard Comin, in Mail-Wings. Mr. and Mrs. Asa G. Candler in their Waco "165," with Beeler Blavin at the controls, will take off about an hour later than the start of the motorcade, circle the airports at Carrollton, give them a serial greeting at Dalton and then lead the motorcade into Chattanooga.

Several Atlanta pilots are scheduled to take part in the interesting air derby to be held at Tallahassee, Fla., on November 11 and 12, with a number of events on the program and substantial prizes for the victors. Beeler Blavin and Doug Davis, both of whom have figured in southern air races for years, are listed among the many well-known fliers who are to be on hand.

With four important aerial events already scheduled for the brief period between November 9 and November 12, Interstate Airlines, Inc., came through with an announcement Friday of a great air celebration, to be held on Armistice Day, November 11, at the airport's Spanish clubhouse, "Tennessee Sky Harbor." The meet will be the greatest ever held in Tennessee, according to officials of the company. There will be a 20-mile race at 11 o'clock in the morning, a 40-mile race between squadrons of national guard planes at 1:30 in the afternoon, a student landing contest, an old-fashioned balloon ascension, with a parachute jump; a bombing exhibition and balloon bursting exhibition. There will be a big dance at the airport's Spanish clubhouse after the events are concluded and, all in all, a general good time seems to be in prospect for all.

NEW SEWAGE SYSTEM IN COUNTY FAVORED

Special attention by the county commissioners to sewage disposal in thickly settled residential sections of the county was recommended Friday by the presentments returned by the September term Fulton county grand jury.

The grand jury found that "many individual septic tanks were found in unsanitary condition and located too near residences."

Recommendations for abolition of the Sandy Springs camp and the placing of all white convicts in one camp were contained in the presentments, and the grand jury urged establishment of a county school to take care of mentally and physically deficient children.

Salary Slash Favored.
The grand jury expressed commendation of the county commissioners for the trend toward a more economical operation of county affairs and said that "we are glad to report there seems to be some prospect of a salary reduction, based upon statements made to the grand jury by the county commissioners."

The presentments said that the grand jury of 1928 found the salaries of force at that time were liberal, "but it appears that since 1928 there has been an increase in salaries of 50 per cent, with little or no increase in the amount of work done."

The presentments recommended that the county commissioners rigidly keep expenditures within the budget.

Into Registration List.
The presentments also urged purging of the county registration list. The grand jury said that of the 65,000 names on the list "we are informed that about 40,000 of this number are ineligible to vote."

The list consists of everyone who has registered during the last several years; many of whom are now dead and others who have moved from the county, besides many duplicates are to be found, according to the grand jury, which recommended that the work be done in the tax collector's office and that a modern card system of registration be installed.

$38,000 DAMAGES
FOR VIADUCT WORK
SOUGHT IN 2 SUITS

Two suits for damages alleged to have been caused by viaduct work on the new viaducts were filed Friday in Fulton superior court against the city of Atlanta, Mrs. Sarah A. Blake, housewife, proprietress, trading as S. A. Clayton Company, at 113 Hunter street, S. W., seeks $28,000 damages. E. A. Morgan, jeweler, owner of a lease to 119 Hunter street, S. W., seeks $10,000 damages. The petitions were filed by B. C. Broyles and the law firm of Watkins, Asbill and Watkins.

2 CRASH VICTIMS
AGAINST BYFIELD

Damages totaling $30,000 are asked from C. K. Byfield in petitions filed Friday in Fulton superior court by A. K. Barton and Mrs. L. L. Barton. The Byfields allege that they were injured in an automobile accident in LaFayette, Walker county, when a car driven by Byfield struck the machine in which they were riding. Each of the plaintiffs seeks $15,000. The suits were filed by the law firm of Branch and Howard.

DOUG DAVIS JOINS CURTISS-WRIGHT FIRM

Flyer Becomes Company's Sales Manager for This Area.

Doug Davis, well-known aviator, returning to Atlanta Friday afternoon following a week's stay in New York, announced that he had been appointed southern sales manager of the Curtiss-Wright Sales Corporation, an organization formed last week to take over sales and distribution work formerly handled by the Curtiss-Keyes Company.

Davis, who has been divisional manager here for Southern Air Transport, Inc., since the purchase of his flying service by the company last April, soon will resign his post with that company, but will maintain his headquarters at Candler field, as heretofore.

Has Largest Line.
The Curtiss-Wright Company is said to market the largest line of airplanes and motors of any organization in the industry. The planes under its control include the Travel Air, Curtiss-Robertson products, which include the Robin, the Thrush, the Fledgling and the Curtiss Keynote. Loening, making two amphibian models, and the DH Moth. The company distributes all of the famous Wright radial air-cooled motors and the new Wright Gypsy, a four-in-line air-cooled power plant of 90 horsepower. Altogether, 15 models of airplanes will be sold by the new company.

In his new capacity, Davis will have jurisdiction over the 10 southern states and North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Tennessee, Mississippi, Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas. His duties will be to appoint distributors in each state, these, in turn, to name the dealers who will actually market the company's products.

No Resignation Filed.
Hugh L. Smith, sales manager for Southern Air Transport, who was in Atlanta Friday, stated that while his company was aware of Davis' proposed change, his resignation had not been filed. He added that a new S. A. T. manager for this division would be sent to Atlanta, probably from Fort Worth, headquarters for the company.

Davis, who flew to Atlanta, encountered bad weather along the Atlantic seaboard, and was forced to spend Thursday night at Winston-Salem, N. C.

AUDIT IS DEMANDED OF JOHNSON'S BOOKS

Mayor I. N. Ragsdale will transmit to city council for its disposition Monday a demand for an audit of the books of City Warden W. H. Johnson, he stated Friday following a demand by the Atlanta Women's Civic Council.

In addition a request was made that the city government investigate the warden's failure to give assistance to a recent applicant and unless a satisfactory reason is given, remove him from office.

Department officials state they have record letters from Captain George J. Gibbins, relief officer of the Salvation Army, saying that that organization had been rendering assistance to the man about whom the complaint had been filed.

Several days ago officers of the woman's council appealed to Mayor Ragsdale, stating that the warden had refused to assist the applicant. He took the matter up with the department and also with J. W. Hollingsworth, city probation officer. Mr. Hollingsworth stated he had learned that the Salvation Army was giving the client $2 a week, but recommended more.

"We communicated with the Salvation Army and were told that the case was being looked after by it," Miss Elizabeth Ivey, secretary, who has conducted the office for the past two weeks during the illness of Mr. Johnson, said. "There are hundreds of needy cases than the one which has been singled out, and as our funds are limited, we are endeavoring to give the best service and allocate our money to the best advantage."

An audit of the department's books would cost about $2,000 for the years 1928 and 1929, according to estimates.

TWO NEGROES SHOT
WHITE MEN HELD

Thomaston, Ga., November 1.—(Special.)—Arthur Harp, white, shot and killed John Sanders, colored, near his home yesterday. Details of the shooting have not been given. Mr. Harp is in jail. J. P. Smith, white, shot Robert Smith, colored, near yesterday. The negro is in a critical condition and the white man is in jail. Information about the shooting is withheld until court convenes the second Monday in November.

GAS STATION ROBBED

Early Morning Bandits Escape With $33.

A filling station at 2193 Peachtree road was robbed of $33 early Friday morning by a masked white man, who held up George Steinhour, rifled the cash register and escaped in an automobile.

The man was described at police headquarters as being approximately 30 years old and well dressed.

$4,000.00 IN PRIZES! to those lucky persons who spell the most words with the letters
W-H-I-T-E L-I-L-Y F-L-O-U-R

YOU may win $2,000.00! Take a pencil now and see how many words you can write down, spelled from letters in the name WHITE LILY FLOUR. This is your chance to win a handsome money prize. This contest is open to all persons living in the States of Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia. There will be a Grand Prize of $2,000.00 for the one contestant (residing anywhere in this territory) who submits the greatest number of words spelled from letters in the name WHITE LILY FLOUR.

In addition there are eight State prizes of $250.00 each. In each of the States listed above, $250.00 will be given to the man, woman or child who sends us the greatest number of words spelled from letters in the name WHITE LILY FLOUR. In the State in which the Grand Prize of $2,000.00 is awarded, the $250.00 State Prize will, of course, go to the contestant submitting the list having the greatest number of words after the list submitted by the Grand Prize winner.

Remember you don't have to buy anything to enter this contest; just go to a grocer who handles White Lily Flour and get this booklet: "How Many Words in White Lily Flour." It has complete rules of the contest printed in convenient form. You'll find it handy for reference while you're working on your list. If there is no White Lily Flour grocer near you, write us for free copy.

RULES OF THE CONTEST

1—Contest opens September 10th, 1929. Contest closes at midnight December 10th, 1929. All entries must be mailed to J. Allen Smith & Company before midnight, December 10th, 1929. Prizes will be mailed to winners on December 23, 1929, or as near that date as possible.

2—This is a contest for the greatest number of words spelled from the letters contained in the name W-H-I-T-E L-I-L-Y F-L-O-U-R.

3—The contest is open to everyone, except employees of J. Allen Smith & Company, or members of their families.

4—Write plainly on only one side of each sheet. Write your name and address at the top of each page, numbering the pages and fastening them together. List words alphabetically by first letter in each word. Place total number of words submitted on last page beneath your name.

5—Any word may be used that is listed alphabetically and defined in any edition of Webster's Unabridged Dictionary of the English language printed after 1900, provided all letters in the word are found in the name WHITE LILY FLOUR. All questions of whether a word is permissible will be determined entirely by whether that word is found under these rules in Webster's Unabridged Dictionary. Abbreviations will not be counted as words. Words spelled the same but having different meanings can be listed but once.

6—No word may be included that has a letter repeated a greater number of times than it appears in the name WHITE LILY FLOUR. For instance, the letter "Y" may be used twice in one word, because it appears twice in WHITE LILY FLOUR, but words containing more than one "E" are barred, because only one "E" appears in WHITE LILY FLOUR.

7—While it is permissible for several members of a family, or several friends or members of a club to work together, only one list should

Legislature's Recent Tax Revisions Will Save Schools, Superintendent Duggan Says

Measures Will Clarify Situation When They Become Effective, Education Head Asserts.

Declaring that tax measures adopted by the last legislature will clarify the financial problems of the state schools when they become effective, Dr. M. L. Duggan, state superintendent of education, Friday called on local school officials to exercise their highest business ability in an effort to keep the schools open during the emergency.

State officials upon whom the responsibility rests are making every effort to secure full and prompt payment by the state, he declared, urging that local authorities make similar efforts at the collection of local taxes.

"With the prompt small payments each month from the equalization fund there is no reason why we should not tide over the present emergency and keep our schools open for the sake of Georgia's children. It is my earnest hope that this will be done," he said.

"Not Properly Financed." "Georgia's public schools system is not and never has been properly or adequately financed," he stated. "The increasing appropriations made by the general assembly from year to year have never been paid promptly and the result has been constantly increasing and accumulated unpaid balances due to the common school system from the state treasury."

"These have accumulated to the point that a very embarrassing situation exists but we have not yet come to a crisis that would necessitate the closing of very many of the public schools. Georgia's public school system is not facing bankruptcy so long as it holds a perfectly valid claim against the state for an amount, which, if fully paid, will easily relieve the present embarrassment."

"With this debt paid our school system would be in the best financial condition of its history, and with bright prospects for future progress and development. It will be paid in full—not immediately but certainly —and with this assurance public school officials should be encouraged. "Besides, our public schools do not rely wholly upon the state's appropriations for their support. Local county, district and municipal taxes now furnish considerably more than half of the support to our common school system."

"The schools should begin to realize from these local sources of support within the next 30 and 60 days, and thus the present emergency, in some sections threatening a crisis, can be averted."

"It is temporary and should challenge the highest business ability of local administrative school officials. Most of them will in this temporary emergency prove their business ability and resourcefulness and fitness for the high positions which they hold, by finding a way to keep their schools open."

Loss to State Seen.

"To deny the children educational opportunities, even temporarily, would entail such a loss to the state as could not be expressed in terms of dollars and cents. State officials upon whom the responsibility rests are making all proper and possible efforts to secure full and prompt payments from the state. Let all local, county and district officials make similar efforts at the collection of local school taxes."

"With the prospect of funds at an early date from each one of these sources, and with prompt small payments each month from the equalization fund, there is no reason why we should not tide over the present emergency and keep our public schools open for the sake of Georgia's children."

"It is my earnest hope that this will be done. Let us all work together to tide over this emergency and we shall then face better prospects for the future. After we bridge this emergency for the next few months the new sources of revenue provided by the last legislature will begin to function, and from these we expect relief."

POLL TAX REVISION REACHES DUGGAN. The decision of Governor L. G. Hardman that poll tax receipts appropriated to educational purposes constituted a part of the regular common school appropriation and not a separate fund, which was announced at the governor's office Thursday, reached the desk of Dr. M. L. Duggan, state superintendent of education, Friday afternoon.

Dr. Duggan declined to make a statement as to what if any further action would be taken by him in support of his contention that the poll tax money was a sum in addition to the regular appropriation. He said that he would have time neither to read nor digest the written opinion of the governor Friday.

Governor Hardman's decision affirmed an opinion given by Attorney General George M. Napier, and was largely based upon the verbiage of a message to the last legislature relative to educational funds, signed by himself, the comptroller general and the state auditor.

CANADIAN PARTY HIT FOR TARIFF ATTITUDE

Winnipeg, Man., November 1.—(P) MacKenzie King, liberal premier of Canada, tonight attacked the conservative party for proclaiming "a menace to our political life arising out of something that was transpiring in the United States," and for urging immediate retaliation in the way of a tariff.

In his first political address since the prorogation of parliament last July the premier recalled that R. B. Bennett and some of his conservative followers had suggested during the last session of parliament that that body should be kept in session pending final action on tariff revision in the United States.

"A fine spectacle we would have made of parliament as a deliberative assembly had we acted upon that advice," Mr. King said. "In view of the events of the last few months how ridiculous a spectacle Canada would have presented to the world had we adopted the suggestion of Mr. Bennett and other members of his party and remained in session in order to deal with a so-called menace which has not yet materialized."

"Does anyone imagine that the United States congress would have cringed before an attitude of that kind? As a matter of fact, would not such a course have proved in the long run the best means whereby to defeat our own ends?"

The prime minister outlined in detail the system under which a tariff bill is prepared in the United States congress and then traced the history of the debate in both houses since April 12 when the special farm relief session was called by President Hoover. Mr. King referred to the action of the senate in voting down proposed renewal of the president's tariff to vary the tariff within limits under special circumstances without the consent of congress.

"In a statement issued three days prior to the passage of this amendment," Mr. King said, "President Hoover undertook a reasoned defense of the flexible provision as defined in the present tariff act. His opposition to the senate action was sufficiently strong to many observers to warrant the prophecy that he would refuse to sign a tariff bill transferring this power, now enjoyed by the president, to congress. That is about where matters stand at present. It is now pretty evident that there is little or no possibility of any tariff bill becoming a law at this session."

The premier said he believed that the dominion parliament would be again in session before any tariff revision takes place in the United States—"if it is all." A provocative attitude, said Mr. King, "might well have served to hasten the raising of the United States tariff against our country not in a few directions but all along the line."

Augusta Conference Of A. M. E. Church Hears Bible Lectures

Vidalia, Ga., November 1.—(Special.)—The third day's session of the Augusta conference of the A. M. E. church opened with conference Bible institute work, with Dr. John Harmon, presiding elder, Valdosta district, presiding.

More than 300 ministers, lay delegates and visitors heard lectures delivered in the Bible institute by Dean S. H. Giles, President W. A. Fountain, Morris Brown university, of Atlanta, Ga., and Dr. C. A. Wingfield, superintendent of the state Sunday school work, here today.

Trustees for Morris Brown university were named and qualified to serve for the coming year. The judiciary committee reported on matters of personal nature under special recommendations. The conference missionary society observed its regular conference anniversary, presided over by State Missionary Superintendent J. A. Fountain. The character of the ministers were passed upon by the conference.

Rev. J. D. Dixon, A. J. Glanton, J. W. Lancaster, G. E. Davis, rendered full reports today. A model conference Sunday school anniversary will be conducted Sunday morning.

DEER HUNT Distinguished Georgians in Big Hunt on Ossabaw Island.

Savannah, Ga., November 1.—(P) A party of Georgians, distinguished in public affairs, gathered on Ossabaw Island today for a deer hunt as guests of Dr. H. N. Torrey. Among those present were Colonel Sam Tate, Vivian Stanley and Seward Smith, of Atlanta; Dr. O. C. Gibson, of Macon, and members of the board of commissioners of Chatham county.

20 RADIO STATIONS FORFEIT LICENSES

Many Changes Ordered in Wave Lengths and in Tune Assignments.

BY MARTIN CODEL. (Copyright, 1929, for "The Constitution and North American Newspaper Alliance.")

Washington, November 1.—Twenty broadcasting stations, most of them on local channels, today forfeited their licenses and were ordered to suspend operations immediately, because of their failure to apply to the federal radio commission for license renewals as of November 1.

Various changes in wave lengths and operating time assignments of other stations were also ordered, effective December 1, by the commission, chiefly in the Kansas, Iowa and Chicago areas.

The stations ordered off the air are: WEPB, Gloucester, Mass.; WHDL, Tupper Lake, N. Y.; WHBO, Canton, Ohio; WBR, Steubenville, Ohio; WRK, Hamilton, Ohio; WBY, Charleston, S. C.; WDAE, Tampa, Fla.; WMEL, Lakeland, Fla.; WNT, Nashville, Tenn.; KGDH, San Antonio, Texas; KGHG, McGehee, Ark.; KGHX, Richmond, Texas; KTES, Shreveport, La.; WBB, Valparaiso, Ind.; KFKZ, Kirksville, Mo.; KGCU, Mandan, N. D.; KLP, Minot, N. D.; KDB, Santa Barbara, Cal.; KSEL, Pocatello, Idaho, and KUOM, Missoula, Montana.

Major changes in broadcast assignments included the granting of full-time operation to WDAF, Kansas City, on its present wave length and with its present power, the commission stating that "this station deserves full time because it is one of the most important regional channel stations in the fourth zone."

Many Changes Made. Station WQQ, Kansas City, now sharing with WDAF, was allotted two-sevenths time on the frequency of 1,300 kilocycles, dividing hours of operation with KFL, Wichita, which will have the remaining time. Station WIBW, Topeka, now on 1,200 kilocycles, was transferred to 580 kilocycles and granted 500-watt power during the evening and 1,000 watts during daylight hours. The Topeka station will share time with KSAQ, Manhattan, Kan.

Station WISL, Iowa City, was changed from 580 to 600 kilocycles, where it will share time with WMT, Waterloo, Iowa. The latter is now operating experimentally on this wave length, and was granted 250-watt power for regular operation on it.

Station WCFL, of the Chicago Federation of Labor, now operating during daylight hours only on 970 kilocycles, was moved to the regional channel of 1,280 kilocycles and granted full time. Its power will be 1,500 watts until local sunset and 1,000 watts after sunset.

Stations Shifted. The WCFL shift necessitated a shuffle of several local stations in the Chicago area, namely, WEHS, WKBI and WHFC. These stations are now on 1,230 kilocycles and will be moved to 1,500 kilocycles. Their hours of operation, however, will be limited to the time when WSOA, WJAZ and WOPR are not operating. The latter are all 5,000-watt stations on the nearby channel of 1,480 kilocycles.

Stating that North and South Dakota deserve better service, the commission shifted WJAZ, Fargo, to half time on 1,280 kilocycles to full time on 940 kilocycles, its power remaining unchanged. Stations KFXP and KPEL, both in Denver, were taken off the 940 kilocycle channel and shifted to 630 kilocycles. The Denver broadcasters will continue as before to share hours equally on their joint new channel.

A conditional full-time assignment to WEBC, Superior, Wis., was ordered by the commission. This station was moved one notch down on the dial, being shifted from 1,280 kilocycles to 1,290 kilocycles. This will continue in effect until WHA, Madison, Wis., is later assigned part time on the same channel.

THOMASTON SCHOOLS NOT TO BE CLOSED

Thomaston, Ga., November 1.—(Special.)—Superintendent Thurston states that the board of education will be in position to operate the schools without interruption. The board is not in debt, and the local bank here is amply able to take care of the payment of teachers.

KEY TO TREASURE HOUSE How to Obtain First Aid to All Helpful Information

Just think of the vast treasures of words full of rich and rare meaning that lie locked up in our language, hidden away from common use and enjoyed only by the learned few! It is as if, possessing the mineral wealth of the world, ready for the mint, we scornfully turned aside to remain in poverty.

The Dictionary constitutes the treasure house of our language. As a people we needlessly deprive ourselves of the great help at our command. In our daily tasks, not one of which can be performed without the use of words, we possess only the most primitive tools, while we might be equipped with the keenest and most efficient.

As the Dictionary is the barred and bolted treasure house, then the coupon printed elsewhere in this issue is the key that unlocks it. It is possible for every reader to own this new Dictionary.—(adv.)

Advertising, Patent Laws Change Course of Living, F. A. A. Speaker Declares

Two Economic Fallacies Overcome After 2,500
Years, H. F. Stronier Asserts.

Advertising and the protection of patent rights by law have changed the whole course of civilization in recent years, Harold F. Stronier, education director of American Institute of Banking, declared Friday night in his address at the annual banquet of the Financial Advertisers Association which brought to a close the day's program.

"For more than 2,500 years the world has been dominated by two economic fallacies. First, that goods cannot be exchanged without loss and therefore should not be exchanged and second, that the condition of the rank and file of the people cannot be improved without bringing disaster," the speaker stated.

See Modest Victory Cause.
"Protection of ideas through patent laws has done much to change production methods and bring a new industrial era," he continued, "and then came advertising. It became recognized that distribution and consumption were equally as important as manufacture of goods, and advertising has supplied the intangible force to make these last steps possible. We are living in an age of changes and more changes."

The speaker declared that advertising and publicity won its most dramatic victory when following a conference on Wall street Tuesday a statement was given out over the signature of John D. Rockefeller: "My son and I have been buying securities steadily for the past two days." This, more than any other one thing, helped to bring the financial panic which was impending, Mr. Stronier declared.

New Faith Forecast.
In concluding his talk, he stated that delegates to the convention would return to their homes today with a new faith in the economic stability of this section of the country. Mr. Stronier's address on "Merchandising—the New Financial Tempo" was the principal feature of the annual banquet. The program also included a talk from Preston E. Reed, executive secretary of the organization, on "How to Use the F.A.A." and an address by Robert Strickland, vice president of the Fourth National Bank, who was toastmaster. Election of the final business session of the convention this morning, at which time A. E. Bryson, of the Halsey Stuart Company, Chicago, first vice president of the organization, is slated to succeed C. H. Wetterau as president. This morning's session will be called to order at 9:30 o'clock by Mr. Wetterau, following which the prize contest committee will make its report. The business session proper gets under way at 10 o'clock with the receipt of the reports of standing committees on research, publicity, investment, trust development, exhibit, membership, standardization, convention city and the report of the treasurer.

Committee Reports.
Reports of the resolutions committee and the nominating committee are the last on the schedule and the election of officers will conclude the session. Many of the delegates expect to attend the Tech-Notre Dame football game this afternoon before leaving the city.

Departmental Sessions.
Three separate departmental sessions Friday morning and Friday afternoon kept the delegates hard at work and sandwiched between these was the noon luncheon at which Mrs. Frances Rosenblatt, income analyst, First National Bank, Detroit, spoke on "How to Interest Women of Means in Financial Matters." Charles H. McMahon, assistant vice president, First National Bank, Detroit, presided.

Mrs. Rosenblatt declared that women are becoming more interested in finance than ever before and that the result of this has been to force banks and other financial institutions to enlarge their facilities to accommodate this extra business. She denied that women wanted to be "coddled" in financial matters and asserted that they wanted to be given intelligent information in regard to the handling of their money.

Trust Department Session.
"The Mechanics of Trust Department Work" was the topic of the trust department session which opened Friday. H. F. Pelham, vice president of the Citizens and Southern National Bank, presided at this meeting and the speakers included H. S. Roney, general manager, new business development, Equitable Trust Company, New York; Bernard W. Butler, director of economic research, Plan-Estate Services, of Flint and Detroit, Mich.; Samuel Witting, second vice president, Continental Illi-

Don Knowlton, advertising director, Union Trust Company, Cleveland, presided at the commercial departmental session which was featured by addresses on the question of the relation of commercial banking to advertising and the development of the checking account service of a bank. Speakers at this session included Charles H. McMahon, assistant vice president, First National Bank, Detroit; Fred M. Staker, advertising manager, Commerce Trust Company, Kansas City; Leopold Chalmers, assistant vice president, Fidelity Union Trust Company, Newark, and David Auch, assistant secretary, Ohio Bankers' Association.

"Layouts and Topography of Investment Advertising," "Advertising Investments Trusts" and "Radio for Financial Advertising" were discussed at the investment departmental session by Lloyd Smith, chief of the Division of Finance, Federal Reserve Bank, Chicago; Leland Rex Robinson, president International Securities Corporation, New York, and Butler, director of economic research, Plan-Estate Services, of Flint and Detroit, Mich.; Samuel Witting, second vice president, Continental Illi-

TARDIEU IS CONFIDENT HE CAN RUN CABINET

French Crisis Brightens as Fourth Leader Tries to Form Government.

Paris, November 1.—(AP)—Andre Tardieu, stepping in where Aristide Briand declined to tread and where two other political leaders had failed, confidently asserted, President Doumergue tonight that he would be ready to present a cabinet list by 7 p. m. tomorrow.

Believing that the interests of France as a nation are more important than the interests of political groups, the more conservative elements of the republic are striving to bring into being under Tardieu a ministry which will at once command the respect of the nation and stand a reasonable chance of obtaining a majority in the chamber of deputies when votes are taken on national policies.

Many feel that the parliamentary system of government as organized in France is now passing through a severe test. From the fall of the Briand government on the opening day of parliament on a question of procedure in matters to be discussed, the next 11 days have been filled with efforts by one man or another to bring a sufficient number of members of the many parties into agreement on a general program that would permit the machinery of government to go on.

The task was first submitted to the members of the radical party. President Edouard Daladier, of the party, failed and fell out with M. Briand. Etienne Clementel, of the same party, had no better success and blamed Daladier for insisting upon receiving the politically important portfolio of the interior.

ATTORNEY'S VACATION KEEPS 6 MEN IN JAIL

Charlotte, N. C., November 1.—(AP) Six National Textile Workers' Union members, convicted of second degree murder, are spending the vacation of J. Jimison, their attorney, in jail here.

At least that is the explanation of other attorneys for the men who bond permitted them pending an appeal to the state supreme court has not been posted. The situation, they say, is this:

The American Fund for Public Service, Inc., of New York, has agreed to furnish bond amounting to $25,000 for the men, but asks that $15,000 already advanced as bond for three women who at one time were held in the case be returned first. Mr. Jimison, who has the $15,000, is on vacation and his present whereabouts are unknown. When he returns from vacation the $15,000 will be available as bond.

The three women—Amy Schechter, Sophie Melvin and Vera Buch—were charged with second degree murder when the state brought charges of first degree murder against 15 men in connection with the slaying of O. P. Adair, Gastonia chief of police, during textile strike disorders there. Bonds of $5,000 each were posted for them through Jimison by the American Fund for Public Service, Inc.

Later the charges against the three women and six of the men were dropped. Officials returned the $15,000 to Jimison. Fred Erwin Beal, K. Y. Hendricks, Joseph Harrison, Clarence Miller, W. M. McGinnis, Louis McLaughlin and George Carter were tried and convicted of second degree murder. They appealed and Judge M. V. Barnhill, the presiding judge, fixed bond for them pending hearing of the appeal. That was 10 days ago. Jimison left on vacation the day the trial ended. Because Hendricks was ill the American Fund for Public Service, Inc., made bond of $2,000 for him yesterday, but is holding up promised bonds for the others pending return of the $15,000.

JURY HOLDS FATE OF PROHI RAIDER WHO SLEW FARMER

Chandler, Okla., November 1.—(AP)—It remained with a district court jury here tonight to determine whether Jeff D. Harris, specially deputized dry law rider, was guilty of murder when he shot and killed Oscar Lowery on a farm near Tecumseh, Okla., which Harris had searched for liquor that he did not have.

The case against the dry raider who also is charged with murder in connection with the killing of the owner of the farm, Lowery's brother-in-law, was given to the jury at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon.

The state has demanded the death penalty. Roy Lee, assistant prosecuting attorney of Pottawatomie county, shouted in his closing argument, "A cold blooded murder, if there ever was one."

FAMILY OF EIGHT KILLED IN CRASH AT GRADE CROSSING

Elkhart, Ind., November 1.—(AP)—Eight persons, all members of the same family, were killed at a grade crossing at Osceola, Ind., seven miles west of here, tonight when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by a New York Central passenger train.

SEN. SHIPSTEAD'S SON AND BEAUTY SHOP GIRL ELOPE

Washington, November 1.—(AP)—Weston R. Shipstead, 20-year-old son of Senator Shipstead, of Minnesota, eloped to Rockville, Md., last night and was married to Miss Hazel E. Thomson, 21, Washington beauty shop operator.

The Rev. Betram M. Osgood, pastor of the Rockville Baptist church, performed the ceremony. Friends of the couple said today that young Shipstead had known the girl about a year.

Sensor Shipstead's secretary said that he was in the west and was expected to return to Washington tonight or tomorrow.

DEBS AND GAME CENTER DAY'S ACTIVITIES

Miss Rogers and Miss Keiley Make Bow at Tea-Dance

The festivities concluding the first November week-end, mark the beginning of a month, crammed with various social activities, the spotlight being centered on debut parties, football games followed by teas and dances, weddings, and numerous other interesting and important affairs. The first debut of this gay autumn month will be a brilliant event of this afternoon, when Mr. and Mrs. Worth Rogers and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kelley will formally present to Atlanta society, their debutante daughters, Miss Martha Worth Rogers and Miss Margaret Kelley, at a tea-dance at the Druid Hills Golf Club, following the Tech-Notre Dame football game.

Atlanta football enthusiasts are always particularly interested in this annual game between Tech and Notre Dame as it is one of the outstanding gridiron conflicts of the year, and when the two teams meet on Grant field this afternoon Tech will be represented by two attractive sponsors, Miss Sarah Sharp and Miss Margaret Cuttino, of Sumter, S. C., who will be escorted to the sidelines preceding the kick-off. They will carry huge bouquets of gold and white chrysanthemums, showered with ribbons of the same tones, representing the colors of Georgia Tech.

Mrs. Bonnie West Entertains at Home.

Mrs. Bonnie West entertained the Epworth League and the Sunshine Class of the Nellie Dodd Memorial church Tuesday evening at a Halloween party at her home in Inman Park. Costumes were judged by Mr. and Mrs. H. Ely, Miss Elizabeth Turner winning the prize for the most attractive. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Ely, of Kansas City, Mo.; Le Roy Cook, of Kansas City, Mo.; and Mrs. Walter R. Frizzell, of Washington, D. C.

CONFUSION.

Dorling stood up and faced Mallerton. "Well, let 'em get on with it," he said. "I don't see how it is going to help you one way or another. I shall make a statement before I leave London."

"The fact that your reporting this conversation to Warren," said Mallerton, "as if he had not heard the other, will by itself do me no damage. In three hours I can remove such evidence as would convict me. In return for your silence for three hours I will give you, in effect a free pardon for your supposed crime in killing that plain clothes man at Southampton. True, I cannot now prevent your going back to Dartmoor, but you will only be there a day or two if you accept my offer. . . . I know the man who really killed that plain clothes officer."

"So do I," snapped Dorling. "Tregar. Cora has already offered to give the necessary evidence."

"On terms which you do not care to accept," chuckled Mallerton. "It is too late to change your mind in that direction. Cora fled the country yesterday. But not before she left with me her affidavit setting forth the real facts of the Southampton case. I can convey that document to the home secretary this afternoon."

Mallerton left the sentence unfinished. For a second only Dorling hesitated, but in the second Mallerton spoke again.

"If you are feeling—er—squeamish, let me point out that you have completely destroyed my organization. I cannot, at my time of life, begin all over again."

"I'm squeamish right enough!" retorted Dorling. "Much too squeamish to deal with a man who incites other men to murder. You can go to the devil, Mr. Mallerton."

He was making towards the door when Mallerton, still impressive, stayed him with a gesture.

"By the way—you said the chief was a coward, I think. What is the supreme test of courage? To look death in the face without a quail, I imagine. . . . When you turned your back on me just now, telling me to go to the devil, I took a fatal dose of poison. I shall be dead in about seven minutes."

There was that in his face that told Dorling he was telling the truth. He rushed to the door, flung it open, and shouted to the clerks to fetch a doctor.

There were cries, a shuffling of feet and a confusion of men in the corridor.

"What's all this?" demanded a man with a gruff voice, and gripped him. The other men closed around him. "Are you coming quietly, Douglas Harris?"

"Quietly as you like—but I want to send an urgent message to Detective Inspector Ranson."

"That's all right," said the man who had arrested him. "You know as well as I do that if you want to write a letter you'll have to get the governor's permission. Come on."

There is a certain rigidity in the administration of the law. The wheels, once started, cannot in a moment be stopped. Three days had passed before Dorling was released from Dartmoor.

True, that in those three days things were made as tolerable for him as possible. He was taken, not to his cell, but to the hospital, and, although no official information was given, he was allowed to infer that something was afoot.

On the morning of the third day he was summoned to the governor's private room—not his office. Standing by the governor was Detective Inspector Ranson, who at once held out his hand.

"I don't think there's any need for me to make the usual speech," said the governor, smiling. He had suddenly ceased to be the formidable governor of the prison, and had become a likeable fellow creature.

"We tried to prevent your being brought back here, Lord Dorling," said Ranson. "But the regulations were too many for us. We have the pardon, of course, but the first thing to be settled is whether you're going to be pardoned or stay dead. It's for you to say."

"The position is this," explained the governor. "You have been brought here under suspicion of being No. 271, Douglas Harris—who is now pardoned. But if you are as anxious as we are to avoid unnecessary publicity it is still possible for us to release you as being Lord Dorling and not Douglas Harris."

"I don't mind how you kick me out, sir," laughed Dorling, "provided you'll never want me to come back."

For several minutes the governor and Ranson discussed technicalities. Then the governor left the room, saying that he would return soon with the necessary papers.

"They wouldn't let me write to you," began Dorling, as soon as he was alone with Ranson. "How did you—"

"We heard every word that passed between you and Mallerton," interrupted Ranson. "You see, Mr. Warren thought rather more of your idea than he cared to admit. The result was that I and two assistants were outside Mallerton's window on an improvised balcony."

"He was dead before the doctor arrived," continued Ranson. "Naturally, we lost no time in going through his place at Barrington square. We found Cora's affidavit—and they think they've given us the slip. We're not bothering about the mere assistants. The only one we really want is Frederick—and he has managed to get away."

"But the Cornelia itself?" asked Dorling.

"No case," said Ranson. "Mallerton was chief shareholder in the company that owned her. She was a sort of convalescent home for the customers of the gang. The captain knew his passengers were rich semi-invalids, but not much else."

"And then there was that queer night club—the Moonbeam?" prompted Dorling.

"That was perfectly genuine and respectable—as a dancing club," Ranson told him. "It was used as a cover—the real business being done in the upper clearing house. All messages came through there. Beresford was a sort of chief of staff. But he left a lot of memoranda behind. Rather a careless fellow, really. We were able to trace from his notes the two remaining airplanes which had been flown to a place some 50 miles inland from Mortvaig."

Some half an hour later Dorling passed through the prison gates, a free man.

In the semi-circular space in front of the gates a two-seater was parked—Cecily Warren's car, with Cecily herself at the wheel.

"Hello!" she greeted him casually.

"I happened to be pottering about and someone told me you might be blowing along. If you've nothing better to do, come for a joy ride."

The impersonal casualness of her voice jarred him. Was this her welcome after all they had been through together?

In fairness he reminded himself that she was only holding him to his word. She had spoken to him like that at their last meeting—after he had told her that to him she was no more than a pleasant acquaintance.

"Thanks awfully!" he drawled and got into the car beside her.

She started the engine and a moment later the prison was slipping into the distance behind them.

Through an avenue and then to the open moorland.

"Topping view, if you care for that kind of a thing," she remarked.

"Not much in my line—it's all so obvious," he returned, determined to let her see that he was not suffering.

"Hit her up—and I'll give you lunch in Exeter. It's a bit of a hole, but I daresay we can get a reasonably decent meal."

A ripple of laughter broke from her.

"You can't keep it up until we get to Exeter," she exclaimed.

"Keep what up?"

"Talking tosh. Even if you can, I can't. In another minute I shall be talking sense, if we aren't both very careful."

Something in her voice galvanized him. In defiance of every known rule of good behavior for passengers he switched off the engine and, grabbing the wheel, steered the car into the side of the road.

"Cecily!"

There was that in her eyes that made explanation unnecessary. It was the oldest expression in the world, but he gazed at it in wonder.

"What made you think I couldn't have waited nine years for you, if it had been necessary?"

"No man dare ask that of a woman."

"Only now—"

"Now we needn't even wait nine days—if you get a special license," she broke in.

Then, regardless of a passing charabanc loaded with holiday makers, he took her in his arms and kissed her. (Copyright, 1929, by The Constitution.)

have bands on the brim and crowns, others have not. Maybe the difference is just the buttonhole in the lapel of the coat.

It takes real care and cleverness to point out the difference and find the two real Twins, because two and only two are identically the same.

90 points given for finding the twins ---and to win the first prize---only 10 more points are required. The final ten points may be easily earned by giving the correct or nearest correct titles to 20 cartoons---the third 4 of which are shown at the left of this page. Four more will be given tomorrow in the Constitution and 4 each day until the entire 20 have been published---Look for them.

You will be given 90 points for finding the twins. Immediately on receipt of your correct answer to the twins we will send you 20 cartoons similar to those on this page and particulars for winning the big cash prizes and the magnificent $1,500.00 Buick sedan for promptness. No words to build---no dictionary to refer to. Everyone has an equal chance. To earn the final ten points you will find it simple, fascinating and amusing. Beneath each cartoon are a number of titles to the most popular movies and among them can always be found the correct one.

Qualifications

Any man, woman, boy or girl, resident of Georgia or adjoining states, who is not an employee of The Atlanta Constitution, or a member of an employee's family, may submit an answer.

The whole family may co-operate in this competition, but only one prize will be awarded a member of a family, or any one of a group outside of the family where two or more have been working together for a prize in any one prize group; but one person may win one prize in each of the three prize groups and also have a chance of winning the $1,500.00 automobile for promptness. This contest is conducted by The Atlanta Constitution, and prizes will be awarded after the close of the contest November 12, 1929. In event of ties in the final awarding prizes of equal value will be given.

10 CASH PRIZES IN EACH PRIZE GROUP

You can win first prize in list 1, first prize in list 2, first prize in list 3, or you can win one prize in each prize group, but not more than one prize in a group. This gives you a chance of winning all of the first cash prizes, or a total of $4,000.00 cash plus a magnificent $1,500.00 four-door Buick Sedan, fully equipped with spotlight, for promptness.

Boys' High Scores Twice in Last 10 Minutes To Beat Knoxville, 13-6

Recovered Punt Starts Fine Rally

McCulley Rams For Four Yards and Score; Davis Counts on 45-Yard Run.

By Roy White.

Trailing by six points and with only eight minutes left to play, Boys' High staged a determined rally and defeated Central High, of Knoxville, Tenn., 13 to 6, Friday afternoon at Spiller's.

It was a 71-yard punt by Captain Elliott which Boys' High recovered on Knoxville's four-yard line that turned the defeat into victory. Sprattling recovered and one play later McCulley rammed the Knoxville line for the necessary yardage and a touchdown and also bucked the ball over for the extra point.

Boys' High played a wonderful game of football in the final 10 minutes. Every play it ran seemed right and defeated the visiting eleven which had played the Hurricane off its feet in the first three quarters. Captain Elliott, Wink Davis, McCulley and "Kitty" Katz played unusually well for Boys' High.

Coach Doyle's experiments of the past week in shifting the varsity line-up proved to be a wise move. He started a "second" team with the exception of the backfield and after the first quarter had been played the varsity linemen were sent in and it did well.

Knoxville played a jam-up game, despite the fact that three of the regular varsity players were left behind because of injuries. The left side of the line was particularly strong on defense. The center of the line was also good on defense and Gentry at left end was the lad to catch a 20-yard pass from Capps and run 25 yards for the visitors' only touchdown.

Today's Round-Up

YALE-DARTMOUTH—At New Haven. When Booth and Marsters start to running, As Booth and Marsters surely will, The whole effect should be quite stunning. With raw nerves leaping to the thrill; But while I know young Booth can scurry, One of the best of the game has seen, The Blue will also have to worry About the Thunderbolt in Green. And while the battle tide is shifting, As rushing backs come storming through, Before the shades of night are drifting, The Green should wave above the Blue.

HARVARD-FLORIDA—At Cambridge. The Alligator is no pet That one should bother, poke or fret! With spike-like teeth he makes you quail, And then he socks you with his tail. And yet he's come a long, long way, From where the palms and pine-trees sway, Where orange blossoms light the hedge, So I think Harvard has the edge.

PENNSYLVANIA-NAVY—At Philadelphia. The Navy ought to cop this bid, But there will be a squawk Unless they watch this Masters kid, And watch him take a walk. I rather think Bill Ingram's men Have too much for the Sons of Penn— But maybe I am wrong again.

NOTRE DAME-GEORGIA TECH—At Atlanta. The South Bend cyclone's on its way, And so I would suggest The Ramblin' Wreck from Georgia Tech Is in for quite a test; Though Thomson and Mizell still May flash and flare and shine, Moon Mullins, Elder and fleet Brill Are even harder guys to spill Behind the Irish line.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA-CALIFORNIA—At Los Angeles. I rather think the Golden Bear Will lose a patch of hide and hair, For any team that has the drop Upon that outfit coached by Pop. Yes, old Pop Warner's Stanford bunch Must have its share of speed and punch. So U. S. C. looks good to me, Which you can grab or let it be.

PRINCETON-CHICAGO—At Princeton. The Tiger at this season's feast Has been no wild, man-eating beast; The jungle, unlike days of yore, Has yet to tremble at his roar; And yet I think the Tiger's due To turn at last and scuffle through, I think his claws will be too keen For Dr. Stagg's Maroon machine.

TEXAS-SOUTHERN METHODIST—At Dallas. Texas should win out by a spurt, But I would not advise That you put up your final shirt— There might be a surprise.

COLUMBIA-CORNELL—At New York. Columbia has a good, stout chance To stop the Big Red Team's advance, But when the battle's on—pell mell— The safer bet will be Cornell. PITTSBURGH-OHIO STATE—At Pittsburgh. Here we have two unbeaten teams, But when the day grows late There'll be one left—just one—and it Won't be Ohio State.

VANDERBILT-ALABAMA—At Nashville. The Crimson Tide is pretty nifty, And may yet turn the trick, But I believe it's fifty-fifty, And you can take your pick. N. Y. U.-GEORGETOWN—At New York. The Violet of N. Y. U. By just a purple shade is due.

IN THE WEST. Purdue has too much speed to show Against Wisconsin's hardest blow, And Dr. Zuppke's rugged crew Has too much for Northwestern U.

Decatur Loses G.M.C. Trounces To Athens, 13-0 Riverside, 46-0

Decatur High celebrated homecoming Friday afternoon with a well-played football game against Athens High, despite the fact that the visitors won the game, 13 to 0. It was the seventh time that Athens has beaten Decatur, but the game Friday afternoon was one of the best that the DeKalb county lads has played this season.

Athens High was easily the favorite, especially since the visitors had scored a victory over Savannah High, one of the strongest in the state. Savannah was caught off its guard and beaten by G. M. C. and G. M. A. is one of the ranking teams in the City Prep league at present.

Decatur was outwitted both in the line and in the backfield but fought gamely throughout. In the first half the visitors failed to get within the Decatur 20-yard line.

In the third quarter Athens High started a 60-yard march down the field to score a touchdown. The visitors had only a few yards to go for a touchdown and four downs to go and the Decatur team rallied and held for three downs, but the fourth saw defeat as Morehead dove over the line.

In the fourth quarter Decatur carried the ball within scoring distance but lost on downs, when the visiting line held. Brown, Athens fullback, then rammed the Decatur line for a 5-yard gain and a touchdown.

Morehead's punts averaged 37 yards and Captain Johnston's boots averaged 32 yards. Decatur made four first downs against 14 for Athens. Caution, Brown and Morehead played best for the winners, while Cruce, Ansley, S. Flynt and Johnston played good for the losers.

Darlington Team Sinks T. M. I., 44-0

Rome, Ga., November 1.—Darlington, local prep eleven, trounced T. M. I. of Sweetwater, Tenn., 44 to 0, in a one-sided game here this afternoon. Hurt and Andrews, of the Tennessee team, were the outstanding men, while Hackett, Jones and Watson were the stellar lights for Darlington. Touchdowns were Watson, three; Jones, two; Hackett and Talley, one each. Extra points were by Watson.

SMITHIES PLAY IN SAVANNAH

Tech High Meets Strong Football Team This Afternoon.

Savannah, Ga., November 1.—(Special.)—Tech High school, southern prep champions of 1928 and leaders in the race for the 1929 crown, arrived in the city early tonight, for their game Saturday afternoon with Savannah High. Principal W. O. Cheney and 25 of the Tech High players were in the party which did not include Coach Claude Tolbert.

The Tech High coach remained over in Atlanta for the afternoon game between Boys' High and Knoxville High, which was won by Boys' High.

Coach Tolbert will arrive Saturday morning and a workout will be held then, it was indicated by members of the team.

Principal Cheney stated tonight that although Tech High has not had its goal line crossed this season, the Smithies are not taking the "Boys' High team lightly. Tech High realizes that Boys' High has one of its best teams and preparations are already being made for the annual meeting between the rivals.

Among the players in the party are: Captain Hutt, Hammond, Bullington, Boyd, Street, Thaxton, Cobb, B. Hadley, Sanders and Beard, for backfield duty, and Bender, Smith, Brown, Craven, Welch, Converse, Hinson, Morris, Brooks, J. Hadley, Payne, McNamara and Downen as linemen.

Ring Uplifters Renew Efforts To End Slump

Ancient Heavies Removed From Shelf and Mentioned for Title Fights.

By Frank Getty, United News Sports Editor.

New York, November 1.—(United News.)—With all the zeal and fervor of volunteer life guards, the heads of the boxing industry are attempting to revive the heavyweight situation.

When Bill Carey, of Madison Square Garden, put his official frown upon Max Schmeling and Jack Sharkey put his ham-like right upon Tommy Loughran the bottom fell right out of the heavyweight stock market.

Not only have we no heavyweight champion; we just about have no heavyweights. Things have reached a state where they are trying to re-introduce Johnny Risko and Paolino Uzcudun as logical contenders for the vacant title. Things have reached a state where the return of Gene Tunney, even, would be welcomed with cheers.

Jack Sharkey stands out head and shoulders over the American group. Phil Scott appears about the best from overseas. Scott was matched yesterday to fight Otto Von Porat here December 9.

The latest plan is to match the winner and Sharkey for a bout at Miami this coming winter. Bill Carey and Max Schmeling then will kiss and make up, and Max will meet Sharkey in an outdoor championship bout in New York next September.

VETS MENTIONED.

Artful hints are being inserted in the sports pages to the effect that Paolino Uzcudun really is a great fighter, after all, and that Johnny Risko "topped" them. Both are has-beens if, indeed, ever-wases, and it is a tip-off on the deplorable plight of boxing that their names are being dragged into the discussion at all. In the present sad state of affairs, a good manager is worth more than a hefty left hook, for the fighting is being done in the front office instead of in the ring. For this reason, we may rest assured that Phil Scott, the elongated London fire hound, will get all, probably more, than is coming to him. Jimmy Johnston is his manager, and Jimmy takes care of his own. His latest was to persuade the boxing authorities of great Britain to cable to New York a request that the Scott-Sharkey bout be recognized as for the heavyweight championship of the world.

NOTHING TO LOSE.

Having nothing to lose, the British authorities complied with the suggestion. Since Scott and Sharkey haven't been matched as yet, the request came somewhat prematurely. It had the true Johnstonian touch, however. Little Jimmy will be managing a heavyweight champion yet.

MISS MADDOX LOSES MATCH

Mrs. Doak Wins Albany Tourney After Rally, 1 Up.

Albany, Ga., November 1.—(P.)—Winning three of the last five holes of the match, Mrs. W. D. Doak, of Atlanta, overcame a two-stroke lead and captured first place in the Radium Springs golf tournament here today by defeating Miss Margaret Maddox, southern woman's champion.

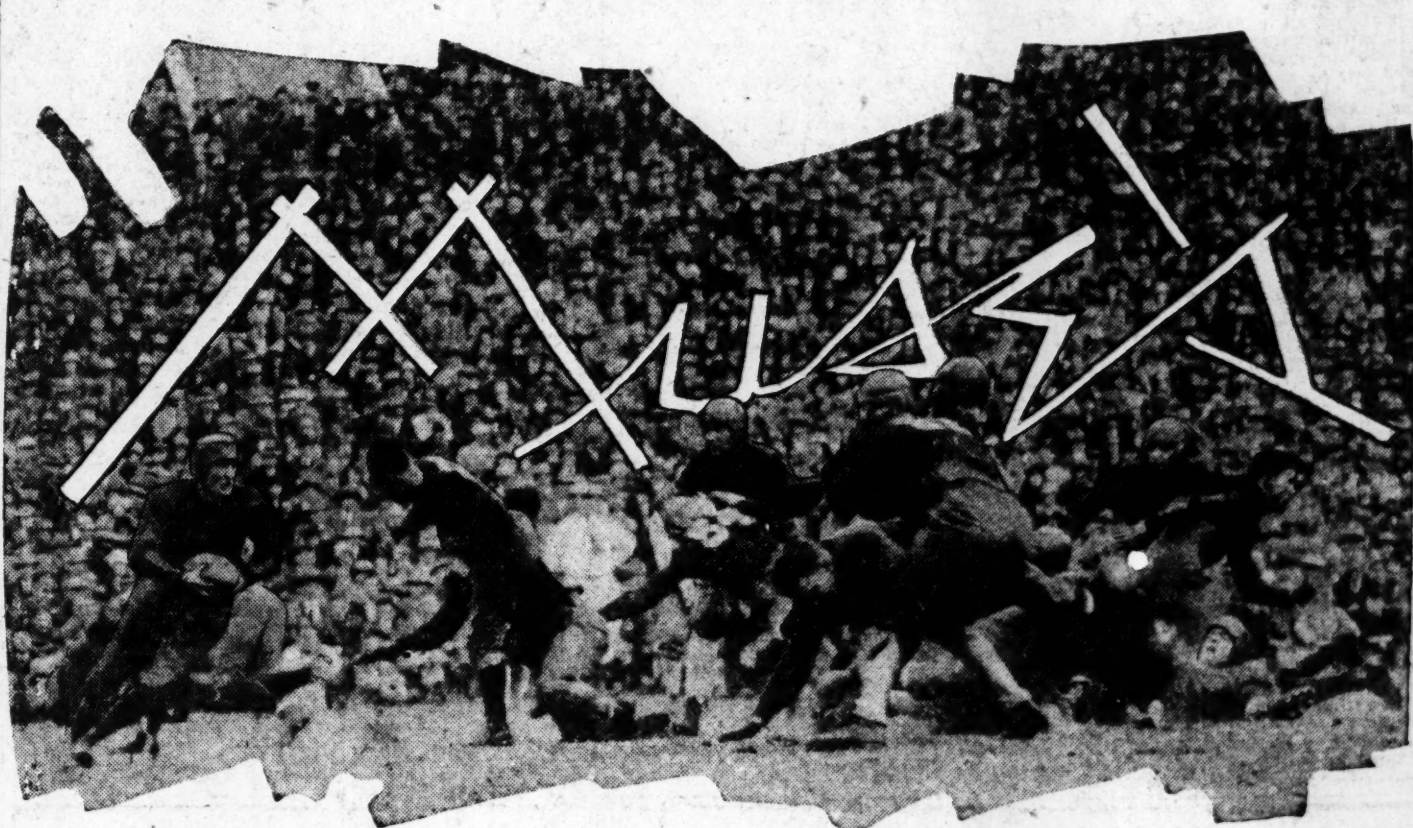

Mrs. Doak, although she won the medal round, was given only an outside chance to turn back the Dixie titleholder and her triumph was a decided upset.

At the turn advance predictions seemed borne out with Miss Maddox 2 up. This standing was maintained until the 14th was reached. Here Mrs. Doak flashed a birdie four against Miss Maddox's par five. The pair traveled along on even terms for the next two holes and many in the gallery thought Mrs. Doak's rally had been extinguished.

Sinking a long putt on the 17th the Atlanta woman produced a birdie three and squared the contest.

On the final hole Mrs. Doak pulled her second far off line. Miss Maddox, playing cautiously, dubbed an iron and was trapped. Mrs. Doak played a neat approach and they were on the green in fives. Mrs. Doak sank her putt for a par six, but Miss Maddox failed.

Tulane Flashes Power To Tumble Georgia Bulldogs, 21-15

GREENIES RALLY IN FINAL HALF TO WIN GAME

In this hand-to-hand battle that was fought here today.

Tulane romped 220 yards from scrimmage to 188 for Georgia. They each completed two passes. Georgia trying seven and making two good for 41 yards and a touchdown. Tulane tried thirteen passes and got two in the completed list for 21 yards.

There was not such a great difference there, as there was not such a great difference in the score. It was a magnificently fought battle, but the edge was unmistakably there. The best team won, but Georgia did not play a bad football game. They misused Austin Downs, who was a forlorn figure in citizens' clothes. They could have used Red Smith at end, but injuries kept them out.

As it happened the game hinged on that long march of 80 yards which Tulane made shortly after the second half. Had the Georgia football team been able to smash it down; had it had the power to beat back the Tulane backs. For Tulane did not have the power today that swept Georgia Tech aside. Or rather it was there but not as co-ordinated and as deadly as it was a week ago. Then it was working like the swing of a pendulum. Today it was sheer power.

GAVE EVERYTHING. That 80-yard march was the one in which Tulane put all its heart. It was to die or die they did. Had they failed Georgia's defense could have stopped anything that might have been mustered.

Georgia flung all it had in the way of what moving juggernaut of green but it was not enough. The Tulane line was playing a magnificent game. Slowly and surely it rolled back the fighting, clawing Georgia defense.

In all that long fight from the 20-yard line on across Georgia's goal line there was but one running play which went more than 10 yards and it was the second play run, Ford Secuws going 12 yards.

After that it was sweat and toil, dig and charge. Two passes aided, one gaining 11 yards, the other 10. But the Tulane charge ran into three offside penalties. They were offset by two on Georgia as the eager head-linemen went busily ahead.

BANKER TOSSED. Once Banker was flung for a loss of 6 yards. Once Armstrong lost as much. But on they rolled. The Tulane line was opening holes for the backs. They backed it out 4 and 5 at a time until they were first down at the 7-yard line.

Banker lost 2 yards but Ike Armstrong came back off his own right tackle to gain 6 yards. Banker took it over on the next play through a hole at right guard and that sweaty with loam and their jerseys were wet with sweat. The crowd cheered Banker, who had scored, but if there were any doubting heroes they were there in the Tulane line. As some of the experts had written, the line had decided the game.

That march really began at the 3-yard line, and Banker, who began it, ended it. Georgia had been stopped at line and hustled on alone. In the play previous, Dickens had stepped 20 yards. Photo by Kenneth Rogers.

Wave Holds Edge Over Bulldogs

Columbus, Ga., November 1.—(AP) Statistics of today's game between Georgia and Tulane reveal that the Green Wave gained a total of 291 yards against 224 for Georgia.

From scrimmage Tulane gained 250 yards and Georgia 188. On passes Georgia excelled, gaining 41 yards to 21 for the Greenies. First downs were 16 to 14 in favor of Tulane.

the line and the ends. They threw a pass that was almost in Vernon Smith's hands as he stood on the goal line. The flying Billy Banker leaped in and batted it out even as Smith's arms were closing.

TULANE'S BALL. The ball was batted on over the line to come back to the 20-yard line in Tulane's possession.

Still it was the air game which Georgia used to score the only touchdown made from scrimmage. The first two points came early in the game when Banker got a bad pass trying to punt. The ball was over his head, forcing him into the end zone, where he was downed by the alert Vernon Smith.

The first touchdown came after Georgia had worked the ball into scoring position. It was the old pass that helped humiliate Yale and beat North Carolina. It sailed on over a corner of the field, Chandler, to Vernon Smith. It went 18 yards before Smith took it and he ran 19 more over the line.

And it was one of Tulane's passes which almost brought them to grief. A break in the game gave Tulane a first down on Georgia's 3-yard line after the Georgians had stopped the attack. A fourth down pass was incomplete to the right but one of the Bulldogs, interfered with Banker at the left and the ball went to Tulane on the spot. From there they took it over.

SECOND SCORE. The second touchdown came on Ike Armstrong's mad dash through the entire Georgia team. Tulane got the ball on her own 35-yard line when Paris tried a pass on fourth down which went incomplete.

On the very first play Ike Armstrong darted through a hole opened in the right side of his line and cut back, shaking off the hands of at least three tacklers.

And then began the maddest and most hopeless pursuit ever seen. For a time it looked as if it might succeed. Red Leathers and Joe Boland started after him. Once it looked as if Red Leathers might catch him.

They had left the pack far behind. For the space of 10 yards Red Leathers drew nearer and nearer. There was a great silence in the stands, broken only by the garish music from a side-show playing just outside the stadium.

The merry-go-round was playing "That's My Weakness Now," an incongruously merry tune, as Armstrong pulled away and left the pursuing Georgians behind.

THREE EASY ONES. Tulane has only Auburn, Sewanee and L. S. U. ahead and there is little chance for them to lose in any one of the three. The way seems clear for an undefeated season at New Orleans.

This game today may have meant the championship of the Green team. They played like champions today.

And when they ask you who won it, tell them confidently that the line won it—pushing back the Georgia team slowly and inexorably as death in that grand, pulse-stirring campaign that netted 80 yards and a touchdown.

And when it was done and that sweaty, mud-stained line stood up, some of them with blood on their

Tech To Play At Gainesville

Georgia Tech has been invited to play University of Florida, November 22, 1930, in Gainesville, Fla., at the dedication of the new Florida stadium. It was announced Friday at Georgia Tech.

J. W. (Chip) Robert, of the Tech athletic board, stated that the game has been definitely scheduled but in case the 30,000 capacity stadium is not completed in Gainesville, the game will be played in Atlanta.

"This trip to Gainesville is the result of an invitation by Florida university officials to Tech to dedicate its stadium," said Mr. Robert, "and we consider it a distinct honor. Tech now has three trips for 1930, to Pittsburgh to play Carnegie Tech; to Chapel Hill, N. C., to play North Carolina, and to Gainesville to play Florida."

faces, I imagine that if there is any retreat for the heroes who have passed on where they may watch the conflicts below they must have applauded that Tulane line at the conclusion of that 80-yard march.

It was hot as the hour of the game neared. Johnny J. Jones and his big show were playing on a lot just outside the stadium.

The boys in the press box looked on with their glasses at the diving girls who were on top of the tank waiting for the Barker to get a crowd inside.

SLOW CROWD. The crowd came slowly in the stadium. It was a disappointment, the crowd was. They never got more than 8,000 and at least 15,000 were expected.

Two tents were erected at the south end of the stadium, one for each team. Tulane came on first and went off. Georgia came on in their white jerseys. Each team went to its tent for final instructions and the game went on, with Rip Majors refereeing, and a very good job he did of it, too.

Georgia was slapped with a bad break at the very outset of the game. Rothstein fumbled the kick-off and it was recovered by Ford Secuws, the man who had kicked it. It was Tulane's ball at Georgia's 23-yard line.

Georgia stopped that attempt and took the ball while the Georgia supporters cheered crazily. A Georgia march that was good for two first downs was stopped and Smith punted to Tulane's 6-yard line.

It was there that Banker got his bad pass that gave Georgia her safety and two points.

It looked then as if Georgia might have the jump.

COMEBACK. Tulane came right back and Charlie Rucker stepped into the picture. He paved the way for the first Tulane touchdown.

He was in and blocked Smith's punt, which had been wisely postponed until the fourth down. The ball was recovered by Rothstein after it had rebounded on back to Georgia's 25-yard line.

From there Tulane hammered it on down. Banker went to the line on one play but Tulane was offside.

Banker was stopped on the next play and Tulane tried a pass. Chandler knocked it down, but Banker, an eligible receiver, had been blocked at the 3-yard line and it was Tulane's ball there.

And over it went and Banker kicked goal.

Georgia had another march stopped shortly after the second quarter began, and from his own 35-yard line Armstrong made his history-making dash for Tulane's second touchdown.

COMFORTABLE LEAD. The quarter drew on with Tulane leading comfortably. Greed gave Georgia the lead. Baunuch, wanting a third touchdown, as many as they made against Tech, kept throwing passes. With a minute to play he threw one which Jack Roberts

Famous Quarter To Scout Irish

Aubrey Devine, famous as an All-American quarterback when he was at University of Iowa, arrived yesterday to scout Notre Dame for the University of Southern California.

Devine came in with Frank Birch, who will referee the game. The Southern California scout watched the Irish last week in the Carnegie Tech game, and he promises that Atlanta fans will see a great team in action when the Rockne forces get going today.

leaped up and grabbed. He caught the ball on his own 40-yard line and was past all the Tulane team but Banker, at the safety position, before the Greenies knew what had happened.

Ahead of him ran Patterson and Kelly. They took out Banker with no trouble at all and Roberts ran on as his cohorts capered in glee.

Georgia looked to have a great chance during the intermission. None expected Tulane to come back as it did. Yet come back the Greenies did, with that grinding 80-yard advance that won the game.

Tom Secuws played a great game at fullback for Tulane. He ran with the ball 15 times and he made 48 yards, which is a little better than three yards a clip.

Bill Banker ran 25 times and gained only 30 yards for an average no better than that of Secuws.

It was Armstrong who had the grand average. He slashed at the Georgia front just eight times, yet he gained 80 yards for an average of more than 11 yards per try.

None of the Georgia backs had an impressive average. Waugh, Dickens and Chandler had good averages, each being around 5 yards.

It was quite a game and I think the best team won.

They beat a good team, one that was and is a credit to its coaches and the university it represents; and there will be another day.

Russell High Defeated, 20-6

Rome High school defeated Russell High, 20 to 6, in an interesting football game Friday afternoon at East Point. The game was featured by several long drives by both teams.

Russell scored in the first quarter. They received the ball in their own territory on the kickoff and by a series of end runs and line plunges, coupled with a pass from Bond to Wood, a touchdown was scored.

Rome also scored in the first period when Martin skirted Russell's end for 87 yards, and later scored with a short line plunge. He was halted on Russell's 5-yard line. A blocked punt in the third quarter gave Rome High another touchdown and a long forward pass just as the game ended scored the final touchdown.

Light Work. Pittsburgh, Pa., November 1.—(United News.)—A light signal drill today completed a week of training for the Pittsburgh Panthers who meet Ohio State tomorrow. The game will be the first in Pitt's history with a Western conference opponent.

Today's practice was in the nature of keeping the players in trim as they have reached their peak in perfect physical condition. Josh Williams, who has been limping a bit since the hard Nebraska game, is virtually recovered and may start in the backfield against the Buckeyes.

MILLION-DOLLAR GATE EXPECTED TODAY IN EAST

Four Games Alone To Pull In Well Over $800,000.

By George Kirksey, United News Staff Correspondent.

New York, November 1.—Eastern football will do a million-dollar business tomorrow.

The four outstanding games alone will draw an aggregate of 270,000 persons and gate receipts in excess of $800,000. The 13 biggest games will attract an aggregate of about 500,000.

The biggest crowd will see the Yale-Dartmouth game at New Haven, where 80,000 will pack the sloping sides of the big Yale bowl to capacity. All seats—$4 each whether they're on the 50-yard line or behind the goal posts—have been sold and the gate receipts total $320,000.

Three other eastern games will draw capacity crowds. Almost 70,000 will see the Pittsburgh-Ohio State game at Pittsburgh, another 70,000 will witness the Pennsylvania-Navy clash at Franklin field, Philadelphia, and about 50,000 will attend the Harvard-Florida contest at Soldier's field, Boston.

PHILLY DRAWS. Philadelphia alone has three football games which will draw an aggregate attendance of 106,000—more people than saw the three games of the world series played in Philadelphia.

Besides the 70,000 which will see the Navy-Penn game, Temple and Bucknell will play to 21,000 and Villanova and Oglethorpe, victor over Georgia in the season's opening game, will pull in 15,000.

Boston has two intercollegiate games which will attract an aggregate of 70,000. In addition to the 50,000 at the Harvard-Florida game, about 20,000 will see the Boston College-Duke battle.

LARGE CROWD. Princeton, victorious in only one game this season, will play to about 45,000 in entertaining A. A. Stag's mediocre University of Chicago eleven. Georgetown and New York university will pack about 30,000 into Yankee stadium to see their game.

Among the other big games and estimated attendance are: Syracuse-Penn State at Syracuse—25,000.

Cornell-Columbia at Ithaca—20,000. Army-South Dakota at West Point—15,000. Holy Cross-Brown at Worcester—15,000. Lafayette-Washington and Jefferson at Washington, Pa.—12,000.

Fight Looms. New York, November 1.—N. Y. U. held a light drill today on the eve of tomorrow's Yankee stadium game with Georgetown. A real fight looms for tomorrow. Coach Chick Mehan said that his team was in "the best shape so far this year." He also said that he looked for a "hard, intense struggle."

Florida, Oglethorpe and Duke Invade East For Games Today

BOOTH MEETS AL MARSTERS AT YALE BOWL

Injuries Handicap 'Gators and Make Harvard Favorite.

By William J. Chipman,
Associated Press Sports Writer.
New York, November 1.—
(AP)—With many strange elevens from far football lands already upon the scene in the east, Atlantic seaboard forces faced a final tuning-up today in preparation for tomorrow's warfare. Chicago's invasion of Princeton after an eight-year hiatus and Ohio State's visit to Pittsburgh held most of the intersectional interest, while the Yale-Dartmouth clash at New Haven dominated the strictly eastern card.

Amos Alonso Stagg, the grand old man of the midway, coaching his thirty-eighth Chicago eleven, is in Princeton with a somewhat subnormal
Maroon-clad squad, facing a Tiger which gives promise of closing his season with a rush. The gait struck by Princeton against the Navy should be enough to register an Orange and Black victory, but Professor Stagg has been known to win the past with inferior material.

Injuries to star Florida players have established Harvard as something of a favorite in the Southern invasion at Cambridge. However, the Crimson itself will be weakened by missing stars.

Pittsburgh's great eleven remains a favorite to win from an Ohio State squad which has yet to distinguish itself except in a defensive way. Here again, however, the underdog retains a chance because the Buckeyes have more incentive to win than have their opponents.

Other intersectional frays will find the Army arrayed against South Dakota; Boston college against Duke;
Villanova against Oglethorpe, and Colgate against Hampden-Sydney. The eastern elevens are strong favorites to sweep these four engagements.

While Al Marsters and Albie Booth are contending for Dartmouth and Yale before 70,000 enthusiasts at the Yale bowl, an ambitious Navy eleven will be endeavoring to make it three straight over Pennsylvania at Franklin field. The Red and Blue seems to fall somewhat below the standard of the current Midshipmen, but this game may see Lou Young's charges find themselves.

Other leading games on the eastern card are close, with little or no choice between the various pairs of rivals.
Syracuse is favored to shade Penn State and Brown and Holy Cross seem to be equal all along the line.

Cornell is favored over Columbia, largely because the big Red team rolled back Princeton two weeks ago, but the Blue and White has come along rapidly since its crushing defeat by Dartmouth on October 19.
Lafayette and W. and J. take the field on equal terms, as do Bucknell and Temple. Any edge that may exist seems to lie with W. and J. and Bucknell.

Georgetown and New York university should provide a pretty scramble for metropolitan enthusiasts, with two great lines going into action before uncertain backfields.

Star of Jacket Rush Line

Jim Brooke, tall guard, has shown up in Tech's games this season as the strongest performer in the rush line. His play in the Florida and Tulane games stamped him as a finished lineman. His play against the Irish today at the Flats will be closely watched.

Tech Marathoners To Race Clemson

Georgia Tech's cross country team will open its season this morning when they race the harrishers of Clemson college. Starting time has been set at 11:30 o'clock.

The jacket distance squad, hard hit by graduation last spring, has however, been reinforced by several of Coach Hal Barron's "finds," and is counted on to put up a good battle against the strapping Tiger quintet.

Led by Captain Al Crisfield and Johnny Summerour, the only two letter men back this year, the Jackets will face the Clemson team with four green men. Bill Herrin, Ken Thomas, Harold Asbury and "Flash" Reed were all uncovered in the recent inter-fraternity run and the cake race. All have shown well in practice jaunts.

Full Strength.

Princeton, N. J., November 1.—
(United News.)—With one exception, Princeton will have its full strength ready to start the Chicago game here tomorrow. Bill Moore, left guard, was reported definitely benched because of injury. Langdon Lea has won the regular right end berth, replacing Buck Pendergast.

ent was in South Bend for the opening game. Savoldi was born to be something, but not a fullback, Coach Rockne insisted.

And all through the 1923 season Joe's infrequent appearances in varsity games bore out Rockne's estimate of him. He was willing, but utterly unable to fathom the intricacies of Notre Dame play.

Now look at him. He made two touchdown runs against Wisconsin for 40 and 71 yards, respectively. He has the speed of a track man and the frame of a tackle. He is a powerful blocker and a wide-awake defensive man. Savoldi stuck to it, took his medicine and came through. His triumph should inspire big footed boys who are prone to be discouraged over their slow progress.

HURRAH FOR LAROEY.

Laroy Westerweller, the Washington end, who ran in from the side lines and tackled an Oregon halfback who was running in a clear field for a touchdown, is hailed as the Roy Riegals of 1929.

Westerweller also should be mentioned for his courage. He merely did what every substitute on the side lines has longed to do for all these years.

Westerweller shattered convention in one big moment. Westerweller had the courage to be himself. He is not held up as an example to the young; it would be annoying if the fashion became prevalent. But one must admit Westerweller was original for once in a game that is shockingly machine-made.

DELAY THE FLOWERS.

Georgia Tech has a chance to defeat Notre Dame today. Of course, Tech has a chance. Football annals bristle with instances in which a team of far less possibilities than Georgia Tech has defeated a team of as great apparent strength as Notre Dame.

Any football team with a punter like Warner Mizell and a halfback like Stumpy Thomason is dangerous. On a given day Notre Dame could have bad breaks and Tech could be favored with football luck.

Do not feel sorry for Georgia Tech, at least until after the game.

COMMODORES PLAY TIDE

Clements, tackle, 205; Sington, guard, 210; Ebert, center, 200; Smith, tackle, 203. John Miller, the hustling running guard who often leads Alabama backs on their sweeping plays, scales 155. Weaver at right end weighs 155 and Moore, the fastest man of the lot, at left end, scales 170.

It is on that rush line, imposing in appearance and well-nigh flawless in performance, that the strength of the Crimson Tide is predicated.

REVISED BACKFIELD.

The revised backfield arrangement with the mighty Tony Holm to smash the line, John Suther to run the ends, Ralph McRight to block and pass and Monk Campbell to direct the attack and vary it with spin plays into the line will give Alabama a better offense than was shown in the Tennessee game.

To meet that team Vanderbilt has a lighter rush line but one that is mobile and skilled. The flanks will be guarded by Big Bill Swartz, last year a fullback, and Joe Scheffer, a fast, clever end. Lokey, last year an end, may be at one tackle and Morehead, the giant sophomore, at the other. Abernathy, the tall boy, is ready to fill in at either end or tackle. Williams and McNamara are the guards and Dan Sharp, another of the famous family, at center.

That line may have the speed in the charge to shatter the Alabama sea-wall or it may be crushed by superior weight; only the game can determine that.

SPEED.

Vanderbilt's backfield has more speed and better passing and punt possibilities than that of Alabama, but will lack the power on straight plays. "House" Leonard is a quarterback of the Bill Spears' type, a genuine triple threat and one of the best blockers in the conference.

Two good blocking backs are available in McIlwaine and McGaughey. Parker is a fullback of considerable ability and an excellent passer.

It has been said that, given a good punter, a good passer and a fair share of the breaks, a McGugin team can hold its own with any. Coach Dan Abernathy, the tall boy, is ready to fill in at either end or tackle. Williams and McNamara are the guards tory and intend to enjoy themselves here to the fullest. The players of the Green Wave will enjoy a rest from football for the day and became spectators.

By a non-scouting agreement between Coaches Alexander and Rockne, neither Tech nor Notre Dame has used fresh information on each other's formations and personnel this year. However, the two teams have been playing each other for seven years and the coaches have fully prepared their charges from information in hand.

Nearly all the present Notre Dame team played here last year and met defeat at the hands of Tech. The reversed quarterback style of the Yellow Jackets will be no new spectacle for them. Tech likewise has had valuable experience this year in looking at Notre Dame formations for the Florida and North Carolina teams both use the Rockne system.

BRILLIANT BACKS.
The Irish spent the week in light drills aimed mainly to tightening up the offense. The same was true at Tech. Coach Alexander had his varsity reassembled once more and worked them hard on offense as well as brushing up on the proper defensive set to employ.

Visitors to the Flats will see all the brilliant backs in action who levelled Indiana, sunk the Navy, ripped Wisconsin and knifed Carnegie Tech. Carideo, Brill, Elder and Savoldi, and a few dozen others are expected to show one and all how to carry and throw the football along.

The Notre Dame rush line, touted as one of the most rugged and skillful in the field this year, is centered by Tim Moyrhan, the tall, hustling boy who played such a fine game here last fall. The ends, Vezie and Colrick, also will be remembered here from last year.

RESPLENDENT.

The Irish, resplendent as the debutantes at a ball, in glistening silk suits—light tan pants and dark blue jerseys with white shoulder inserts—took a short workout early Friday afternoon on Grant field. The drill, of the usual pre-game type, sent them romping through their signals and through a session of punting and passing before Coach Tom Lieb, at the throttle of the Irish Express on the trip here, shut off the steam.

Coach Bill Alexander followed almost the same formula as he put the finishing touches on the work of the Jackets.

Possibilities and probabilities as to the starting lineups have Coach Lieb worried. Or as he says, "I don't know yet who will start. I think I'll go home and dream about it," said the Man.

"I wouldn't be surprised if the first string was in there when the kick-off sailed," hinted the correspondent.

The Man, however, upheld his Coolidgeism. "Neither would I," he murmured. "But I'm not surprised at lots of things."

However, with the work and attention they have had, with the natural desire of Tech to gain some measure of fame this year to compensate for the two defeats already on the books, it is probable that the White and Gold will sail into battle on the threatening lances of Captain Rusk's varsity.

Commercial High Downs Covington

Covington, Ga., November 1.—(Special.)—Commercial High school, of Atlanta, defeated Covington High, 19 to 0, here this afternoon. The game was featured by concentrated long drives down the field by both teams. Commercial scored in the first quarter on a series of off-tackle plays and end runs. Carrington carried the ball across for the touchdown. In the third quarter, Carrington again carried the ball across for a touchdown after his mates had placed it in a scoring position. The last touchdown was made when Farris threw a pass to McLendon for 12 yards and a touchdown. Covington made a sustained drive from the 5-yard line to Commercial's 10-yard stripe only to lose it on downs. Tribble, Lewis and Christian player good for the losers, while Anderson, McLendon, Farris and Carrington played good for the winners. Captain Davis, of Commercial, received a bad cut over his right eye and will probably be out for several weeks.

Madison Aggies Lick Monroe, 40-6

Madison, Ga., November 1.—(Special.)—After trailing by six points throughout the first half, Wallace Butts' Madison Aggies rallied in the second half to defeat Monroe Aggies, 40 to 6. It was the first time in four years that Red Barron's team has been beaten by a G. I. A. team with the exception of Riverside. Monroe scored early in the first quarter on a long forward pass and could not score any more. In the third period Madison ran wild and scored four touchdowns in 10 minutes of play. Two of the touchdowns were scored from intercepted passes. Captain Ted Bylaska, Walker, Hale and Gunnels played good ball for the locals while Captain Ehle and Farmer played best for the losers.

The Washington, November 10.—The weather picture in its declared analysis of November reports decided today that lower production and higher prices had put agriculture in a stronger position than it was a year ago.

Prices of all groups of farm commodities, with the exception of meat and dairy products, have shown a slight summer, the report said. The output of food and feed crops this year will be somewhat less than of last year, it said, although the crops already harvested will be about the same. The only important crop which substantially exceeds production of last year is hay.

The favorable weather in September ber of the department said, had no apparent effect on the crop of grain, potatoes, sweet potatoes and fruits, which on September 1 were reported to be smaller than last season. The report also seems probable, the report said, that the yield of all crops combined would average 7 per cent below yields of last year and 4 per cent below yields of the preceding 10 years.

Poor corn prospects were described as having influenced cattle feeders to reduce the number of cattle sent to the corn belt for fattening. The number of cattle sent to the corn belt from markets into the corn belt between July 1 and September 30 was 20 per cent smaller than the same period last year. It was the second smallest movement of feeder cattle for that period in 12 years.

The report said there would be about as many sheep and lambs fed this fall as last year. It also said that the eastern part of the corn belt will feed more lambs. Colorado and western Nebraska will feed approximately the same number of sheep and lambs. There will be a decided dropping in feeding in the Pacific northwest.

Price trends of fruit and vegetables have been downward recently, but when field crops are in storage to await favorable condition general recovery in this field is expected.

The potato market, the report said, has continued from two to three times as high as a year ago, following closely the general strong underlying conditions.

LONDON FINANCIER
PREDICTS BENEFIT FROM STOCK CRASH

London, November 1.—(P)—John William Beaumont Pease, chairman of Lloyd's bank and a financial authority, believes that the recent upset in the West will not have good results both for the United States and the rest of the world.

In a statement to the Associated Press, London, he said:

"To my mind the break in the New York Stock Exchange was necessary to put an end to the artificial undervaluation of things which affected not only America but also the rest of the world.

"America, a great creditor nation, possessing three-quarters of the world's gold, was attracted to the higher rates offered from other countries not for the purpose of obtaining interest but to assist in the extensive export of gold."

of which was taking place. This was prejudicing other countries by the effects it had upon their exchanges and the harm it was going their industries owing to the higher rates for money while on the other hand it was of no service to America for her own legitimate trade purposes.

"Now that the break has come, good should result and some of these anomalies have already begun to disappear. I am not in a position to utilize with any accuracy on the effect of the present condition in America, but I feel that she is rich enough and prosperous enough to withstand without any difficulty a drop in the prices of securities and I believe that cessation of the recent wild speculation should be productive of good both to herself and the rest of the world.

by stabilizing the internal financial situation generally."

Woman Is Shot To Death in Holdup of Grocery

SCREAMS TO SAVE STORE RECEIPTS COSTS HER LIFE

Mrs. Sarah Gould Is Victim of Bandit's Bullet as Two Negroes Attempt To Rob Store.

CUSTOMERS FLEE BEFORE FUSILLADE

Woman Dies in Automobile as Husband Rushes Her to Hospital; Three Other Stores Robbed.

Her frantic screams to save $30, the day's receipts in a little grocery operated by her husband from a pair of negro bandits Saturday night, cost Mrs. Sarah Gould her life. Three other stores were held up during the night and robbed.

Mrs. Gould, 25, was shot and fatally wounded by one of the negroes who were in the act of robbing her husband, Jack Gould, 30, in the store at Chappell street and Greenberry avenue, shortly after 8 o'clock.

One of the negroes had pointed a pistol at Gould and demanded that he turn over the contents of his cash drawer. Mrs. Gould, who was waiting on a negro woman customer near by, began to shout for assistance. The bandit turned his weapon upon her and began firing. He fired four shots. Three of them went wild, the fourth striking Mrs. Gould in the center of the forehead. The bandits fled without molesting her husband.

Dies on Way to Hospital.
Gould put his wife in their motor car, which was parked in front of the store, and started with her to Grady hospital, but Mrs. Gould died before the hospital was reached.

Gould told Detectives John Davis and R. W. Armstrong that the two negroes came to his store twice Saturday night. They first appeared about 7 o'clock, when one of them bought some tobacco, he said.

"I thought they looked the place over when they first came in," Gould said. "But when they went out the first time without making a break I supposed my suspicions had become unduly alarmed."

The negroes, he said, came in again shortly after 8 o'clock and approached him as though they intended making another purchase.

Customers Flee.
Beside the Goulds, three negro employees and two negro customers, a man and a woman, were in the store when the bandits entered. When the firing began the two customers dropped several packages and fled. They had not been located late Saturday night.

Gould and the three negro workers were able to furnish the police a fairly good description of the bandits. They were, the police were told, youthful in appearance, fairly well dressed, smooth-shaven and about 23 or 24 years old. Each was about 5 feet 7 inches tall and of medium build.

Walter Brown, a negro, living at 248 Chappell street, told Detectives Davis and Armstrong and Call Officers M. D. Cartwright and P. L. Williams that he saw the bandits drive up to the store in a closed automobile, leaving a third negro at the wheel and the motor running. Brown said he was sitting on the porch of his home, and added that he believed he saw a negro woman sitting in the rear of the car.

Brown was unable to give the police a description of the third man or the woman.

Police on Trail.
Special squads of police were detailed to search the area Saturday night, but at a late hour no trace of the bandit car had been found.

Mrs. Gould, in addition to her husband, is survived by one child, Jack, 13 years old. The family came to Atlanta less than a year ago from Albany, N. Y., and since that time has been operating the grocery.

The body of Mrs. Gould was taken to the Sam Greenberg Company parlors and probably will be sent to Albany for burial today.

Three Stores Robbed.
Three unmasked negroes, armed with revolvers, entered the grocery store operated by Mrs. Pauline Schaefer, at 602 Auburn avenue, late Saturday night and robbed the cash register of $140, according to police reports.

Mrs. Schaefer told officers that her sons, Sol, 18, and Sidney, 13, were in the store when the bandits entered. One of the negroes told Sol to give him the money out of the register, and when the youth appeared reluctant the negro threatened to kill him. Mrs. Schaefer told the negro to leave her.

Vandy, Kentucky Join Dizzy Race For Grid Honors

CONVICT KILLED IN ESCAPE TRY

Georgia Guard Probably Fatally Wounded in 3-Cornered Gun Battle at Rome Quarry.

Rome, Ga., November 2.—(AP)—A convict serving a 15-year sentence for bank robbery was shot to death and the foreman of the quarry where he was working probably fatally wounded today in a three-cornered gun battle that followed the prisoner's attempt to escape from the Floyd county chain gang.

The convict, George Smith, 26, whose home was believed to have been in Gastonia, N. C., secured a pistol this morning and held up Ben Reynolds, a guard, with a command to "throw up your hands—I'm going to shoot your head off." Oscar Carver, foreman of the county rock quarry, drew his pistol and fired at Smith, while Reynolds also joined in the battle, as other guards came to their assistance.

Floyd county authorities began an investigation of a theory that Smith had an outside confederate who furnished him with the pistol, and who possibly planned to aid him in a general delivery from the chain gang. Coroner Charles J. Ogle also ordered an autopsy to determine whether Carver or Reynolds had killed the convict.

Smith was convicted last April of robbing the bank at Chickamauga, Walker county, and was transferred to the Floyd county gang on June 29. Attempts were made late today to locate relatives in North Carolina.

DRY AGENT GUILTY IN LIQUOR KILLING

'Volunteer' Raider Faces 4 to 99 Years in Prison for Slaying Farmer in Whisky Search.

Chandler, Okla., November 2.—(AP) Jeff D. Harris, 65, volunteer dry raider who shot and killed Oscar Lowery, Pottawatomie county farmer, July 4, in search for liquor, was convicted here today of first degree murder. The sentence was left to the district judge, Hal Johnson, who will impose it November 12. The penalty is a minimum prison term of four years and a maximum of 99 years.

The verdict was returned after the jury had deliberated 17 hours. Harris also is charged with W. W. Thomason, federal prohibition enforcement officer who deputized him, with murder in connection with the shooting of James C. Harris, Lowery's brother-in-law, on whose farm Lowery also was killed. Thomason awaits trial in the United States district court.

Jeff D. Harris, who conducted the search of the Harris farm, was at the time accompanying Thomason on a search for a still which Thomason believed was hidden in the vicinity of the farm. Thomason did not accompany the deputies to the farm. It was brought out that no evidence of liquor law violation was found.

The defendant testified that after he had informed the Harris and Lowery families that he was an officer, he looked into a chicken coop and corn crib. He returned to the house and there was fired upon without warning, buckshot striking him in the face. He opened fire upon James C. Harris, who fled from the house, later to be killed in a ravine, and emerging from the house, killed Lowery, he said.

The widows of the slain men, who were the principal witnesses for the state, testified that the deputy brought no warrant with him and said that he did not inform them he was an officer. They expressed belief that their husbands thought Harris a dangerous trespasser and asserted that he fired the first shot. They said, as Lowery also asserted in a death bed statement, that the raider shot Lowery while he was pleading, unarmed, for his life.

When a boy of 17 Jeff D. Harris received his first commission as a peace officer. He was employed to hunt cattle thieves in Texas. Six years before he had run away from his home in Kentucky.

He has served as sheriff, "undercover" man, town marshal, posse man and constable.

Victories Over Alabama and Clemson Makes Four-Cornered Race in Southern Conference.

BY BEN COTHMAN.

Two of our best conference teams got to singing in the rain Saturday afternoon and shoved themselves right up there with Tennessee and Tulane in this dizzy race for 1929 conference football honors.

Wise old Dan McGugin hauled out that ancient weapon, the punt, and let Alabama run itself ragged with the football while the Commodores lay back and waited for the breaks to defeat the Tide by a convincing score of 13 to 0. This happened at Nashville.

Kentucky thundered up and down the field at Lexington like a Blue Grass thoroughbred around the turn to pound and batter powerful Clemson into insensibility and come out of the mud with a 44-to-6 victory that surprised everyone, including the Kentuckians.

Here at home the Irish Express sped through the city and rushed right on over Tech as Elder, Carideo and Mullins flitted up and down the field. The score was 26 to 6 and Notre Dame repaid Tech fully for the Jacket victory of last year.

Those were the major happenings of a dim, rainy southern afternoon. They will give the curbstone coaches enough to second-guess on for weeks to come.

A number of persons were expecting Vanderbilt to defeat the Tide. But not everyone suspected that Vanderbilt would show the power that it did. The Commodores took advantage of the breaks when they came, scoring early in the first quarter and late in the fourth. Between those touchdowns Schwartz was dropping back from his post at end and punting beautifully to keep Alabama scratching its back on the goal posts all afternoon.

TONY STOPPED.
Red "Mouse" Leonard, Vandy safety man, was trotting back up the field with Alabama punts to keep the ball in neutral territory when Vandy had it. Tony Holm—big, blond, bald-headed Tony—rushed at the line like a mad bull but Abernathy and Parker watched him closely. Alabama marched down there twice and knocked at Old Lady Touchdown's door but she seemed to have a date with Vanderbilt.

Vandy doesn't play Kentucky, but it meets Tech and then Tennessee and then is when you can look for things to happen. The Kentuckians just smashed the Clemson line flat in the mud and then galloped down to score touchdowns until it became monotonous. Shipwreck Kelley was wrecking Tigers Saturday and it appears that he did an excellent piece of work. Kentucky plays Tennessee, which slid and stillered to a 27-0 victory over Auburn in the muck at Knoxville, on Thanksgiving, and if Vandy doesn't tumble the Volunteers, Kentucky will be in a favorable position to do so.

Tech scored first in this attempted derailment of the Express. Then Elder went tip-toeing over the chalked lines for 54 yards and a touchdown to tie the score. That named everything. A young man named Cannon, who plays in the middle of the Notre Dame line, began sounding and he boomed all afternoon, opening up large holes, blocking punts, stopping Tech ball carriers, and otherwise making himself unpleasant. Tech fought a good, game fight but stopping the Irish is something that just isn't being done this season.

SECOND OF THREE BROTHERS GIVEN LIFE IN SLAYING

Cartersville, Ga., November 2.—(Special).—Second of three brothers to be convicted for complicity in the murder of Chesley Davis, prominent Bartow county man, Marcellus Darden, 48, was sentenced to a life term in prison after a jury at special session of Bartow superior court tonight returned a guilty verdict.

Moses Darden, 33, already is under a life sentence in connection with the slaying and Stephen Darden, 42, is under indictment to be tried at the January term of Bartow superior court.

The Dardens admitted that Moses Darden had shot Davis, whose body was found in his automobile on a settlement road near Kingston on April 23, but insisted that he had blocked the road with his car and had drawn a gun on them.

TARDIEU SUCCEEDS IN CREATING NEW FRENCH MINISTRY

Briand, Cheron, Loucheur and Leygues Included in Cabinet Formed by New Leader.

Paris, November 2.—(AP)—Andre Tardieu, war-time high commissioner of France in the United States, tonight succeeded in forming a cabinet after one of the longest and most confused ministerial crises in the history of the republic.

The radical socialists, who failed in attempts to build ministries around Edouard Daladier and Etienne Clementel, chief figures of the party's left and right wings, respectively, refused to collaborate in the new government. This obliged M. Tardieu to recruit his ministers from the center and right center.

Briand Foreign Minister.
With Aristide Briand remaining at the Quai d'Orsay, Henri Cheron at the ministry of finances, and M. Tardieu himself at the ministry of the interior, the cabinet presents a fairly strong appearance as far as the capabilities of its personalities go.

Whether or not it will be able to muster a working majority in the chamber of deputies seems doubtful.

The groups whose representatives are included in the cabinet number about 200 deputies out of a total of 612. M. Tardieu, who must depend on the support of these groups despite his affirmation that he intended to ignore them must therefore draw about 100 votes from parties who have no share in the government.

Radicals May Split.
He hopes that most of the 100 members of the republic union on the right will support him for patriotic reasons, but the inclusion of M. Briand, which adds so much strength to the government on the left side of the chamber, may alienate the sympathies of this group, which was largely instrumental in overthrowing the Briand cabinet October 22.

His other hope is that the radical socialist party will split and the right wing, headed by M. Clementel, give him from 40 to 50 votes.

In any case, the margin of safety is expected to be very narrow. There is no clear majority for any party or for any grouping of parties, with the possible exception of the cartel of the left, in the chamber, the general election of 1928 having been indecisive. Former Premier Poincare mustered a majority from groups more or less hostile to one another. He rallied them on the plea that he was saving the finances of France. That M. Tardieu can repeat his success is hoped, with misgivings, in well informed quarters.

May Dissolve Chamber.
Consequently, there is now talk of an early dissolution of the chamber with new general elections to give voters a chance to return a working majority to some party.

The duty of finding a man capable of forming a stable government devolves on President Doumergue. If there is a lack of a majority for all combinations, he can dissolve the chamber with the approval of the senate.

M. Tardieu, who has showed much courage and energy in the present crisis, is thought to have enough to recommend this course if the chamber refuses to support his government. As Le Temps remarks this evening, the people are getting a little tired of the confusion in the chamber.

"Public opinion has had enough of quarrels, maneuvers and the tumults of groups and factions. Public life has been suspended for more than a week because the ministry fell under conditions in which incoherence was the principal element. The country will be grateful to M. Tardieu if he succeeds."

Personnel.
The new Tardieu cabinet will be largely based on the old Poincare combination. At 9 o'clock tonight the ministry of the interior announced that M. Tardieu would take the ministry of the interior, M. Briand the ministry of foreign affairs, M. Cheron the ministry of finances, M. Georges Leygues the ministry of marine, M. Jean Hennessy the ministry of agriculture, M. Louis Loucheur the ministry of labor, M. Germain Martin the ministry of posts, and M. Laurent-Eynac the ministry of war.

M. Painleve leaves the war office to take the ministry of public instruction and M. Maginot the colonies to take the ministry of war.

The other posts will be given to new men whose names will be announced by the new premier before Sunday morning. A complete cabinet list will then be issued. M. Tardieu led his new ministers to the Elysee Palace shortly before midnight and presented them to President Doumergue.

Twin Reporters Again on Constitution Staff With Master's Degrees From Yale

Helen and Olive Parish, 17-year-old graduates of Oglethorpe university who this year were awarded their master's degrees from Yale, have joined The Constitution news staff again and will delight readers with their cleverly-written stories of the bizarre and interesting quirk of the day's news.

"Men Like Monkeys" Strut Foot-Long Tails in China

SPINAL APPENDAGES DESCRIBED BY DECATUR WOMAN

BY HELEN AND OLIVE PARISH.
With proper apologies to the erudite H. G. Wells and his book on "Men Like Gods," we are now in a position to exploit a far more remarkable species—men like monkeys. Unlike the demigods invented by Mr. Wells, our monkey-men are guaranteed to be absolutely real.

The greatest difference between men and monkeys, in our estimation, lies in the spinal projection or caudal appendage commonly referred to as a "tail." This notable extension of the backbone is found (in plain sight) in the men, women, and children of two tribes at present inhabiting the face of this planet.

The tails of the North-China tribe, according to Mrs. J. C. LeHardy, of Decatur, who spent a whole summer observing them, range from 6 to 12 inches in length, and are quite smooth and shiny. She says that she has never noticed a single hair on any of the tails, and believes them to be entirely jointless.

Mrs. LeHardy, whose husband is a retired major of the United States army, has lived for 20 years in the Orient, principally in China and the Philippine islands, each of which countries boasts a group of tail-people among its natives. The LeHardy family passed three months on the beach at Pait-tai-ho, across the bay from Port Arthur, and under the very shadow of Siberia, where their nearest neighbors were long-tailed Chinese fishermen. Unfortunately, this semi-savage tribe was not under Manchu domination, or they might have pointed with pride to a pig-tail as well as a monkey-tail, apiece.

Commonplace.
During the course of the first month, the LeHardys became so accustomed to their neighbors' tails that they regarded them as nothing more than commonplace. Many a time did the young children of the American major give their watchful smashes, or Chinese nurses, the alip, and tear away down the sparkling sands, to chatter and frolic for hours with the little tail-children.

No member of the tribe exhibited the slightest modesty or consciousness about his or her tail. Probably, since the tail-people were the only ones in the district who went about in a practically unclothed state, they suspected that every one else had a tail hid under his clothes. The national costume of the monkey-men was analogous to that of Kipling's Gunga Din: "The uniform 'e wore was nothing much before, and rather less than half of that behind."

Their only gainful occupation was fishing with enormous nets, in a fashion peculiar to themselves. The nets, each manned by at least 50 men, were drawn in on the incoming tide. Many of the tailed individuals waded up to their necks to haul in the catch, and stood in the water for 12 hours, at any time of day or night, pulling hand over hand, and singing as they worked.

Element LeHardy, the oldest son of the widely-traveled family, affirms, "I shall never forget those queer people, with their comical tails, and their weird chant, Lai-jar-dila, which used to ring out at midnight, over the silent China sea."

Age-Old Problem of City Editors Solved by Addition of Helen and Olive Parish.

BY ELMO HAMBY.

Add journalistic miracles!
Every city editor since Eiamon Herodotus got out the first issue of the Payrus Chronicle has longed for a reporter who could be in two places at once, and it begins to look as though The Constitution has succeeded.

Twin Pen-Twirlers Helen and Olive Parish, age 17 each and both, B. A. Oglethorpe '28; M. A. Yale '29, today are added to the news staff of The Constitution. Already familiar to readers through service on this paper last summer following their graduation from Oglethorpe, the Twins Parish return with the addition of masters of arts degrees from Yale and again will write under their joint bylines.

For they insist that composition must be collaborative, even if the actual gathering of the story is effected separately. And therein lies the beauty. While Helen is talking in West End to Joe Doakes, who shot Oscar Blow, Olive can be talking to Oscar at Grady hospital.

And there's no typographical error about that age, either. It's seventeen, with the adjective that usually precedes sixteen.

It all began out at Oglethorpe back in the summer of nineteen hundred and twenty-five-aye, it was hot that year. President Thornwell Jacobs was approached by a woman leading two small girls, age 12, still in socks, big curls and sailor hats. Informed that they were candidates for entrance to the college, Dr. Jacobs gasped loudly and eventually replied:

"Ah, but madam," perhaps you misunderstood our advertisements; this is a university, not a kindergarten!"

Whereupon the small twins evinced the first signs of a brilliant newspaper career by talking back to a dignitary.

"Such gall," they said—it being all the rage at that time to say "such gall." "Mother, inform the learned doctor that we are fully competent to enter his university."

It was finally settled by having the twins undergo rigid entrance examinations which professors said would probably have tossed the average entrant into a tailspin.

They emerged in perfect Volsteadian form—one-half of one per cent.

SPILLER, FORMER OWNER, CONTINUES AS HEAD OF CLUB

Cracker President Retains Only One-Eleventh Interest; Good's Contract Voided.

DEAL REPRESENTS $725,000 TOTAL

Chip Robert, R. W. Woodruff, Bobby Jones, Walter Candler, Harold Hirsch Among Owners.

BY RALPH M'GILL.
Eleven of Atlanta's best known business men have purchased the Atlanta baseball club, the franchise and property and all the assets of the Atlanta baseball company.

In addition to the purchase they have signed Johnny Dobbs, the most successful manager in minor league baseball, to a three-year contract as manager of the Atlanta Crackers.

The deal was consummated Saturday afternoon and Dobbs and the new owners already have assumed charge of the club. News of the club's sale comes as a stunning surprise to the baseball fans of the city. News of Dobbs' coming to Atlanta had already been hinted but had received little credence.

Notables Among Owners.
The new owners, representative of many prominent business concerns in the city, are L. W. (Chip) Robert, architect; Bobby Jones, attorney and national open golf champion; R. W. (Bob) Woodruff, president Coca-Cola Company; Walter Candler, capitalist; H. Y. McCord, McCord-Stewart Company; Harold Hirsch, attorney; Scott Hudson, president Atlanta Athletic Club; Charley Black, financier; Arthur Burdett, real estate; L. F. Montgomery, Coca-Cola Bottling Company, and R. J. Spiller, president of the baseball club.

The sale was an out and out sale with R. J. Spiller, the former owner, owning no more stock than any one of the ten directors associated with him. Spiller sold 100,000 voting shares to the directors and at a later date the new company will offer to the public 50,000 shares in $12.50 units to the public.

Atlanta's new baseball owners have organized as the Atlanta Baseball and Amusement Company. Johnny Dobbs, the new manager, also has purchased an interest in the company but is not a member of the board. The company will control all the concessions, the swimming pool and restaurant adjacent to the baseball park.

Mark's New Baseball Era.
The sale of the Crackers, which marks a new era in baseball for Atlanta, means that the Crackers will occupy a prominent place in the league baseball race instead of bobbing around in the second division.

The new owners plan to back Johnny Dobbs with all the needed finance.

Veteran Diplomat Resigns Position as Minister to China To Take Place in University

John Van A. MacMurray Ends Long Career Marked by Unusual Skill and Understanding.

Washington, November 2.—(AP)—The resignation of John Van A. MacMurray, for more than four years American minister to China, was announced today by Secretary Stimson.

It is expected to take effect in about two months, and he will remain at his post in Peking temporarily. MacMurray has accepted a responsible position at Johns Hopkins university, said the state department.

Secretary Stimson pointed out that Mr. MacMurray, who is a career diplomat, has been in service both in the field and in the state department for more than 20 years, specializing in Far Eastern questions. He served in China, Japan and Siam as well as in Russia.

"I have seen him at work," Mr. Stimson said, "and what I say is not only the department's statement, but my own personal statement. He has had a very thorough knowledge and understanding, a sympathetic understanding, of the international needs and desires of the people with whom he has served during those 20 years."

At one time, during Mr. Hughes' term of office, Mr. MacMurray served as assistant secretary of state. In all respects he has been a trained diplomat in the particular field where he has been serving. In his opinion, his services have been of very great value to the United States.

MacMurray, whose home is at Princeton, N. J., entered the foreign service March 15, 1907, rising rapidly through the foreign service ranks until his appointment as assistant secretary November 18, 1924. He was appointed to the Chinese post April 9, 1925.

Sometimes ago the minister asked for leave of absence to return to the United States for personal reasons, but was forced to forego the trip on account of rapid developments in the Chinese-soviet difficulties over the Chinese Eastern railway in Manchuria. Secretary Stimson said today it could be assumed that problem had quieted sufficiently for the minister to feel free to relinquish his post.

The resignation caused surprise among foreign service officers, since MacMurray has been mentioned prominently in connection with the ambassadorship to Tokyo, made vacant by the recent resignation of Charles MacVeagh, of Pennsylvania. Nelson T. Johnson, assistant secretary of state, in charge of Far Eastern affairs, has been unofficially mentioned in connection with the Peking post, but Stimson indicated today that no decision has been reached regarding a successor for MacMurray.

Noted Visitors Witness Football Game

Rainy Weather at Memphis Causes Wave of Suicides

FOUR SUCCEED, ONE FAILS TO TAKE LIFE IN 48 HOURS

Memphis, Tenn., November 2.—(AP)—A wave of suicides in Memphis last night and today was blamed on the weather here tonight by Police Chief Will D. Lee.

"Gloomy, rainy weather," said Chief Lee, "keeps people indoors and makes them blue."

Two women and a man took their lives, a second man was near death tonight from an attempt at self-destruction and deputies were investigating the strange death of another man—possibly a suicide—as a result of the suicide epidemic in Memphis.

Because, she said in a farewell note, her husband loved another woman, Mrs. Marie Woodall Murray, wife of V. E. Murray, former city prison turnkey, fired a pistol bullet into her brain today as she lay in bed and died.

Dr. and Mrs. M. L. Brittain, of Georgia Tech, were hosts Saturday to a pretentious group of celebrated visitors at the Tech-Notre Dame football classic.

Among those occupying the president's box in addition to members of city council and the Fulton county commission were: Mayor and Mrs. T. Seamus Walmsley, of New Orleans, and their daughter, Miss Augusta Walmsley; Mayor I. N. Ragsdale, of Atlanta, and William J. Murphy, national commander of the Disabled Veterans of the World War.

During the morning Mayor Walmsley was a visitor at the Atlanta city hall and praised the growth of Atlanta since his last visit here two years ago. He also praised the new $1,000,000 city hall nearing completion at Washington and Mitchell streets.

He is a cousin of J. Carroll Payne, Atlanta capitalist.

LEON TROTZKY STUDIES TURKISH LANGUAGE IN EXILE

Prinkipo, Princes Islands, Turkey, November 2.—(AP)—Leon Trotsky is apparently reconciled to settling down to exile in Turkey, for he is devoting a part of his time to mastering the Turkish language.

The fallen bolshevik leader has already learned enough to converse with the human who are friendly to him, with whom Trotsky does converse.

WHEN BACK HURTS FLUSH OUT KIDNEYS

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and a flood of drugs to your stomach with a lot of load that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulate them to their normal activity.

The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will be cleaned, and your backache and aching joints will disappear.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure; makes a delicious effervescent lithia-water drink which every one should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.—(adv.)

Decatur, Ga., November 2.—(Special)—Eighty-two members of the student body of Agnes Scott College who have completed the required work to become seniors were formally recognized as candidates for a degree in the class of 1930 in the annual investiture ceremony held this morning.

This traditional service was begun in 1906 when five seniors composed the entire class. The institution has grown and developed so, until in this class of 1930 there are eighty-two to be invested and approximately ninety who will be graduated in May.

The entire exercises were solemn and impressive. The sophomore class, dressed in white, formed an honorary escort for the procession of faculty and seniors. The escort formed a double aisle through which the line of robed but capless seniors entered. After the faculty had taken its place on the platform and the seniors had been seated, the sophomore class, and Dr. Richard Orme Flinn offered the invocation.

Miss Leslie Gaylord, professor of mathematics at the college, was then introduced as principal speaker for the occasion. Miss Gaylord's address was most inspiring as she presented the traditions of the institution and advised the seniors on life in the future.

The actual ceremony then began. Mrs. Nannette Hopkins, dean of the college and the only woman on the faculty or board of administration who has been connected with the college since its founding, invested each senior as she placed her cap on her head—thereby recognizing her as a candidate for her degree. It was attended by a large assemblage of parents and friends of the girls.

AFGHAN USURPER IS REPORTED SHOT WITH 11 ALLIES

Peshawar, India, November 2.—(AP)—An unconfirmed wireless report from Kabul, capital of Afghanistan, today announced the execution of Bacha Saikoo, usurper of Amanullah's throne and known as "the water boy of the north." Eleven of his allies were said to have been executed at the same time.

A message said they were shot at Shepur cantonment under the orders of Nadir Khan, newly elected king, who recently forced Bacha to surrender in his last stronghold.

YOUTH HELD ON BOND FOR FATHER'S SLAYING

Witnesses Testify Boy Acted To Protect Mother and Sister.

Moultrie, Ga., November 2.—(Special)—Three Colquitt county justices of the peace, who presided at the preliminary hearing of Lawrence Wynne, 19-year-old Moultrie youth charged with murder in connection with the killing of his father, G. L. Wynne, late today ordered the defendant held on a charge of voluntary manslaughter and bond was fixed at $1,000.

In the trial, the defense sought to show that young Wynne in the killing of his father, acted to protect his mother, his 14-year-old sister, and a younger brother. Witnesses from Dothan, Ala., Tifton and Moultrie swore that Wynne, while under the influence of liquor, was a man of violent temper and frequently beat and abused members of his family.

The state contended that Wynne, according to his own confession, bought the pistol with which he killed his father two hours later and that he was guilty of deliberate murder.

COUNTY OFFICIALS ARRESTED, CHARGED WITH MALPRACTICE

Okeechobee, Fla., November 2.—(AP)—The chairman and two members of the Okeechobee county commission were under arrest tonight, charged with malpractice in office. Bond for the trio, W. W. Potter, chairman, and A. S. Hair and Hugh J. Bass, was set at $750, by County Judge G. C. Durran.

Durran said that the men were charged with returning to D. R. McNeill, former president of the People's bank of Okeechobee, bonds valued at $50,000 which the bank had put up as security for deposits of county funds.

He explained that the bonds had been given by the bank to protect a certain amount of deposits, but that the bank had apparently requested that they be returned before the deposits had been removed. The request was made at a meeting of the commission on May 6, 1929. Later, Judge Durran said, according to information presented to him, Potter, Hair and Bass, meeting as the county board, ordered the bonds returned to the institution. At the time of return, Judge Durran said, the county had $91,000 in the bank.

Back he finally went to ether drift. With results as before. Working at Mount Wilson and Case he eliminated the possibility of the earth's magnetism, temperature changes, or other factors interfering. The interferometer is now in a galvanized iron shed on the Case front lawn. He is

160,000 Tests Fail To Prove Einstein's Relative Zero

NEGATIVE POINT NEVER FOUND, PROFESSOR SAYS

BY RAYMOND A. BRUNER, Associated Press Staff Writer.

Cleveland, Ohio, November 2.—(AP)—Probably no man ever tried so hard in his life to fail in the way the famous, gray-haired energetic professor of physics at Case School of Applied Science here has endeavored to do over many years and yet succeed consistently.

The good-humored brown eyes of Dr. Dayton C. Miller, gazed as he told of his long quest for the zero on which Dr. Albert Einstein based an important hypothesis of relativity.

The hypothesis is to the effect that the phenomena of nature will be the same to two observers who move in uniform velocity whatever their relation to one another.

"The zero never was found, and by George, I couldn't get it," Dr. Miller declared. "I have made 160,000 readings and still I can't get it."

The state contended that Wynne, according to his own confession, bought the pistol with which he killed his father two hours later and that he was guilty of deliberate murder.

The stubby professor of physics swung around in his chair and took from a cabinet Michelson's and Morley's account of their experiment.

"There it is," he pointed out, "even though they made only 36 readings their result was not negative. They did not find just what they started out to find and dropped the experiment. That is all, the experiment did not fail to show the drift of the earth through the ether."

Flute Tones. Dr. Miller told how, as a young man, he became interested in continuing the experiment. Musical tones of flutes, however, drew his attention. Only a few months and back he would go to ether drift, he thought.

Years passed. He gathered the world's most complete collection of flutes, invented the phonodisk to analyze sound and became eminent in that field.

Years appear to mean nothing to him. Back he finally went to ether drift. With results as before. Working at Mount Wilson and Case he eliminated the possibility of the earth's magnetism, temperature changes, or other factors interfering. The interferometer is now in a galvanized iron shed on the Case front lawn. He is working on a chart which he will take to a meeting of the National Academy of Sciences at Princeton university November 18 to 20, where he will tell of his work.

For 216 feet through the interferometer—a 12-foot in diameter apparatus of wood, steel and glass which rotates on a basin of mercury—travels a beam of light from an acetylene bicycle lamp. By way of a powerful telescope the light comes out streaked in rainbow colors with a black line in the center.

Change Noted. After careful adjustment the instrument is rotated and Dr. Miller follows it around, squinting all the time in the telescope. The black line shifts in position, and as it shifts the amount of change is noted.

The shift is believed to indicate the difference in velocity the beam of light travels when it is propagated with the drifting ether and when it goes against the drift. What the shift means exactly, Dr. Miller will not say.

Relativists who assume Michelson and Morley failed to discover an ether drift declared that a change in light velocity cannot be measured because our yardsticks change with it.

On this assumption Einstein's hypothesis was made. The question now is, will Dr. Miller's results cause the hypothesis to wobble?

Polish Pianist and Soprano On Joint Morning Program

The second of the season's morning musicals presented by the Atlanta Music Club will be given Wednesday morning at 10:30 o'clock, in the auditorium of the Wesley Memorial church, it was announced Saturday.

Mrs. Wilmer L. Moore, president, will hold a short business session at 10:30 o'clock.

The program, as arranged by Mrs. Charles Chalmers, chairman, is of exceptional brilliancy, presenting Mrs. Phelps Ensign, dramatic soprano, of Forsyth, who has been heard previously at the club; and Franciszek Zachara, Polish pianist of the faculty of Brenau college-conservatory, Gainesville—an artist new to the music club and to Atlanta.

Mrs. Ensign's numbers will include, in the first group, Marietta's Song to the Lute, from the opera "The Dead City," by Korngold; "Welcome, Sweet Wind," by Cadman; "Liebesfeier," by Weingartner, and the difficult "Allerluja," by Mozart. In the second group, "Do Not Go, My Love and At the Well," by Hageman. Mrs. Chalmers will be at the piano.

Mr. Zachara, who came from his native Poland to New York in the spring of 1928, and to Brenau in the autumn of the same year, has attracted much favorable comment from the press and those who have heard him, that his first concert appearance in Atlanta is awaited with considerable interest.

His program Wednesday morning will include a Chopin group, Mazurka F sharp major, Scherzo B flat minor, Mazurka B minor, and polonaise in A flat major; two of his own compositions: Poem opus 12 and Grand Valse

FRANCISZEK ZACHARA.

Chromatic in F minor, and the brilliant Elyer Schultz arrangement of the "Beautiful Blue Danube."

ATLANTA TO FIGURE IN BIG AIR MERGER

Cincinnati, Ohio, November 2.—(Special.)—An airplane merger was here today late that a merger had been practically completed providing for an international airways system linked with concerns making airplanes and airplane supplies of most varied character.

Among the concerns mentioned in the last vest transaction are the Aero Supply Corporation, of Wichita, Kan.; the F. C. Erickson Aircraft Corporation, of Toronto, Canada; the A. L. Johnson Airplane Supply Corporation, of Dayton, Ohio; the Mason-Dixon Airplane operating company, of the city of Detroit and other cities to this city, and planning to extend its lines throughout the south and west, connecting the Hudson bay in Canada with the Gulf of Mexico and the Pacific coast via Wichita, Kan.

The Airport Lighting Corporation, of New York city, will eventually be included in the new combine, which is expected to operate network of airways throughout the dominion of Canada as well as throughout the United States.

The individuals engaged in the new deal are Robert H. Schryver, of the Metal Aircraft Corporation here; Commodore F. G. Erickson, of Toronto, Canada; Al Johnson, Dayton, Ohio; Henry Yeiser, Cincinnati, capitalist.

The Southern and Southwestern Air Lines will be operated by the Southern Airways Corporation, while the Western States Airways will be known as the United States Airways Corporation, which will do a trans-

FIVE PERSONS HURT IN ACCIDENT SERIES

J. P. Otwell Injured When His Auto Is Struck by Train

Five persons were injured, three in automobile and motorcycle accidents, in Atlanta Saturday.

J. P. Otwell, 20, of Egan Park, received cuts and bruises about the body and possible internal injuries late Saturday afternoon at Central avenue and Fulton, in Hapeville near the Hapeville passenger station, when his automobile is said to have been struck by a Macon-bound Central of Georgia passenger train.

It is reported that Otwell passed a line of cars waiting for the train to depart, and that as he drove onto the track the engine hit his machine, dragging it about 15 or 20 feet down the track. The car was badly damaged.

Otwell was taken to a local hospital in an ambulance of A. C. Hemperly & Sons.

Sergeant P. T. Harnage, attached to headquarters company, at Fort McPherson, received minor injuries about the legs and arms early Saturday night when the machine he was driving skidded into an outbound Hapeville street car, according to police reports. Private Baron Knox, an occupant of the machine, was uninjured.

A street car was operated by Motorman B. T. Denman, 6 Francis place, Grove Park, and was on a private right-of-way at the time of the accident, it was said. The car overturned and was badly damaged. Motorcycle Officers T. J. Smith and M. O. Bishop investigated.

Motorcycle Officer Sam Wallace was treated at Grady hospital Saturday afternoon for severe lacerations about the head and body, received when he was thrown from his motorcycle as he was attempting to overtake a large sedan which was said to have been going about 50 miles an hour up Marietta street.

The officer said that he was traveling at high speed when he saw a boy on a bicycle entering Marietta street from an alley. Rather than hit the bicycle he turned into the curb, according to witnesses, and was thrown more than 20 feet to the sidewalk. He was allowed to return to his home after treatment.

Mildred McGiboney, 18-month-old daughter of Mrs. Mittie McGiboney, of 204 Astoria avenue, received a possible fracture of the skull late Saturday afternoon when she tumbled from a chair in the kitchen of the residence. The child was taken by the mother to Grady hospital.

C. P. Cofer, 32, of 210 Hutchinson street, received a fracture of his right rib Saturday night after he had lost his foothold on the roof of his residence while attempting to fix an aerial for his radio, according to attaches at Grady hospital, where he was taken for treatment. Mr. Cofer is in the roofing business.

Dies of Injuries.
Memphis, Tenn., November 2.—(AP) Elmer W. Starnes, 58, timber land owner and sawmill operator of Atoka, Tenn., died in a hospital here last night of injuries received when his automobile was forced from the road near Kerville, Tenn., yesterday and plunged into a ditch.

Thrower Office Building Remodeling Seen

Important developments in remodeling of the Throwing office building in co-ordination with the new Union passenger station was seen as the outgrowth of purchase last week of the office building by R. E. Hightower, big textile capitalist of Thomaston, Ga. The steel framework of the N. C. & St. L. railroad depot, which will cost more than a half million dollars, is shown in the foreground of the above picture, as rapid progress on the structure is being made by workmen. The Throwing building, which figured in the recent cash sale of approximately $750,000, negotiated by M. C. Kiser and Julian Binford, Jr., of the Kiser agency, is seen from the south side, which will front on the depot plaza, and at the rear end of which will be constructed an arcade leading into the station entrance. Robert & Co., local engineers, have been appointed to make a survey of advisable improvements for the office structure, which are expected to involve remodeling of the entire building and vast changes in the ground floor layout.

Another Murky Day Is Forecast By Weatherman

More murky weather with possible rain is the outlook for Atlanta today, according to the official forecast of the local bureau. A temperature range from 55 to 65, slightly below Saturday's figures, is expected.

DEPUTY ARRESTED FOR PROSECUTOR'S MURDER IN TEXAS

Borger, Texas, November 2.—(AP)—Former Deputy Constable Sam Jones and Jim Hodges late today were charged with the murder of District Attorney John Holmes last September 16. Holmes' murder was the immediate cause of martial law in Borger.

Both men were lodged in jail after filing of the charges by Deputy Sheriff "Red" Burton.

Burton brought Jones back yesterday from New Mexico on an indictment for a liquor law violation. Hodges, manager of a boiler works here, was arrested at his home.

Hodges was once prosecuted by Attorney Holmes and freed in a pipe theft case.

The murder charge was filed in County Judge Hood's court.

GUESS TO SEEK POST AS STATE SECRETARY

Carl N. Guess, attorney of Stone Mountain and former state senator, Saturday announced his candidacy for the office of secretary of state, subject to the democratic state primary next year.

Mr. Guess has been active in local and state public affairs for many years. While residing in Atlanta he served as member of the city council for the years 1911 and 1912. In 1918 the citizens of DeKalb county elected him to serve as representative in the legislature.

"From 1919 to 1924 it was my privilege to serve the county and state in that capacity, three consecutive terms," Mr. Guess pointed out in referring to his career as a "servant of the people." "While a member of the house I was chairman of the general judiciary committee No. 1 for two terms and served on the ways and means committee, labor committee, penitentiary committee and other assignments."

"After six years' service in the house I was elected to the senate of Georgia from the 34th district, and served in the senate in 1925 and 1926. While serving in the senate I was chairman of the Western and Atlanta railroad committee and was a member of the Western and Atlanta leasing commission."

Through his committee assignments in the house and in the senate Mr. Guess took a prominent part in two of the most important property development projects of recent date. These had to do with the large viaduct improvements and with leasing of the old governor's mansion property, which Mr. Guess points out, "resulted in the erection of improvements aggregating three million dollars or more, which at the termination of the lease revert to the state."

In 1921 Mr. Guess was made mayor of Stone Mountain and since 1922 he has served continuously in the local council, until he became city attorney on the first of the current year. "In private life," Mr. Guess continues, "I am a lawyer, practiced at the bar of Atlanta and in the adjoining circuits for 24 years. I am, and have been all my life, in faith and practice, a democrat, and have never wavered in my allegiance to the party."

Miss Stegall Named Sponsor For 122d Ball

Miss Thelma Stegall Saturday was selected sponsor of the 122nd Infantry, Georgia National Guard, for the gigantic indoor sham battle, show and dance to be staged by the regiment. Thanksgiving eve night at the city auditorium.

Half a score of other Atlanta girls will act as sponsors for each of the various companies of the regiment. Officers of the regiment plan the most realistic and biggest indoor "battle" ever seen in the south.

Major L. N. Bagdela will make a personal appeal by radio for the support of the benefit Tuesday night, and Miss Stegall will give several selections on the piano.

Colonel Gerald O'Keefe, commander, has invited Governor L. G. Hardman to attend the affair, and Captain Ben T. Huie, adjutant from the third ward, will extend a formal invitation to the mayor and general council Monday afternoon.

In addition to Colonel O'Keefe, and Captain Huie, Captains Sterling R. Howard and Frank W. Harrison are a committee in charge of the event.

Detectives J. C. Davis and H. W. Armstrong are investigating.

An unmasked white man entered a grocery store at 320 Sunset avenue late Saturday night and at the point of a revolver forced the manager, B. C. Ferguson, to turn over the contents of the cash register, amounting to about $50, according to reports of Call Officers M. D. Cartwright and M. O. Evans. Two clerks, Jack Carlier and Guy Taylor, witnessed the robbery.

Ferguson said that the superintendent had left with practically all of the day's receipts just before the robbery. He said the bandit departed in an automobile, in which he had been sitting for possibly 15 minutes before he entered the store. The description of the man, furnished by Ferguson, tallies with that of a white man who has robbed several stores in that section within the past two nights, police state.

Bandits Keep Busy.
Three negroes traveling in an automobile, at midnight Saturday night were still pursuing their banditry, with police placing a virtual dragnet over the city in an effort to capture them.

The grocery operated by Aaron Halperin, at Mitchell and Ashby street was visited by the trio shortly before midnight and robbed him of $173. It was reported by Call Officers Charlie Wright and Fred Norton. Halperin was alone in the store at the time, he said.

It was one of a series of robberies reported to police Saturday night which was charged to three negroes who always left the scene in an automobile.

less than perfect and from then on, it was Freshmen Parish.

Not only that but they finished a four-year course in three years; established what probably will be all-time scholastic records for Oglethorpe or any other college, won the highest honor ever given at that university, of which they were the first recipients and annexed a few gold medals and other minor things like that.

With these scholastic scalps hanging on their belts, they decided to take graduate work in English at Yale the following year, after they had worked for several weeks on The Constitution staff. They entered Yale in September, 1928, and received their masters degrees in June, 1929.

Something in the nature of phenomena has developed from tests by psychologists which have been made upon the twins almost since their birth. At Oglethorpe shortly before their graduation, mental sympathy of the two was demonstrated by a thorough experiment lasting several hours. The twins were placed in separate rooms and both given pencils and paper. They were both told to draw anything they chose. First was a tree, and then a carriage and a baby. Comparison of the two charts showed them identical.

Similar perfect results were registered when one was told to draw or write something and the other allowed merely to draw or write what she pleased.

Their minds worked as one directing two bodies!

They have been declared the most perfect pair of "identical" twins both in mind and body, to come before the attention of scientists.

They have a native mastery of several languages, which extends even to Greek—and if you think that isn't an advantage, try in English to get your eggs fried like you want 'em.

The Great Difference in New York Hotels

Consult your dictionary and you will find that an hotel is a place where hospitality is offered to guests. The great difference between one New York hotel and another lies in the quality, not the quantity of its hospitality. Where real hospitality exists you sense it in the doorman as you arrive. It runs all through the house. Every little detail of service expresses it. A feeling of wholesomeness, of personal ease, and comfort is the result.

If this difference interests you, try it out when you are next in New York—for over night or longer. You will find a pleasing example of this quality in hospitality at the

CAROLINA STRIKES DISCUSSED BY D. A. R.

Convention Closes Without
for Next Year.

Pinehurst, N. C., November 2.—(AP)—Turning much of their final day over to a discussion of the recent strikes in North Carolina, but praising the stand taken by Governor O. Max Gardner, the two-day regional meeting of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution was brought to a close here this afternoon.

The place of next year's meeting was not selected, it being announced that the decision would be left to state regents.

Besides endorsing the stand taken by Governor Gardner in the "recent industrial crisis in the state," the delegates voted to support the South Carolina daughters in their plan to celebrate the sesqui-centennial anniversary of the battle of King's Mountain on next October 7.

Committee work was stressed during the last session of the gathering, a total of 2,341 charters and 170,395 members being reported for the national organization. During the last year 2,653 graves of Revolutionary soldiers were reported located, besides much other patriotic and educational work.

While they discussed the Gastonia labor situation during a large part of the day, the delegates took an optimistic view of the situation and confidence was expressed in the outcome. Mrs. E. C. Gregory, of Salisbury, presided over a large national defense conference. Fourteen states were represented at the meeting and about 400 members and officers were in attendance. Several breakfast and luncheon conferences were held by various committees, at which discussions were held regarding the many activities of the national society.

A number of national chairmen and vice chairmen reported during the day, as well as representatives of several of the 16 schools endorsed by the society.

TRAINED NURSE SAYS RESULTS ARE REMARKABLE

Declares Sargon Overcame Troubles After Everything Else Failed.
Strongly Endorses New Medicine.

One of the most beloved members of the First Christian Church in Atlanta is Mrs. A. M. Young, 1707 Boulevard Drive, S. E., who is a trained nurse, and for years has taken an active part in home mission work. It is a splendid tribute to Sargon's powers when Mrs. Young, with her long experience in attending the sick, comes out with an enthusiastic statement praising the new Sargon for the remarkable benefits she derived in her own case. Read what she recently said:

MRS. A. M. YOUNG.

"I've always been a strong, healthy woman, with the exception of a few minor ills, but some time ago I had an attack of intestinal flu that left my whole system in a terribly disordered condition. For months afterwards, every time I'd take the least bit of food, my stomach just seemed to fill right up with gas and I'd become nauseated. I often had dizzy spells and felt faint, and I became so weak that I could scarcely even get across the room. My nerves simply went to pieces and my nights were so restless I'd just lie and wish for daybreak. I had the best of medical attention, yet I didn't improve like I thought I should, and one day a friend of mine who had been taking Sargon with such good results asked me to try it.

"The change that this medicine brought over my condition was simply remarkable. I eat everything I like now without the slightest bad effects and my stomach is in perfect condition. I'm never bothered with those dizzy spells any more, my nerves are wonderfully relaxed and my sleep is as sound and refreshing as a child's. My whole system seems greatly strengthened and invigorated and I'm getting ready to go to work for the first time in months. I'm enjoying better health than I have in five long years and it's really a pleasure to give such a splendid endorsement."

Go to Jacobs' main store, 14 Marietta St., and meet the Sargon Man. He will give you the astonishing facts about this wonderful new medicine which is accomplishing such remarkable results all over the country. The astonishing record of Sargon is based on actual results accomplished; not empty promises. Sargon may be obtained at all Jacobs' drug stores throughout Atlanta. (adv.)

Spanish Garden Exhibit Will Feature Flower Show

One of the feature exhibits that will be arranged at the Southeastern Flower Show to be held at the city auditorium November 13 to 16, inclusive, will be a Spanish garden. The display will be arranged with every detail perfected and is expected to prove unusually attractive.

torium, to be used in producing real life. The city auditorium somewhat resembles an enormous workshop where days as the small army of architects, carpenters, painters and laborers set the scenes for the Southeastern Flower Show, which will hold away November 13 to 16, inclusive.

Details are under the direct supervision of Ed Heckt and J. G. Schattmaier, supported by B. C. Barfield, Charles J. Wachendorf and A. J. Scott. They compose the committee on decorations, and to them will go the credit for the arrangement and decorative effect of the show. This will be true more especially with Mr. Heckt, who has been working almost his entire time for the past few weeks in personally supervising the details, and his handiwork in an architectural way will be the outstanding feature of the show.

Hundreds of truckloads of shavings are being transferred to the audi-grass lawns. The various lawns will have the same roll and slope as seen in home yards and adorned by large full-grown trees. By the use of shavings and waterproof paper the various lawns can be sprinkled and retain their freshness throughout the show.

The care with which the lawns are reproduced is evidence of how careful the Atlanta Florist Club will be in arranging the details of all other features, such as gardens, plant beds, shrubbery and cut-flower exhibits.

One outstanding exhibit will be a Spanish garden with shrubbery and flowers appropriate for the Spanish building architecture forming the background and using an irregular flagstone pavement. There will be a built-in shrine, old Spanish oil jars, typical plants, palms, banana trees and other foliage to make it an absolute reproduction.

Many other unique and complete gardens will be on exhibit, along with thousands of cut flowers, arranged for artistic effect, house-front planting for different types of homes, as well as other novelties and curiosities in plants.

The unprecedented demand for admission tickets still prevails, through the thirty-five women who are competing for $475 in prizes and 10 per cent of their actual sales. The public will find it a convenience by purchasing their tickets in advance, as the show is only of four days' duration, and it is expected that the auditorium will be taxed to capacity to accommodate the many thousands of flower and garden loving people who will be attending. Many of the local women's garden clubs also have tickets for sale. They are being awarded a percentage of their sales by the show committee, with a view of enhancing their treasures in order that they may further the education and beauty in flower gardens and lawns.

WE GUARANTEE SATISFACTION OR YOUR MONEY BACK

State Schools Should Get Needed Funds From All Tax Sources, Dr. Sutton Asserts Georgia Must Guard Against Destruction of System, Atlanta Superintendent Says.

Salesman Promoted

Urging that the financial difficulties of this generation should not mean the intellectual and moral destruction of the next, William A. Sutton, Atlanta superintendent of schools, in a statement issued Saturday, took a firm stand against closing any of Georgia's schools.

He branded the system which makes for full school terms in urban districts and short, inadequate sessions in rural regions as undemocratic. "We are all Georgians and every dollar of tax money should be subject to the call of the children of the state, regardless of where they live, whether in the most distant rural community or in the most congested city district," he declared.

Dr. Sutton's statement follows: "The educational crisis now confronting Georgia is one of the most serious in the history of the entire state. I cannot conceive of the state allowing the public schools in any county to close. In fact, I believe it is contrary to the state laws. On the other hand, to allow the state departments to run on from month to month without pay and the public school teachers of the state school system to be from one to six months behind in receiving compensation is a situation that casts such a reflection on the state of Georgia that even in financial affairs we are losing thousands of people who would be attracted by our climate, by our agricultural and industrial possibilities. Recently I have visited several sections of the United States, and while we people in the state may understand and condone the present situation on account of our understanding, the rest of the country does not understand and does not for one moment excuse the financial situation which confronts our commonwealth.

"I thoroughly agree with Kyle T. Alfriend, secretary of the Georgia Education Association, that the governor should borrow sufficient funds to keep the schools of the state going. One of the greatest efforts being made by those really interested in Georgia is in the direction of the development of rural life and the rehabilitation of agriculture. The present situation is driving hundreds of people away from the farms and into the towns and cities. During the past few weeks of people living on the outskirts of Atlanta and in DeKalb county have come to me, beseeching me to allow their children to enter the Atlanta schools if the DeKalb county schools closed, as has been threatened. Many of these people state that if it was necessary to move within the corporate limits of Atlanta in order to put their children in school, they would do so.

"Here is a situation where the cities and towns of Georgia, on account of their borrowing power or local tax systems, are giving their children nine to ten months' education, and the children of the rural sections are being forced to go to school with inadequate facilities and for a very short period and now even that period threatened by the failure of the state to meet its obligations to the rural schools. Could anything be more undemocratic? We are all Georgians and every dollar of tax money in the state of Georgia should be subject to the call of the children of the state, regardless of where they live, whether in the most distant rural community or in the most congested city district.

"All tried in same courts." "The citizens of Georgia are to be tried by the same courts, to be measured by the same standards, to work under the same conditions and under the same laws. Why should a part of them have practically no educational advantage and others be deprived of even that little which they have?

"In the plans for the development of the bi-centennial of the state of Georgia, let us not for one moment neglect our greatest resources, the boys and girls of the state. Let us once and forever put to rest the talk about closing the schools. Let us say to the world, and say it with a voice that cannot be mistaken, that whatever else happens or does not happen in the state of Georgia the children of the state shall have a chance for education regardless of where they live.

"When but a small boy, twelve years of age, with a sister and a brother off at college and financial difficulties facing my father, my noble mother gave expression to this sentiment: 'The financial difficulties of one generation must not mean the intellectual and moral destruction of the next. The children shall remain at college, regardless of what sacrifice it means at home.' What this wonderful mother said of her own family let Georgia say of her children, that the financial difficulties of this generation shall not be the destruction of the moral and mental life of the next."

"THE SPIRIT OF '78" IS PUBLISHED AGAIN BY ATLANTA ELKS

Revival of the local publication of the Atlanta Lodge No. 78, B. P. Elks, "The Spirit of '78" was seen with appearance last week of "Volume 3, No. 1," edited by Robert E. Lee Reynolds, recently elected secretary.

"The Spirit of '78" was published a number of years ago under the editorship of Press Huddleston, well-known advertising executive. Later it was discontinued. Announcement that the local lodge publication would be issued regularly on the fifteenth and thirtieth of each month was forthcoming with the first revival edition. The periodical records current activities of Atlanta Elks and other incidents affecting the local lodge.

Activities for the current week listed on the lodge calendar include the Kluge Klub dance Wednesday night at Garber hall; regular lodge meeting Thursday night; and a bridge party and oyster supper at the Elks home Friday night.

Bureau Announces November Events, Drawing 2,000 Visitors to City.

Seven conventions and meetings, varying from the national gathering of the Fertilizer Association to the North Georgia Methodist conference, will be held in Atlanta during November, according to announcement Saturday by the Atlanta Convention and Tourist Bureau.

The first event in the November list was held Saturday, when the Central of Georgia Railway clerks held their annual meeting with headquarters at the Hotel Biltmore.

On November 13 the Southeastern Florists' Association will open a three-day annual session and florist show, with headquarters at the city auditorium and the Henry Grady hotel. This convention is expected to bring at least 500 visitors to the city.

The North Georgia Methodist conference will begin November 15 and continue for five days, with 500 delegates attending.

On November 15 the Southern sash, Door and Millwork Manufacturers' association, with fifty members expected, will meet.

The Southeastern Economic conference, with headquarters at the Biltmore hotel, will draw 100 to the city for November 15 and 16.

Five hundred delegates are expected at the meeting of the National Fertilizer Association, which will be held November 18, 19 and 20.

The final November conference so far booked will be that of the Georgia Lumber, Millwork and Building Material Dealers' Association, which will gather at the Henry Grady hotel on November 20 and 21.

A number of conventions already are scheduled for 1930.

The Southern Baptist college conference, with an attendance of 2,000 delegates, meeting only once every four years, will be held in Atlanta next October. Among the meetings listed for 1930, three are large national conventions: The National Cereal-Cola Bottlers' Association will meet here in March with an attendance of 1,500 delegates; the American Chemical Society will meet in April with around 2,000 in attendance; and the National Funeral Directors will meet in October and bring about 3,000 people.

Smaller meetings with their attendance are: Regional sales convention of the Frigidaire Corporation in January, 500; Southern Automotive Jobbers in February, 100; Intercollegiate basketball tournament, March, 500; southern zone of National Paint, Oil and Varnish Association during February or March, 100; mid-winter dental clinic in March, 250; Institute of Citizenship, April, 100; Southeastern Girl Scout convention, April, 300; Southeastern Retail Hardware & Implement Dealers' Association in May, 400; southern tuberculosis conference during September, 200; Georgia Master Plumbers Association, 200; Georgia Exchange Club, 200; and the Georgia Civilians will meet in December with about 150 in attendance.

Anticipating a greatly increased travel during the approaching winter season, the Louisville & Nashville railroad announces the inauguration of a third fast through train to be put in service on Monday. This new train will be known as The Georgian, and will leave Atlanta at 7 a. m., arriving Knoxville 12:05 p. m., and Cincinnati 8:15 p. m., central time, making splendid connections for all points north and west.

In addition to this new service The Southland will be given a later departure and will leave Atlanta at 8:23 a. m., arriving Cincinnati 9:30 p. m., central time, with through sleeping cars to Cleveland, Detroit, Grand Rapids and Chicago.

There will be no change in the schedule of The Flamingo, which leaves Atlanta 8:15 p. m., arriving Cincinnati 7:10 a. m., central time, and carrying through sleepers to Louisville, Cincinnati, Cleveland and Detroit.

Each of these trains have modern steel equipment and provide dining car service for all meals. The Southland and The Flamingo carry observation-sleeping cars.

GRAHAM, MARTINS, HOME FROM LONG MOTOR CAR TRIP

J. L. Graham and Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Martin, of the state department of education, have returned from Rochester and Albany, N. Y., where they attended the fifth annual conference of the National Council of Schoolhouse Construction.

The entire trip of 2,500 miles was made by automobile. Commenting on his trip, Mr. Martin said that he was impressed by the care given the farms along the route he followed, and by the beautification of the highways, from the sides of which signboards and rubbish have been removed.

POPULAR PROGRAM FOR ORGAN RECITAL SUNDAY AFTERNOON

The Sunday afternoon organ recital by City Organist Charles A. Sheldon, at 3 o'clock at the auditorium, will consist of an exceptional list of popular classic numbers. The recital is free.

The program follows: Prelude in C major, Anton Voderlinski; Requiem, Whiting; Finlandia, Sibelius; Intermezzo (Cavalleria Rusticana), Mascagni; Cello Song, Hoffman; Marche Pastorale, Lemmens.

BENEFIT PARTY SET

Georgia Children's Home Will Get Proceeds.

The Georgia Children's Home Society will be the beneficiary of an entertainment at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Bridge, dominoes and other games will be offered, the entire proceeds of the afternoon to go to the home.

The entertainment is sponsored by Mrs. William Candler, who stated Saturday that the Georgia Children's Home Society is engaged in a splendid altruistic work in finding homes for children. It has been in operation for a number of years and has placed many children in good homes, benefiting the child and brightening the home. Mrs. Candler urges all who are interested in this philanthropy to attend the Friday entertainment, assuring them a pleasant afternoon and the privilege of assisting in this way in the financing of the home.

MACFADDEN SALESMAN LANDS HERE IN PLANE

Company Considers Air Transportation for All Representatives.

Lou Reichers, traveling representative of Macfadden Publications, Inc. of New York, who is making an extensive air tour for his company, arrived at Candler field from Maccon Saturday morning, and was met by officials of the L. & R. News Company, Atlanta agent for the publications.

Mr. Reichers is doing sales promotion work in connection with the 14 publications of Macfadden Publications, Inc. who is also an aviation enthusiast. Mr. Reichers left New York three weeks ago and has covered 3,800 miles on schedule. The entire tour will take him over 15,000 miles, including 122 cities in 22 states. He has already covered 30 of these cities. In addition to a business survey that Mr. Reichers will make of the cities that he visits, he is also making a survey of the air fields and general flying conditions. He says that if it is found feasible, all of the company's traveling representatives may use airplane transportation. It now has two planes and is considering the addition of six more.

ART AND AD CLASSES ENTER SECOND MONTH

Arrangements Made to Accommodate Few Additional Students.

Evening classes in commercial art and advertising taught by Mrs. E. J. Lang, art director of Norris, Inc. and Miss Leonora Anderson, advertising manager of J. P. Allen & Company, under the sponsorship of the woman's division of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, are in the second month of their studies, with nearly 45 pupils enrolled.

Classes opened October 1 and have been held twice a week, from 7 to 9 o'clock Tuesdays and Fridays, in the classrooms, 201-302 and 1020, Glen building.

It was announced in the beginning of the school term that no more pupils could be accommodated, but now,

CO-ED IS ASSISTANT EDITOR 'THE WHEEL'

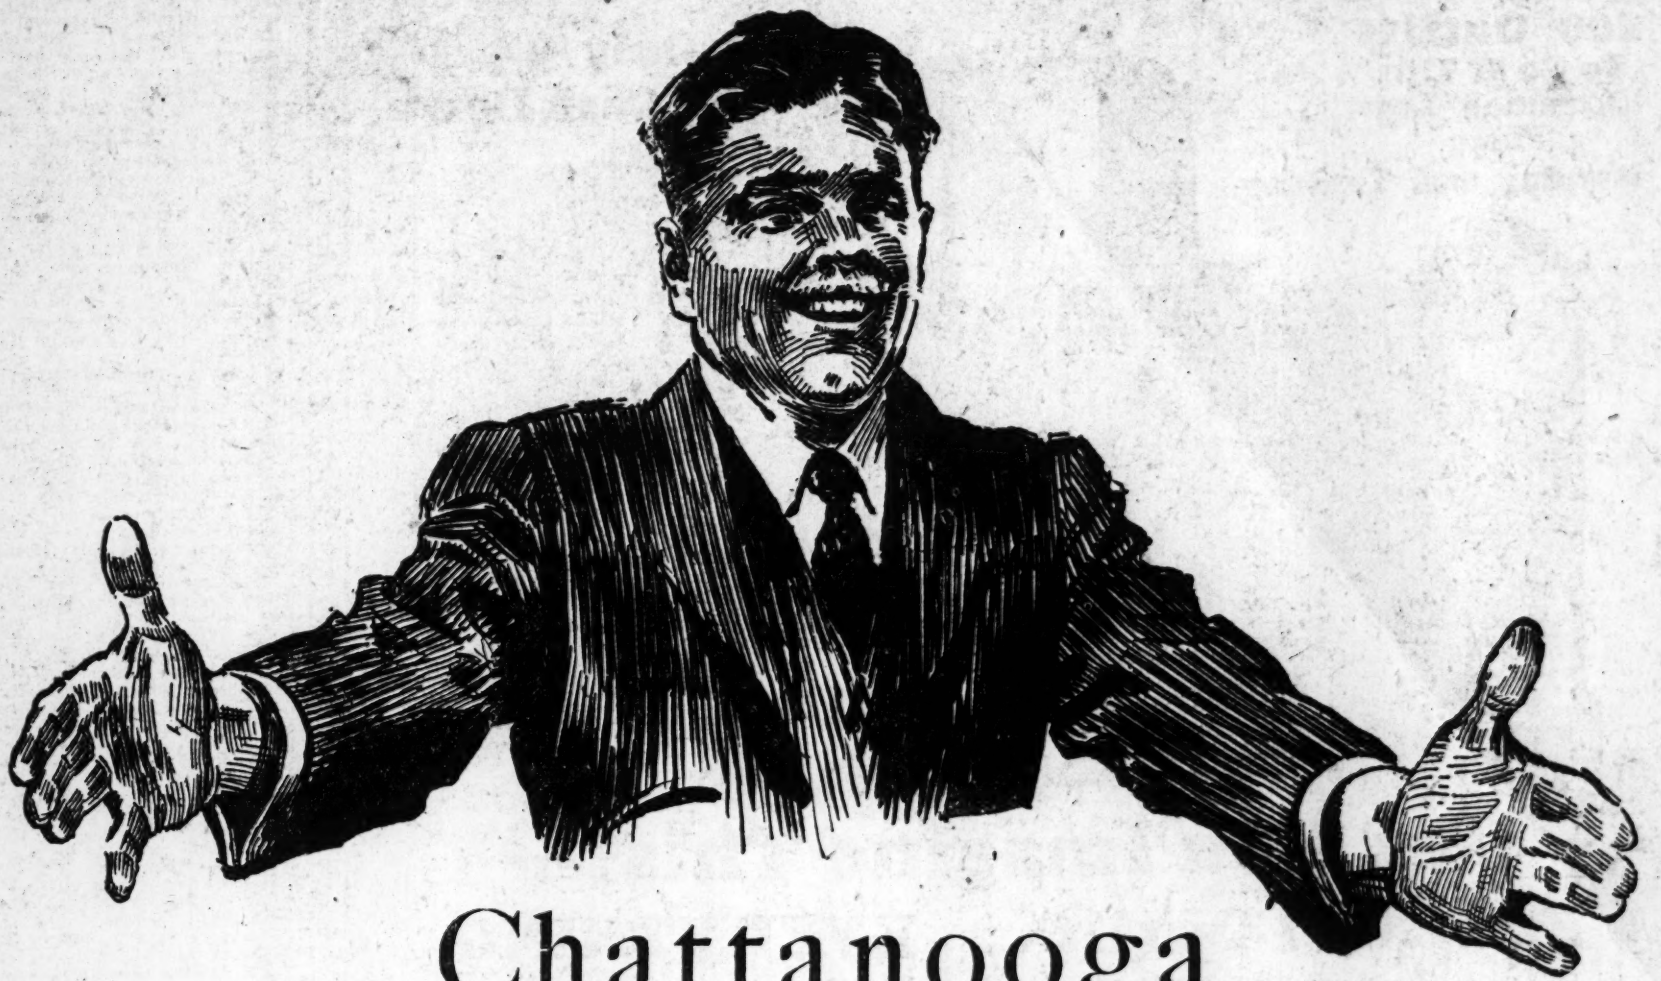

EDITOR 'THE WHEEL' WEEKLY AT EMORY

"The Wheel," a weekly student publication at Emory, edited by William Rivers, Thursday announced the appointment of Miss Louise Cunningham, of Atlanta, as an assistant editor.

Miss Cunningham is the first co-ed ever appointed to aid in the publication of the student weekly. She is a freshman in the college of arts and sciences.

Splendid progress is being made by the pupils in both courses. There are beginners and advanced classes in commercial art and in advertising, and all four groups are accomplishing excellent results. The advanced art group works closely with the advanced advertising group, the copy writers planning advertisements and the artists doing the illustrating, and, in some cases, the layout, just as they would do in any advertising office or agency.

New Deputy.
Waycross, Ga., November 2. — (Special.)—C. Fred Justice, former chief of police of Waycross, has accepted appointment as deputy sheriff of Wayne county.

Chattanooga Extends a Cordial Welcome to All Georgians

COMPLETION of the beautiful new highway connecting Chattanooga and Atlanta, marking the culmination of long, untiring effort, brings a closer and warmer business and social relationship between two of the South's finest cities, as well as the splendid cities of Marietta, Acworth, Kennesaw, Cartersville, Adairsville, Calhoun, Dalton, Ringgold, and other communities en route.

Chattanooga has much of interest in common with Georgia, for some of Chattanooga's most important developments lie within Georgia territory.

We cordially invite you to share with us the beauty of our superb scenery, interest of historic environment, and pleasure of mountain resorts. Visit Lookout Mountain, Signal Mountain, Chickamauga Battlefields, Cameron Hill, Missionary Ridge, Orchard Knob, and numerous other points of interest.

Chattanooga is interesting industrially because of her marked manufacturing diversifications. Over 400 plants are located here, making more than 1,500 different articles.

We hope our Georgia neighbors will take advantage of this new highway and visit us often, remembering that a hearty welcome awaits you at more. The former has ranked high in scholarship and activities on the campus. Hall was president of his class last year, has done commendable work on the publications, and took part in freshman athletics. Undergraduates are being nominated this year at the request of those in charge of the award, it was stated.

ATLANTANS NAMED AS EMORY RHODES SCHOLAR ENTHUS

George Craft and Max Hall, Atlantans, have been named as Emory's candidates in the 1929 election for Rhodes scholar in the state of Georgia. Dr. T. H. Jack, vice president of the university, has announced.

Applications have already been sent to the state committee on selection, consisting of Robert C. Alston, Atlanta, chairman; E. Warren Moise, Atlanta; W. B. Stubbs, Valdosta; R.

P. Brooks, Athens, and W. S. Bryan, Atlanta. The selection will take place on December 7.

Briefs in Augusta Gas Rate Litigation To Be Submitted

James A. Perry, chairman of the Georgia Public Service Commission, announced Saturday that both the Georgia Utilities Corporation and the city of Augusta would file briefs in the litigation over gas rates which has been taken under advisement by the commission.

A complete record of the case will be prepared and duplicate copies submitted to the company and city, after which 15 days will be allowed for the preparation of briefs.

The proposal to revise the gas rates at Augusta began last spring, when a commission ordered the gas company to show cause why such revision should not be made.

TRADE ASSOCIATIONS PLAN HOLIDAY SALES

Retail Merchants' Association To Hold "Sales Clinic" Next Thursday.

The second weekly session of the Atlanta Retail Merchants' Association pre-Christmas retail sales clinic will be held Thursday evening at the Chamber of Commerce assembly hall at 6:45 p. m.

The purpose of the sales clinic is to give the executives and sales people the benefit of several hundred up-to-date retail selling ideas that the Retail Merchants' Association has secured from all over America.

One of the outstanding organizations affiliated with the Retail Merchants' Association—the Atlanta Radio Dealers' Association—will hold its monthly meeting on Wednesday evening at 6:30 o'clock, with supper at the Wineoff hotel. The membership of this association is made up not only of retailers, but of jobbers, wholesalers and factory representatives of the radio industry. The association was organized the early part of this year, and has a number of splendid accomplishments to its credit. The present officers are A. H. Foster, president; R. D. Bame, vice president; Ed. Yancey, secretary-treasurer, and C. V. Hohenstein, executive secretary.

The board of directors of the Arcade Co-operative Association, which will meet Tuesday at 10 a. m. in the civic room of the Peachtree Arcade, will consider a number of plans to promote Christmas trade for the retail stores in the Arcade building. L. M. Anderson, chairman of the committee on Christmas decorations, and J. V. Wellborn, chairman of the committee on advertising and publicity, will each submit a report of plans for the approval of the board.

The arcade association is made up of tenants of the building and is affiliated with the Atlanta Retail Merchants' Association. Officers of the association are L. G. Fulton, president; J. V. Wellborn, first vice president; Jack Weinstock, second vice president; Miss Margaret A. Waike, secretary-treasurer, and C. V. Hohenstein, executive secretary.

The semi-monthly meeting of the Mail Service Association of Atlanta will be held on Tuesday at 12:30 p. m. at the association's office, 1106 Citizens and Southern Bank building. The members of the association, during the past week had on display in the Piedmont hotel a most interesting outline of a number of direct-by-mail campaigns, which was viewed by a large number of the businessmen of the city. This display was brought direct from Cleveland, where about two weeks ago the national convention was held.

The mail association is affiliated with the Atlanta Retail Merchants' Association, and the officials are V. Manget Davis, president; Claude Grizard, Jr., vice president; Mrs. P. H. Gilbert, director; Mrs. James M. Johnson, director, and C. V. Hohenstein, executive secretary.

Sam A. Wardlaw Estate Receiver Named by Court

An order appointing Jack Broyles temporary receiver of the estate of the late Samuel A. Wardlaw and restraining creditors from advertising or offering for sale certain houses and lots mentioned in Wardlaw's will was signed Saturday by Judge John D. Humphries in Fulton superior court. The order was issued on the petition of Mrs. Alma McVey, of Oklahoma, a legatee under the will, and was made returnable November 9.

Mrs. McVey alleges that she was named with Broyles as an executor of the estate, but that because her residence is so far away from Atlanta she declined the post. Under the will, Mrs. McVey is to receive 30 acres of land in Cobb county, 120 in Greene county, 10 in Clayton county, some notes and the residue of a life insurance policy, the petition states.

The plaintiff alleges that Wardlaw dealt extensively in real estate, and that a great deal of the real estate is encumbered with loans which constitute liabilities on the estate. The will confers no power on the executor to sell property or borrow money except on permission of the county ordinary, and such sales must be made before the courthouse door, the petition states. Mrs. McVey alleges that owing to the depreciated condition which she says now prevails in the real estate market, public sales of this nature will probably result in an almost total sacrifice of the estate and there will be danger to her of loss of a large part of her legacy.

EMORY INSTRUCTOR MAKES EXPERIMENT ON PINE SPECIES

W. B. Redmond, biology instructor at Emory, is completing a two-year experiment dealing with the life cycle of a certain species of pine tree (Pinus Taeda) found on the campus. It is said to be the first experiment of its kind performed in the south on this species of pine.

Since the beginning of the tedious work Mr. Redmond has made over 800 lantern slides of different stages of the tree's growth and has enough material for many more. The experiment is cytological, or cellular. It was discovered that it takes two years for the development of the seed after the first appearance of the cones.

1,152 NEW PHONES ARE INSTALLED HERE IN MONTH

A total of 1,152 new telephones was added to the Atlanta system during October. The net gain for the year is 3,924 new telephones, making a total of 63,472 now in service. It is estimated that there will be more than 70,000 telephones in Atlanta by the end of the year.

Telephone growth has been active in Atlanta during this year and is said to be meeting the estimates of the engineers. In anticipation of the continued growth the Southern Bell has under way a large amount of new construction work in addition to the new telephone building.

ROMA AND AUGUSTUS MAKE WINTER TOURS

Special winter voyages, away from the snow and into the sun, are announced for the Augustus and the Roma. For those who run away from low temperatures, sleet and snow these tours taking the southern route to Europe and the Mediterranean from New York offer miniature Lido on the upper decks of the ships. Stops are made at Cadiz, Spain; Gibraltar; Naples, Villefranche, port of Nice and Genoa.
